—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

AT THE opening yesterday, Wall Street reminded you of cheerful Robin Hood and his merry men, when "Some would run and some would jump and some would play artillery."

Wall Street skies were bright, everything was gay, good news from all sorts of places.

And suddenly the money-lenders reminded you of the monkey that would not drink milk after he had tasted whisky.

THE money-lenders, having tasted 15 and 20 per cent, have no interest in old-fashioned interest rates.

They called $60,000,000 of loans. Interest jumped to 15 per cent soon, wan speculators looked like Sennacherib's soldiers, after "the Angel of Death spread his wings on the blast and breathed in the face of the foe as he passed."

SCIENCE in the human brain will seek the cause of crime and other mental troubles.

Science will have to go a long way back. Fifteen hundred million years ago the crust of the earth was already solid and life, according to science, traveling on some meteor through the absolute zero of the ether, started in earth's salt seas.

About a million years ago man appeared, learned to fasten a sharp flint at the end of a club, an invention that made him boss of the world and started his "civilization."

A long line of animals, locked up back of that low forehead, looked out under the projecting eyebrows. The business of suppressing those ancestral animals is not yet finished. Hence crime.

At least, that is what science says.

OUR DEBT is reduced to $16,931,000,000. Mr. Mellon will have a surplus of close to $400,000,000 at the end of the calendar year, and income tax on earned incomes may be cut down. So rejoice.

DURING the year Mr. Mellon reduced the national debt by $673,000,000, which means, every year hereafter, a saving in interest of $54,000,000.

HUNDREDS of thousands cheered King George returning to his palace in London.

Other thousands, in Madrid, carrying British flags, cheered the British embassy because a British boat saved their fliers. They also cheered their queen, an English princess;

Good times for British royalty.

TODAY, at noon Lord Sankey, in the House of Lords, will read "the king's speech"—the king is not well enough to read it. Lord Sankey, lord chancellor of England, is part of the labor party, and the speech that he will read, for the king, will be a speech written by Ramsay MacDonald, socialist head of the British Labor party and British prime minister.

That should make British royalty thoughtful.

JUNE was a marvelous month for that sound test of prosperity, automobile production. Henry Ford is back in his stride, after junking everything about the old car, except the name.

He broke all Ford records, old and new, on June twenty-sixth, turning out 9,183 cars in one day.

WILMER STULTZ, who flew the Atlantic with Amelia Earhart, was killed yesterday when his Waco biplane, belonging to John Hay Whitney, went into a tailspin.

IN JUSTICE to aviation, it should be said that the fault, apparently, was not with the plane, but with the reckless daring of the pilot.

Flying perilously low, and up only twenty minutes, he had performed dangerous "stunts," close to the ground.

KEMAL PASHA, dictator of Turkey, may visit us. He will be welcome, and interesting, for, dictator or no dictator, he is a real man, inheriting the power of the ancient Turks.

ANYBODY, able in a few days to get rid of the Caliph, take the Fez from the heads of men and the veil from the faces of women and prove Mohammed himself out of date, must have power.

WHEN one told Napoleon of some good piece of work the emperor would say: "Very good. What did they do the NEXT day?"

Bobby Jones could answer that question satisfactorily.

ON Saturday he tied Espinosa for the Open golf championship of America. The next day he beat Espinosa, doing the two rounds of eighteen holes in 72 and 69.

"Anybody could lead my band—for a little while," said Sousa.

BRITISH RULER BACKS ARMS REDUCTION

Monarch Also Reveals Move For Liquor Question Study And Russian Recognition

By HARRY R. FLORY.
International News Service.

LONDON, July 2.—Hope for early reduction of naval armaments was expressed in King George's speech opening the new Parliament today. The speech was read by the Lord Chancellor.

It was revealed that the new labor government is "examining conditions" under which diplomatic relations may be reopened between Britain and Soviet Russia.

UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF

The speech outlined measures designed by Premier Ramsay MacDonald's cabinet for the relief of British unemployment. It stated that the nationalization of coal is under contemplation. However, while the state may take over the mineral it would not nationalize the industry itself.

Reference to the government's intention to investigate the liquor traffic may be the first step towards partial prohibition in Britain.

Dealing with disarmament, the King's speech said:

"Conversations have commenced with the ambassador of the United States on the subject of naval disarmament as a consequence of which, it is my earnest hope, my government will insure, in cooperation with my governments in the dominions, the government of India and the governments of

BELL TAXED ON MAGEE 'DEBT'

The so-called "bad debt" of $82,460.35 of former Mayor W. A. Magee to John A. Bell, bankrupt banker and coal operator, now in jail, is subject to an income tax, Judge Nelson McVicar held in an opinion today in the suit of the government to recover $257,552 in taxes for 1923 and 1924 from the bankrupt estate.

Tax on the alleged "bad debt" and other taxes imposed by the government have been opposed by James N. Jarvis, Bell trustee in bankruptcy.

The court in its opinion also sustained the tax claim based on the assessment of $200,00, being the value of the Lauraine Magneto Company stock, holding it was the duty of Bell to claim the loss in 1921, the year it occurred, instead of making loss claim for 1923.

In reference to the alleged Magee debt, which was said to have grown out of Bell guaranteeing Magee's account with a brokerage concern, opinion read:

"Magee was mayor of Pittsburgh at the time, receiving a salary of $10,000 per year; he also was receiving income in the amount of $10,000, or upwards per annum from his law practice. The evidence showed that his assets and liabilities were about the same.

"By reason of the high moral character of Mr. Magee, the debtor; his large earning capacity, property holdings and standing as a citizen and as a public official, the evidence (which was meager) would not have justified the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, or the referee, in finding that this debt was worthless.

"There is no evidence that it was charged off. The claim of the government, based on the assessment, must be sustained."

ALARM BY GIRL TRAPS BURGLAR IN HAZELWOOD

Accomplice Escapes in Gun Battle; Prisoner's Parents Taken as Police Find Loot

Miss Hilda Huntsman, 19, has to her credit today the capture of a burglar suspect who tried to rob her home at 4606 Poland street, a capture attended by a battle of bullets that roused Hazelwood residents from their sleep at mid night.

Miss Huntsman was walking up the steps to her home when she saw a moving shadow in the front room and a searchlight playing about the walls. She hurried to the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Robert McKnight, and telephoned police.

FIRES AT POLICEMAN

A half-dozen police were going over the house a few minutes later when one of two alleged burglars jumped out of a parlor window and ran down a hill toward Hazelwood avenue, after firing two shots at Patrolman James A. McCormick, who was standing on the front porch.

McCormick returned the fire, but the man escaped.

It was McCormick who found the second suspect a few minutes later behind the piano in the front room. As they scuffled, the burglar eluded the policeman and ran into the arms of other police in the kitchen.

FATHER, MOTHER ARRESTED

The man identified himself as John Sandor, 23, of 4710 Gladstone street, just two blocks from the Huntsman home. Police went there and arrested his mother and father after finding, they said, radios, jewelry, clothes, locks and purses which might have been taken in numerous burglaries in the Hazelwood-Greenfield district.

They also found what they described as a burglar's diary on

CARDS TACKLE PIRATES HERE

The Cardinals flew into town this morning to take on our Pirates after a sorry showing in St. Louis with the fast-going Cubs. The Redbirds are here to help make the Fourth of July interesting in the Oakland orchard.

Manager Billy Southworth has a fine ball club, aside from the pitching division. The Redbird twirlers have been having a tough time. The Cards lost eight in a row to the Cubs before getting a tie in yesterday's abbreviated contest.

The first game of a four-game set will be played at Forbes Field this afternoon. Manager Bush has chosen Ervin Brame for mound duty in the opener. Either Alexander or Mitchell is expected to twirl for the Cardinals.

Morning and afternoon games between the Buccos and Cards are on the bill for the Fourth, with a single game slated for tomorrow.

'29 SURPLUS MAY ALLOW SLASH

President Must Study Effect Of Legislation on Funds Before Definite Stand

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(AP.)—President Hoover is hopeful that the treasury surplus at the end of the fiscal year just closed may lead to a reduction in federal taxes, but he still feels that there are many factors to be determined before a adefinite program can be formulated.

Before tax reduction can be effected, the President said today, the effect upon the treasury of legislation approved in the last twelve months must be determined, the extent to which routine expenditures can be reduced must be known, and prospective revenue must be more closely estimated.

WILL KNOW NOVEMBER 1.

By November 1, the President said, these things should be known. He did not say, however, whether he though it possible to introduce tax revision legislation at the regular session of Congress next winter.

In reply to questions at his regular Tuesday press conference, the President said:

"We are giving careful study to the possibility of tax reduction. We all hope that the situation may work out on the side of safe surplus for material relief. We must determine three things before there can be any conclusion upon the subject.

"First—We must know what the effects will be of the legislation during the last 12 months which has greatly increased expenditure for the present fiscal year beyond the original budget. The new and large program for naval armaments, the increased expenditures on army and navy aviation, the rebuilding of army posts and increased expenditures on veterans' services—in addition to the necessity in the Mediterranean fly and farm relief work, have all intervened since the budget was passed by Congress.

BUDGET EXCEEDED

"Second—We must know how far we can reduce expenditures of the government in other directions partially compensate for these increases imposed during the last 12 months' period. We know that expenditures for the fiscal year just passed exceed the original budget by over $200,000,000 and much of legislation expanding expenditures has not yet come into effect. Completion of the budget for the year beginning July 1, 1930, will be helpful in determining the rate of these increased expenditures.

"Third—We must know how far the increase in revenue is due to the temporary stock exchange activity."

FISHER REJECTS COAL POLICE

HARRISBURG, July 2.—The first applicant for a commission as an industrial policeman has failed to meet the standards as set up by the administration, the Governor's office announced. The applicant was John P. McPoyle, Philadelphia, who sought employment with the Reading company.

McPoyle's application was turned down because he was involved in the police shake-up in Philadelphia during recent months. Investigation by state police brought to light that McPoyle had been discharged from the Philadelphia police force.

The investigation showed that he had been demoted from house sergeant, reprimanded, charged with insubordination, neglect of duty, conduct unbecoming an officer and discharged. He was dismissed from the police force on May 2, 1929. His record also shows that from 1925 his bank deposits were in excess of $27,000 and that during the period his salary never was more than $2,500 a year.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(INS.)—Rear Admiral Bradley A. Fiske, of the Navy, retired, who invented the torpedo plane, was awarded a $198,500 judgment against the government in the United States Circuit Court here today in his suit for patent infringement.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of naval aeronautics, was named as the defendant, but the court ruled the government must pay the amount, as Moffett was responsible only as a requisitioning officer.

MELLON FIRM REFUND AIRED

The payment of a $1,287,426 tax refund to the Aluminum Company of America, in which the Mellon family is heavily interested, was brought to the attention of the Joint Congressional Committee on internal taxation at Washington by its staff of experts today.

Officials of the Aluminum Company here stated that the refund was granted a year ago and that publication of the fact had been made when the entire list of tax refunds was made available to the public.

The report stated that the refund was a part of a total of $106,569,893 returned to taxpayers in amounts over $75,000 during the seven months from June 1 to December 31, 1928.

The Aluminum Company's refund was reported as due principally to "inventory adjustment" on its 1917 taxes. The company's total tax for 1917 was cut from $8,078,961 to $6,791,534 as a result of the refund.

LONDON, July 2.—(AP.)—London morning papers today said the much-talked of agreement between British and German film groups had been signed with involved capital mounting to approximately £60,000,000, or $300,000,000.

CABLE SNAPS ON ELEVATOR

A dozen passengers, several of them employes of National Tube Company, had an exciting moment in an elevator in the Frick Building today. One of five overhead steel cables snapped as the car descended past the tenth floor.

The passengers, ignorant of the break, were leaving the elevator at the main floor when the cable crashed on top of the car, creating much noise and consternation. Nobody was hurt. There was no danger, as the cable was not a part of the car's control.

The new Cadillac distributing organization will maintain headquarters at 5609 Baum boulevard, for a long period of time the home of McAlister Brothers.

Kline's North Side Tribute Copied From Auto 'Ad'

The origin of the poetic testimonial which Northside political leaders submitted to Mayor Charles H. Kline when they asked him to be a candidate for re-election is no longer a secret.

The author, it has been discovered, is not a North Side ward chairman with a flair for language.

In fact, the memorial it not original.

Its first appearance was as an advertisement for the Cadillac Motor Car Company, printed in the Saturday Evening Post of January 2, 1915. It seems to have appeared several times since that date, its last reincarnation being in the petition signed by the Northsiders.

"That which is good or great makes itself known, no matter how loud the clamor of denial," reads the petition, "That which deserves to live—lives."

The ad must deserve to live, for it has had a remarkably long life for a literary effort of its kind.

W. W. Claney, Jr., of Erie, was the first reader of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to discover that the North Side politicians had rummaged through the pages of old magazines for their memorial.

Lost $2,000 Gem Found Through Drummer

Paddy McGivern, of 1005 Swissvale avenue, agreed today that things are not always what they seem.

McGivern was beating the drums in a dance at the Pittsburgh Country Club. Someone tossed a piece of jewelry, found on the floor, to the orchestra leader. He tossed it onto McGivern's drum.

A short time later the music stopped and a score of dancers began to search the dance floor. Mrs. Lester H. Vom Hofe, of 5633 Callowhill street, dancing, had discovered that her diamond brooch, valued at $2,000, was missing. The orchestra looked on, bored, not aware of what was going on.

Last night, McGivern, changing clothes, found that piece of jewelry in a pocket. He tossed it to Mrs. McGivern.

"Some more of Woolworth's glass," said he. "I don't know how those women lose so much of that stuff."

"Paddy," said Mrs. McGivern, "that's real jewelry. There was a story in the Sun-Tele today about a brooch like this."

Today Mrs. Vom Hofe had her brooch again.

WIFE DENIES FORTUNE IS MISSING

Escaped From Captors After Out-Drinking Them, Passaic Man Claims Vaguely

International News Service.

EAST ORANGE, N. J., July 2.—Willard H. Elliott, Passaic banker, who mysteriously disappeared Wednesday, and who appeared just as mysteriously early today at the police station in Nutley, N. J., was back at his home here today—in seclusion.

He told the police he had been kidnaped and held captive by two men, finally effecting his escape by means of a ruse.

His wife denied Elliott's $150,000 fortune had disappeared with him.

TELLS OF KIDNAPING

Later, in his home, Elliott gave a detailed account of his kidnaping.

He said he had been waylaid by three men near Passaic, N. J., and, after a drive of half an hour, had been taken into a house.

"The men told me they were Chicago gunmen and acting under orders, but that if I would behave no harm would come to me," Elliott said. "They treated me fine and we played poker and drank wine nearly all the time. I lost $2.80, all my ready cash and gave them my belt buckle as a souvenir.

"If it had not been for worry about my wife, I would have had a wonderful time."

After hearing Elliott's story, Lieut. Clintock gave the facts to Passaic police in the hope they can find the place where Elliott was held.

APPEARS IN DAZE

When Elliott appeared in Nutley this morning he seemed to be in a daze. He came there is a licenseless automobile.

He was unable to tell much about his imprisonment, except to say that they may have intended to hold him for ransom.

Elliott was rather vague in his story to the police. He managed to escape by means of a ruse, he explained, saying he started to drink with his captors and when they became intoxicated he slipped away.

THEFT SUSPECT TO BE QUIZZED

William Brown, 38, of 2105 Wylie avenue, arrested by city detectives late yesterday as a suspect in connection with safe robberies in the East End, was to be questioned with Albert Thompson, 23, of 12 Binler way, who was caught shortly after a safe in the hardware store of Graff Brothers, 5912 Penn avenue, had been forced open early yesterday.

Thompson, after an eight-hour grilling, admitted, police said, being a member of a gang which has been robbing safes in the East End for the last six weeks.

The Graff robbery was frustrated by Patrolman Edward Maher, who found four men pounding off the combination of a safe in the store early yesterday. Maher summoned aid, but before other officers arrived the yeggs fled. Shortly afterwards Thompson was caught when he tried to escape in an automobile which was under surveillance of two plainclothesmen.

SAYS OFFICER SHOT AT HIM

A warrant for City Patrolman Ira E. Bing, charging felonious assault and battery, was sworn out before Justice of the Peace George B. Shields, of Wilkinsburg, today by Harry Kelly, 2943 Penn avenue, who alleged Bing had fired three shots at him after an argument over an alleged traffic violation.

According to the information, Bing, who lives at 619 East End avenue and reports at Squirrel Hill Police Station, encountered Kelly in Lamont way in the rear of the Yellow Cab garage at South Highland avenue and Ravenna street. Kelly, a cab driver, had turned in his cab and was preparing to drive his own car home.

Bing told Kelly he was not permitted to park in Lamont way and ordered him to leave. Kelly alleges that when he drove away Bing called to him and, when he did not halt at once, fired three shots, of which one punctured a tire on Kelly's auto.

Kelly is a former patrolman.

young Sandor. In it was a detailed report of numerous robberies. A typical entry, police said, was this:

"June 12—Robbed a house at —— street. Got a radio worth $75."

TWELVE THEFTS ADMITTED

The young man admitted 12 robberies, police reported, but they tried to lay to him more of the 23 burglaries in his district in the last two months. His mother, Mrs. Mary Sandor, has been arrested as a purse-snatcher and has a police record, police said. The son himself was an inmate of the Pennsylvania Training School, Morganza.

The father, John Sandor, 47, has not been linked with any of the robberies, but police said he was breathless and excited when they reached the home.

Mrs. Sandor was released on her own recognizance to care for four younger children, Julius, 12; William, 9; Helen, 7, and Jesse, 5.

FATHER, SON HELD

Sandor and his son, John, were detained for a hearing tomorrow in Oakland station. Police say young Sandor was attired in a black shirt, black trousers, canvas shoes with rubber soles and gloves.

KLINE FORCES OPEN BATTLE

The forces of Mayor Charles H. Kline today began their active campaign for his re-election when a group led by P. J. O'Malley made a written demand upon Owen McManus, anti-Kline chairman in the Second Ward, that he call a meeting "for the discussion of matters pertaining to the welfare of the Republican party in the Second ward and such other matters as any wish to bring before the meeting."

This was interpreted as a move by O'Malley, Kline henchman, to regain power in the ward, scene of many bitter and some bloody election battles. The demand bore 27 signatures. The ward committee is composed of 45 members.

TEACHERS CITE POWER TRUST ACTIVITIES

Safeguard All Schools Against Propaganda, Plea; To Name New Leader

International News Service.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 2.—Citing the activities of the so-called "power trust" as disclosed by the Federal Trade Commission as an "illustration of an attempt to influence textbooks in a partisan direction," the legislative committee of the National Educational Association here today urged educators to oust the classroom propagandist.

Free school supplies, such as books, pamphlets, pens and pencils, book-covers and contests conducted by outside interests were enumerated by the committee as the work of school propagandists.

Balloting for the selection of officers started this morning. A spirited contest is being waged for the presidency between Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle, Lincoln, Neb., and Miss Effie MacGregor, Minneapolis, Minn.

The legislative committee's report asserted schools are being flooded with advertising propaganda menacing the independence of thought and education.

"A myriad of influences now seek to mold thought in preconceived directions," the report said. "There is danger that too much of our thinking will be based on slogans and half truths. To guard against this danger the school should increase its efforts to develop the power of critical judgment and independent thought."

NINE ARRESTED IN DRY RAIDS

Prohibition agents and constables last night raided nine places, arrested nine persons and confiscated a large quantity of liquor.

Firecrackers Jar Man's Nerves; Kills Self

WAUKEGAN, Ill., July 2.—(INS.)—Unable to endure the bursting of firecrackers, Alex Benson, 41, was dead today, a suicide.

Trying to read on his porch while fireworks crackled nearby, Benson, suffering from a nervous disorder, finally flung down his newspaper and complained to his wife, "Something's going to happen. That boy next door just tossed a cannon cracker that exploded right in my face—nearly blinded me. I can't stand it."

A few minutes later Benson went to the basement and slashed his throat.

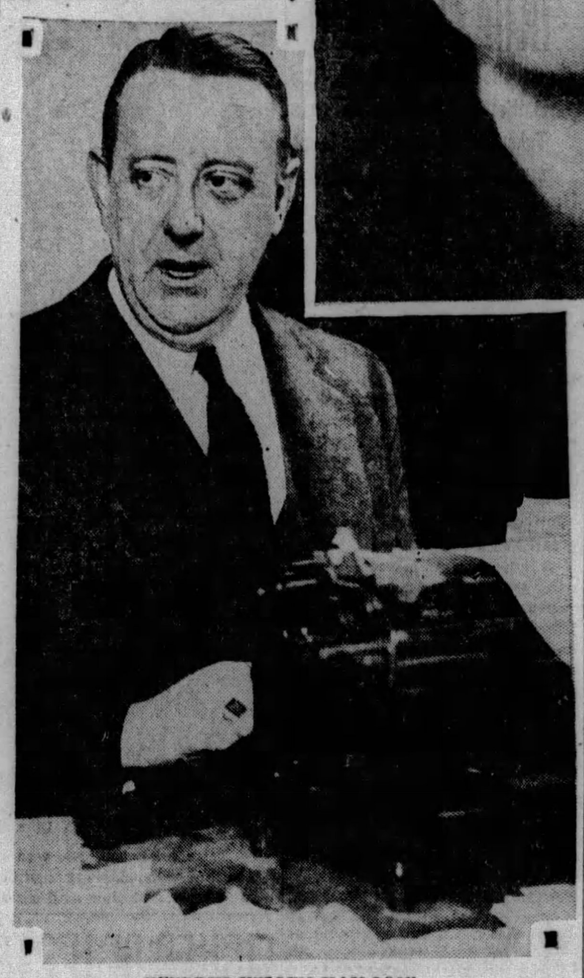
MOLINE, Ill., July 2.—(INS.)—Claiming a new altitude record for women, Mrs. Phoebe Fairgrave Omlie, of Memphis, Tenn., today awaited confirmation by the National Aeronautical Association of her 25,982-foot ascent over the Moline airport.

That figure was recorded by the altimeter, she said. Instruments to indicate the height attained were sealed before the flight and have been sent to Washington, D. C.

SHIFTING THEIR WIVES

FRANCES GOODRICH

Counsel says Miss Goodrich has reached a separation settlement under which Van Loon over a period of years will pay a sum not to exceed $10,000.



HENDRIK WILLEM VAN LOON

O'NEILL DIVORCE SUIT UP TODAY

RENO, Nev., July 2.—(AP.)—Trial of the divorce suit filed against Eugene O'Neill by his second wife, Mrs. Agnes Boulton O'Neill, was set for trial here today.

Papers in the case were sealed at the request of Mrs. O'Neill when the case was filed. It was understood, however, that she alleges desertion.

It was said when Mrs. O'Neill came here three months ago to obtain a divroce she was fulfilling a proviso in their marriage ceremony whereby each agreed to give the other freedom should love for another rise. O'Neill, it was reported, told his wife he cared for someone else and that the "someone" cared for him.

Mrs. O'Neill, who has two children by former marriages, and the playwright were married in Provincetown, Mass., April 12, 1918. O'Neill's first wife, Kathleen Jenkins, of New York, divorced him in 1912, three years after their marriage.

EUGENE O'NEILL MRS. O'NEILL AND ONA

Divorce action by Mrs. O'Neill against her literary husband was scheduled for today in Reno. Although she charges desertion, friends whisper of another woman and recall that when the O'Neills married they agreed either could seek a divorce should either lose his heart to another. They have two children, Ona and Shane.

Seal Jumps Right Into Angler's Boat

SAN RAFAEL, Cal.—Fred Crocker, San Rafael real estate dealer, is a total abstainer, so some credence is given this fish story. Crocker shoved off in his rowboat for a fishing trip on the bay and suddenly discovered a dark object curled up in the back of his craft. "So help me, it was a hair seal," Crocker affirmed, adding that his wife is out a coat because the critter wasn't of the fur variety.

SEEKS DIVORCE TO AID RIVAL

NEW YORK, July 2.—(INS.)—Frances Goodrich, actress, is planning to institute proceedings in the near future, which will gain her a divorce from Hendrick Willem Van Loon, noted author, so that he may rewed his second wife, Helen Criswell, it was learned here.

Van Loon returned to Miss Criswell after a year of married life with Miss Goodrich and they are now living together in Holland, according to friends. Van Loon and Miss Criswell will be remarried as soon as Miss Goodrich obtains her decree.

Opposing counsel declare they have reached a separation settlement, Van Loon having agreed to pay Miss Goodrich over a period of years a sum not to exceed $10,000.

FIND MISSING DAVIDSON PAPERS

Final Wasson Accounting Not Recovered; Attorney Returns Some of Records

Some of the missing records in the Eleanor H. Davidson $3,000,000 estate case have been returned to the office of Prothonotary John Vogt.

The second and final accounting of Henry G. Wasson and George H. Calvert, who resigned as a committee for Mrs. Davidson after objections were filed by her relatives to their accounting of the estate, is still missing.

Where the accounting of the case is nobody in authority at the Prothonotary's office today would admit they could tell. Thomas H. Tyson, who is acting head of the office during the absence of Vogt, said that he did not know anything about the papers. Vogt is vacationing in California.

John Wilson, clerk in the Prothonotary's office in charge of the files, said that the papers were returned yesterday by a messenger from the office of Attorney Walter Lyon.

Tyson said that attorneys in the case have requested that the second and final account be transcribed in the special docket provided for records of such cases.

Recent entries in the prothonotary's appearance docket indicate that the case has been practically closed. The last entry is a court order providing that "Henry G. Wasson and George H. Calvert shall be discharged from any further liability."

REFERS TO DEBT PACT

The royal speech referred to the report of the reparations experts, including the Young plan. The King said it was being considered by the government in preparation for a conference of representatives of the interested powers, adding:

"Settlement of this problem will enable the occupying powers to proceed with evacuation of the Rhineland."

The speech announced that the British government is consulting with the dominions regarding the signing of an optional clause in the statutes of the permanent court of international justice.

It was while dealing with international affairs the speech revealed the steps that are being taken which may possibly result in a resumption of diplomatic relations between Britain and Soviet Russia.

While on the subject of domestic issues the speech stressed the desire of the government to deal effectively with the evils of unemployment. To this end, it was announced, the government is preparing schemes for improvement of transportation and the following other measures:

1—Stimulation of depressed export trades.

2—Economic development of overseas possessions.

3—Improvement of the condition of agriculture.

4—Providing greater opportunities for overseas migration.

MACDONALD FOR PARLEY

An eventual naval disarmament conference, with England and the United States taking the leadership, was envisioned this afternoon by the long-awaited pronouncement of Premier Ramsay MacDonald upon Anglo-American affairs, especially their naval reduction aspect.

In this statement, the Laborite premier not only gave promise for disarmament action, but made it plain that England will meet her war debts. He said that Britain would not go back upon any of her contracts.

"No time is being lost," said the premier, "in agreeing to the modes of procedure and the order in which the problems should be approached. The government is anxious to build upon the Kellogg pact a disarmament policy which will recognize that pact as a living, controlling influence upon international policy."

BALDWIN CO-OPERATES

Stanley Baldwin, the former conservative prime minister, speaking in the debate on the reply to the speech from the throne this afternoon, declared that he and his friends would offer no factious opposition to the new government. They intended, he said, to assist His Majesty's government in being carried on, but demanded a certain amount of self control on both sides.

Royal Couple Renounces World for Religion

LONDON, July 2.—(INS.)—Prince and Princess Paterno, belonging to the most ancient and aristocratic house of Sicily, have startled European society by renouncing the world and its pleasures and vanities and taking up a life of seclusion and prayer, it was learned today.

The prince is donning the somber robe and cowl of the monastery, and the princess, formerly one of the most brilliant stars in Italian society, is becoming a nun.

This amazing event was revealed in a Central News dispatch from Rome today, which added that the prince and princess had given all their worldly possessions, said to total in the neighborhood of twenty-five million lire, to Pope Pius XI.

A statement from the Vatican declares that although the prince and princess have taken no steps toward legal separation, they have vowed to remain apart for the remainder of their lives.

Penny-in-Slot Machines On Streets to Be Tested

The flapper, the fat man and all others to whom the penny-in-the-slot weighing machine has been a source of both pleasure and sorrow will soon be benefited by regular inspections of such machines.

The law governing weighing machines had never been extended to the personal type until someone, angry because many such machines had disgeted hundreds of coppers without the slightest inclination toward a correct report of the avoirdupois deposited upon the platform, complained to the Pennsylvania Department of weights and measures.

As a result of this complaint legislation has been passed which requires the inspection of personal weighing machines and the addition of a device which will enable the inspector to render the machine incapable of receiving pennies in the case that it is found unreliable.

The inspectors will soon start on their rounds to weed out unreliable scales and thus guarantee the penny-depositor a correct return for his money.

STULTZ DEATH MAY BRING NEW YORK BAN ON AIR STUNTS

PLANE CRASH TOLL STIRS OFFICIALS

Noted Pilot Held Partly to Blame for Disaster in Which Three Lost Lives

By HOMER H. METZ.
International News Service Aviation Editor.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., July 2.—The appalling series of air disasters occurring near this field in the last 10 days may result in the adoption of a rigid ban on stunt flying all over Long Island and in the Metropolitan district, it developed today.

The cycle of fatal accidents which reached its climax yesterday in the death of Wilmer Stultz, trans-Atlantic aviator, and two flying companions, has aroused the ire of airport authorities, Department of Commerce officials and other aviation men.

DEATH DEPLORED

The death of Stultz, who plunged to earth in his Waco speed-wing biplane after going into a tail-spin at a height of 500 feet just outside the boundaries of this flying field, was generally deplored here today, but the consensus of opinion seemed to be that the aviator could have averted the fatal crash if he had adhered to the letter of the law governing flying activities in this vicinity.

Investigators for the Department of Commerce poking around in the wreckage of the plane found evidence to indicate that Stultz's passengers, Edward Harwood and Pasquale Castelluccio, had unwittingly "frozen" the dual controls of the little plane, thereby making it impossible for the pilot to right the ship when it went into its spin.

STULTZ NOT ABSOLVED

While this discovery may possibly explain the cause of the accident, it does not absolve Stultz from blame. Col. N. J. Boots, vice president and general manager of Roosevelt Field, declared that Stultz violated one of the first provisions of the universal flying code when he took his plane into the air without first making sure that the dual controls in the passenger's cockpit had been disconnected.

Stultz also violated other provisions of the flying regulations, according to Col. Boots, by stunting his plane at a low altitude.

Stultz was a pilot of wide experience, who first learned to fly during the World War with the Air Corps of both the Army and Navy. The high spot of his career was reached last year when he piloted the Friendship carrying Miss Amelia Earhart from Trepassey, N. F., to Burry Port, Wales.

HELPED BURY PAL

A few hours before he cracked up, Stultz had acted as pallbearer at funeral services for Jack Ashcraft, another veteran flier, who was killed Friday in the crash of the Answer, Miss Viola Gentry's endurance plane.

On the same day that Ashcraft and Miss Gentry plunged to earth, two Army fliers from Mitchel Field, a mile away from Roosevelt Field, crashed in a burning plane on the grounds of the Meadowbrook Country Club, bringing death to one of them, Corp. Elmer Barry.

On Thursday, three persons were killed and two were hurt when a plane piloted by Paul Micelli and owned by the Curtiss flying service dived into Barnegat Bay at Beach Haven, N. J. The plane's motor went dead when the craft was at a height of 80 feet.

Earlier in the week Francis Phillips was burned to death when his plane caught fire after crashing a short distance from Roosevelt Field.

SPANISH FLIERS WELCOMED AT GIBRALTAR

International News Service.

GIBRALTAR, July 2.—A squadron of Spanish seaplanes that circled and dipped in homage, greeted Maj. Ramon Franco, famous Spanish airman and his three companions when they arrived here today on board the British aircraft carrier Eagle.

A hero's welcome was accorded the quartet of Spanish fliers, who were picked up at sea after failing in their attempt to make a round-the-world flight. Seaplanes dropped bouquets of flowers as the Eagle came to anchor shortly after 9 o'clock.

PLANE ON DECK

The ill-fated round-the-wrold plane, Numancia, from which the airmen were picked up, could be seen on the deck of the Eagle, surrounded by a guard of marines and sailors.

Despite their long vigil while tossing helpless in their disabled seaplane, the men maintained hope of eventual rescue, according to the following narrative told by Maj. Franco shortly after his arrival:

"After descending into the sea we sent out radio messages giving our position, but apparently these were not picked up.

"Despite our predicament, being tossed by the seas and carried adrift before the winds, we never lost hope. We kept watch regularly.

RODE OUT GALE

"The plane behaved magnificently in the water. It rode out a gale which blew with great force on June 27.

"At 4 o'clock in the morning of June 29 Capt. Gallarza, who was on watch, sighted the lights of the Eagle about 20 miles distant. We lighted flares and sent them up to attract the attention of the ship. We were overjoyed to see the vessel turn and proceed towards us."

Perils and hardship had failed to efface the cheerful spirits of the Spaniards, it was revealed by Lieut. Kilroy, of the Eagle. In telling of the rescue, Lieut. Kilroy said:

TELLS OF RESCUE

"I was the officer on watch on the Eagle on June 29 when I saw lights at sea about 4 o'clock in the morning. I immediately communicated this information to my superior officer. The Eagle then moved in the direction of the lights and the Numancia was discovered bobbing on the surface of the sea.

"The seaplane was raised to the deck of the Eagle about 6 o'clock. Maj. Franco and his companions were exceedingly cheerful in spite of what they had passed through."

The Spanish authorities will give a banquet for the airmen and the officers of the Eagle at Algeciras tonight.

REED BALKS AT MEXICAN QUOTA

Dangerous to Apply Alien Restrictions Upon That Country Now, He Asserts

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(AP.)—Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, leader of the movement in the Senate to prevent repeal of the national origins quota basis, believes it is unnecessary at present to apply the restrictions to Mexico.

He set forth his position today in a letter to Capt. John B. Trevor, of New York, chairman of the American Coalition, made up of almost 199 organizations supporting the national origins plan.

He warned that to place Mexico on a quota might have serious international complications and result in diplomatic and legislative difficulties. Praising the "singularly successful" diplomacy of President Hoover and Ambassador Morrow in dealing with Latin America, he said administrative remedies already applied had resulted in cutting down Mexican immigration by 65 per cent.

He declared the victory for the national origins supporters "was conclusive" in the Senate, and predicted that further attempts to repeal or modify the provision, which President Hoover opposes, would fail.

REFUEL PLANE CRASHES

LOS ANGELES, July 2.—(AP.)—The attempt of Leo Nomis and Maurice Morrison to establish a new record for endurance flying came to an end here this morning when the motor of their tiny plane stopped 5,000 feet above the airport and they nosed down through a fog bank and crashed at the edge of Metropolitan Airport.

Both fliers were cut about the face and head. Their injuries were dressed at the field, after which they declared they would take off again as soon as their plane could be fixed.

They landed at 1:05 a. m., after 41 hours and 35 minutes in the air.

IGNITION BLAMED

Nomis said the wiring of the ignition system must have gone bad, as all the plane's lights went out when the engine stopped. The fog, hiding the landing field below, was blamed for the crash. Nomis praised the coolness and ability of Morrison, who was at the controls.

The fliers were optimistic over the prospects of setting a new record, and said they would be back in the air again in three or four days, depending on how seriously the plane was damaged. They hope to surpass the record of 172 hours, 31 minutes and 1 second held by Reginald Robbins and James Kelly, of Fort Worth, Tex.

CLEVELANDERS STILL UP

CLEVELAND, July 2.—(INS.)—Byron Newcomb and Roy Mitchell, contenders for the endurance flight record, shot past the 92-hour mark in their big blue Stinson-Detroiter monoplane at 3:38 p. m. today.

CULVER CITY, Cal., July 2.—(INS.)—Piloting a Buhl air sedan, Loren Mendell and R. B. (Pete) Reinhart hopped off from here at 7:29 a. m. today with an initial load of 150 gallons of gasoline in their attempt to shatter the world's refueling endurance record.

RESCUE FLIERS AS HOPE FADES

By A. H. J. MAXTED
Universal Service and London Daily Express Special Correspondent

GIBRALTAR, July 2.—"Saved from death by a hair's breadth—snatched from Davy Jones' special locker for trans-Atlantic fliers at the fifty-ninth minute of the twelfth hour."

That is the story of the rescue of Maj. Ramon Franco and his three Numancia companions, according to private reports received here from official British admiralty sources in London.

A Bison fleet reconnaisance plane left the H. M. S. Eagle, British aircraft carrier, at dawn Saturday morning with petrol for five hours' cruising.

UNKNOWN PILOT

The plane, whose pilot's name has not yet been learned, covered the Atlantic around the Azores Islands over the route the Spanish fliers were supposed to have followed. The British naval pilot covered several hundred miles in a wide circle around the mother-ship, always casting its eyes oceanward for wreckage.

As the pilot and observer anxiously scanned the sea from an altitude of 2,000 to 3,000 feet, they saw nothing but "white horses" kicked up on the face of the ocean by the variable winds.

The visibility was poor, and occasionally the reconnaisance plane descended lower to pass under flying scud. Finally, the lowering petrol gauge warned the pilot—whose name will soon become almost sainted in Spain—that it was time to return to the Eagle. He turned back, thus giving up the last hope of finding the Numancia.

MUSIC IN THE AIR

As we have the story here, the hours of searching had been so dull that the observer aboard the British scout plane began to play his harmonica on the return journey, but a casual lookout was kept up despite the beguilement of the mouth-organ music.

When they had gone but a short distance on their return flight, the observer saw what appeared to be a strange craft drifting ahead of the Bison plane. The speedy aircraft swooped down until those aboard saw the Numancia plainly, with her crew, frantically waving, clearly visible.

Instantly the British fliers flashed a terse wireless message to the H. M. S. Eagle. That message consisted of only one word:

"Found."

A few minutes later an instant reckoning of the Numancia's position was sparked to the Eagle, and the spacious-decked British aircraft carrier forged with all steam up to the spot indicated by the rescuing "eye of the fleet."

CAPONE MUST STAY IN JAIL

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—(INS.)—"Scarface Al" Capone, Chicago racketeer who was lodged as city's guest in the county jail for 12 months because he carried a gun on a visit here, will have to remain in his stuffy cell at the overcrowded Holmesburg prison until October.

This seemed assured today with the refusal of the Superior Court to grant a supersedeas pending decision on an appeal from a ruling on a writ of error applied for in the Municipal Court.

The writ of error was refused by Judge John E. Walsh, who sentenced Capone and his bodyguard, Frank Cline.

The higher court now adjourns until October when the appeal from the writ of error decision will be taken up. Meanwhile, court observers see no possible way for Capone to gain his freedom despite his $50,000 offer to anyone who can enable him to walk out of his cell.

BLAME FIRE ON JOBLESS

REGINA, Sask., July 2.—(AP.)—An incendiary who attempted to burn the provincial Parliament buildings but only succeeded in damaging the massive oak doors was being sought today by Royal Canadian Mounted and local police.

A physician shortly after midnight Saturday detected the flames shooting up from the doorway. The blaze was extinguished by firemen who found that a can filled with kerosene and surrounded by oil-soaked waste and sacks had been set on fire.

On the stonework near the charred doors was found the words, "Gardiner and crime—get out," printed in red chalk. James G. Gardiner is premier of Saskatchewan. The police theory is that the fire was set by unemployed who at conferences with representatives of the government on Friday and Saturday were not given the employment they sought.

Honeymoon Ends As Auto Does Loop-the-Loop

NORWOOD, Mass., July 2.—(INS.)—Honeymooning by motor, William Peterson, 57, and Louise Haley, 37, of 115 Rowe avenue, Dayton, O., who were married in New York last night, had a narrow escape in an automobile upset here today.

Peterson lost control of his car, sideswiped a telephone pole, tore down 700 feet of board fence along the embankment of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad and looped-the-loop three times in a descent to the tracks.

The honeymooners were removed to Norwood Hospital but will recover, physicians said.

FRISCO ASSAILS DRY KILLINGS

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 2.—(AP.)—A resolution condemning wanton killing of innocent persons by prohibition agents and indorsing Congresswoman Florence Kahn's bill providing for indemnities of $25,000 to the dependents of guiltless citizens so slain, was adopted by the San Francisco board of supervisors yesterday.

Supervisor Sylvester Andriano denounced the whole prohibition movement as an "evil tree, conceived in fanaticism and reared in corruption, whose fruits are murder, perjury, lawlessness and hypocrisy."

BAND FIRES INTO MEXICAN CROWD

MEXICO CITY, July 2.—(AP.)—Dispatches to El Universal from Guadlajara today said seven persons were wounded at Atotonilco El Alto by a band of unidentified men who rode into the main plaza at the promenade hour and fired into the crowds. They then rode away, with no explanation of their attack.

Guadalajara dispatches to Excelsior said the "Cristero" leader, Gabino Flores, had surrendered to the government.

Two other Cristero leaders, Carlos Bouquet and Jesus de Gollado, have fled toward the United States. De Gollado recently proclaimed himself commander-in-chief of the so-called religious rebels succeeding Gen. Enrique Gorozteta, who was killed in action early in June.

TWO IDENTIFIED IN HOLDUPS

Four suspects arraigned in Morals Court today were blamed, by city detectives, for a score of robberies, principally chain-store holdups in the last two months.

A dozen chain-store employes, including three young women, identified Stanley Gricus, alias Grant, of 1654 St. Patrick street, and Robert L. Farr, of 2214 Charles street, as having robbed half a dozen stores in the Lawrenceville and East End districts.

The two were held over by Magistrate Leo Rothenberg along with the other two suspects, Raymond Lyons, of 208 Stockton avenue, and Joseph Charles, of 4540 Penn avenue. Farr and Charles are cab drivers.

GARY, Ind.—(INS.)—The fly killing scheme of James Tittle, one of the owners of the Tittle Brothers Packing Company, a local meat shop, has attracted considerable attention. The senor, who is 250 pounds of Spanish threat, arrived in this city without any bulls or promoters; nevertheless he is willing to engage in combat the most untamed bull Herrs Island can offer.

The senor does not speak advanced English and the reporter's knowledge of Spanish is confined to one word, Madrid, but the senor has a book of clippings which prove that he has wanted to stage bull fights in a dozen American cities.

Senor Chicorrito is en route east or west to do bull fights for the talking pictures, he said, but first he would like several practice engagements. He has with him his costume and that sharp weapon used to impress the bull. He is pausing at the William Penn Hotel.

Stultz Death Great Loss To Aviation—Amelia

By AMELIA EARHART

NEW YORK, July 2.—The death of Wilmer Stultz is a distinct loss to aviation. He was one of the finest pilots in the country. I, personally, am terribly shocked because of our close assiciation on the flight of the Friendship.

Stultz might be called almost perfect as a pilot. Beyond that he was a navigator, a radio operator and a mechanic. Few men engaged in flying have a better all around equipment than his.

I feel confident in saying that it was no mistake of judgment that caused this fatal accident. There are many things that can happen of an exterior nature.

Stultz was a careful flier. He was extremely careful to have everything right before he would take off. His long experience made him perfectly at home in the air but not careless.

He was one of the few men who would have inspired the confidence we felt in the trip across the Atlantic. He had air-sense and a calm reaction to every emergency that arose.

He was modest and never anxious to exploit himself. I have such confidence in his ability and judgment that, without knowing the circumstances, I feel his death was due to some cause quite beyond his own control.

U. S. FIRM FOR PARITY OF NAVIES

Stimson Puts to Rest Idea America Might Yield Its Equality With England

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(AP.)—Secretary Stimson has moved to end suggestions from abroad that the United States would forego the doctrine of parity in future naval discussions.

Since Hugh S. Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium and head of the American delegation to the preparatory disarmament commission of the League of Nations, first presented the views of the Hoover administration on the disarmament question at the April meeting of the commission, official circles have believed interested naval powers considered President Hoover willing to forego parity in order to secure agreement on the naval question.

PARITY CONTINUES

Secretary Stimson indicated however, that the parity doctrine will continue to be the principal basis of discussions in future naval parleys where the United States is concerned.

Taking cognizance of reports from London that the United States would change its policy, Mr. Stimson declared that in his opinion, parity was of primary importance to a satisfactory solution of the naval question. He emphasized that when nations have agreed not to outbuild each other in fleets they have taken the longest step possible to eliminate war.

The belief that Mr. Hoover would permit the parity question to be side-tracked was believed in official circles to have grown out of the liberal disarmament policy followed by the present administration.

These circles also emphasized that the conversations begun in London between Ambassador Dawes and Prime Minister MacDonald and now being carried on among representatives of all the interested naval powers have been held merely in an effort to seek a common understanding on the question.

OTHERS INVOLVED

It was also pointed out that Ambassador Gibson in his speech at Geneva, outlining the view of the Hoover administration on the whole question, declared American naval defense needs would be dependent upon the strength of other navies.

While Mr. Stimson's statement was not considered a new development in the naval problem, but merely a reaffirmation of policy, it was interpreted as meaning the United States is still anxious to proceed with a naval reduction program, no matter how severe. However, equality of naval strength is expected to remain the outstanding policy of the administration for such a program.

$275,000 GIVEN FOR PALESTINE

DETROIT, July 2.—(INS.)—A fund of $275,000 has been raised for reconstruction work in Palestine, according to an announcement made at the third session of the thirty-second annual convention of the Zionist Organization of America, by Judge William N. Lewis, chairman of the United Palestine appeal.

Judge Lewis reported that New York City turned over $25,000 to the fund; Chicago $35,000, and Eastern Pennsylvania $25,000. Other cities, he said, gave similar amounts.

Judge Lewis announced that he is leaving for Palestine tomorrow where he will observe at first hand the progress that is being made in the rebuilding of the Jewish national homeland.

Soviet Would Learn From Wheat Queen

SUBLETTE, Kan.—(AP.)—The Russian government will send three agricultural experts to Kansas this summer to study harvesting as done by the state's "wheat queen."

Mrs. Ida Watkins, who personally superintends all work on her 2,500-acre wheat farm, has received word that the Soviet republic's representatives will witness her harvest.

Last year Mrs. Watkins harvested 50,000 bushels of wheat, using power machinery day and night during the busy season.

LADY SUFFOLK

LEITERS RENEW COURT BATTLE

CHICAGO, July 2.—(AP.)—Another round of the court battle between Joseph Leiter and his sister, Lady Suffolk, over control of the $30,000,000 estate left by their father, Levi Z. Leiter, was staged in a petition filed with the Appellate court asking Leiter be removed from trusteeship of the estate.

In addition to Lady Suffolk's petition, a similar action was taken in the same court in behalf of Mary Irene Curzon, Cynthia Blanche Mosley and Alexandra Naldera Metcalf, children of Lady Curzon, deceased sister of Lady Suffolk and of Leiter.

The petitions charge Leiter with perjury, misappropriation of funds and mismanagement of the estate. Appeal was made from the decision of a circuit court here which refused to remove Leiter at the conclusion of a trial several months ago.

U. S. DEBT PACT ROW MENACES POINCARE

PARIS, July 2.—The controversy over French debt to America is regarded today as a serious menace to the Poincare ministry.

Although there is now no question that the French government will ratify the Mellon-Berenger agreement, Permier Poincare has made plain his refusal to speak of the Young plan for the settlement of reparations before the Chamber of Deputies until that body meets in October.

Meanwhile, the premier will place the Mellon-Berenger and the Caillaux-Churchill accords before the chamber on July 9, when he will ask the deputies to ratify both agreements, and not only the Mellon-Berenger accord, as previously reported.

AWAITS CONFAB

Permier Poincare will await the decison of the governmental conference on the Young plan before submitting the reparations settlement to the Chamber of Deputies in October, providing his ministry is then in power. The conferences are scheduled to take place in London during the first fortnight in August, and will be followed by later meetings in September, probably in Paris.

The fact that Poincare's ministry is in danger was expressed heatedly in the corridor of the Chamber yesterday by Deputy Blum, leader of the Socialist party. Deputy Blum was heard to assert:

"The Poincare ministry will be known in history as the 'ministry of ratification.' After the ratifications, it will have no reason to continue, and will disappear."

Ratification by the Chamber was not expected a week ago when the deputies asked postponement of the $400,000,000 August 1 payment on purchased war stocks, but the deputies had only one move when the United States, through Secretary of State Stimson, by way of the French ambassador, Paul Caludel, informed them the payment was expected.

ACCORD REACHED

WASHINGTON, July 2. — The United States and France have come to an accord on the World War debt controversy, it was learned last night.

This followed a series of conferences between the President, Secretary of State Stimson and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, conferences which occupied a large part of the day at the White House.

The exact terms of the agreement could not be stated officially because it yet has to have the official approval of the two governments, as distinguished from the understanding of the officials who have been in negotiation. However, it is understood that France will promptratify the Mellon-Berenger debt agreement and thus avoid the immediate payment of $400,000,000 due August 1 for goods sold to that country by the United States at the close of the war.

The Mellon-Berenger agreement, which was worked out some three years ago, includes the $400,000,000 which is due on August 1. The payments along with the French war debt are spread out over a period of 62 years.

British Pilot, 67 Ends Round Trip To Holland

NORWICH, England, July 2.—(AP.)—A. J. Richardson, 67, Great Britain's so-called oldest airman, made a lone flight from Norwich to Rotterdam, Holland, and back Monday. He scorned the dissuading pleas of his fellow airmen, saying:

"Don't talk to me about nerves. It doesn't need much courage to fly over the sea."

Richardson learned to fly two years ago because, having given up farming, he "had nothing else to do."

'Domestically Efficient' Husbands Defined

NEW YORK, July 2.—(INS.)—Married gentlemen, attention! If you are able to repair gas or water pipes, faucets, doors, gates, fences, care for sinks, set up and adjust stoves, manage the furnace, mend clothes, bathe, dress and feed children and tell bedtime stories then you are a "domestically efficient" husband, according to Prof. Charles C. Peters, of the sociology department at Pennsylvania State College.

In a special exposition on husbandly efficiency made public today, Prof. Peters lists a myriad of conditions which go toward making up the ideal masculine spouse.

Dredge River to Lay New Gas Lines

Two dredge boats have been working continuously digging a channel across the Youghiogheny River about one mile west of Greenock Station on the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad where the main line of the People's Natural Gas Company crosses the river, for the purpose of placing new lines in the river bed to replace those that have been in service for many years. One 20-inch line approaches the river edge from either side of the river and is divided into six smaller lines which are placed in the river bed.

15 DEATHS LAID TO ICE BOXES

CHICAGO, July 2.—(AP.)—Methyl chloride gas escaping from an electric refrigerator was given by a coroner's jury last night as the cause of death of Mrs. Violet Clark, 29, in her apartment Saturday.

At the same time the department of health estimated that at least 15 persons and perhaps many more have died in Chicago in recent months from the same cause. Four persons have been victims of the gas within the last 10 days, the department said.

The jury, composed of pathologists, and expert chemists, recommended that "proper public officials and the leaders in the artificial refrigerating industry" join to seek means "for the protection of the public against recurrence of such deaths."

Representatives of the artificial refrigerator industry sought unsuccessfully to have the hearing continued to permit experts in refrigeration to testify. They explained that millions of dollars were invested, and that every possible precaution had been and is being taken to protect the public.

Evidence was presented to show that between 60,000 and 75,000 refrigerators in Chicago use methyl chloride as part of the process of ice-making, and that thousands more use carbon disulphide and less dangerous agents.

Methyl chloride was described as being so insidious in its effects that the victims neither smell nor perceive the gas until suddenly they become inert and mentally befogged.

RADIUM TRUST CHARGED

NEW YORK, July 2.—(AP.)—Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, journal of the American Chemical Society, in its current issue charges that the price of radium, used in cancer treatment, is held up by a Belgian monopoly.

In an editorial the journal quotes a letter from Dr. R. B. Moore, dean of science at Purdue University, saying that the world supply of radium is produced in Belgium by the Union Miniere du Katanga, from rich uranium deposits in the Belgian Congo.

Dr. Moore says that radium, from so-called "40 per cent ore," is selling in retail quantities for $70,000 a gram. In wholesale quantities the Belgian company sells it for $50,000 or $60,000 a gram.

JOHN'S TO STUDY, NOT MOTOR ABOUT

JOHN COOLIDGE AND FLORENCE TRUMBULL MOTORING

Miss Florence, daughter of Connecticut's governor, yesterday when in her roadster she drove John, son of the ex-President, to Harvard to register for the summer session, declared that John isn't to have a car to distract him from his studies. "It's a hard course."

No Auto for John Coolidge At Harvard, Girl Rules

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 2.—(AP.)—Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of the Governor of Connecticut and fiancee of John Coolidge, son of the former President, thinks the latter will make a better student at the Harvard business school's summer course if he has no automobile to distract his attention.

Young Coolidge, who is employed by the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, was driven here to enroll by Miss Trumbull in her roadster.

"Are you going to leave your car with John?" a newspaperman asked her.

"No, I'm going back in it myself," she replied.

"Then I'll lend him my car to run around in," the reporter suggested.

Child Shot Through Hand With Pistol

SLAIN WOMAN IDENTIFIED

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 2.—(AP.)—The first phase of the mystery surrounding finding of the nude body of a woman on Bermudian Creek, near York Springs, was solved today.

The body was identified positively as that of Mrs. Clarence Weiss, of Harrisburg.

The last bit of official doubt regarding the identity of the victim was removed last night when Clarence Weiss, Harrisburg truck driver, informed the investigators that he was certain the body was that of his wife. Weiss had been held in the Adams County jail here since Saturday, but had previously disputed the identification of the woman as his missing wife.

RUM SQUADRON BOTTLED UP

DETROIT, Mich., July 2.—Bottling up of the rum fleet at Amherstburg, Ont., appears to have been so thoroughly accomplished by coast guard cutters and rum chasers that considerable uncertainty existed today as to whether Detroit's Fourth of July supply of liquors would reach consumers in time for the holiday.

At the Amherstburg export docks 18 loaded rum boats are waiting to make the dash to the American side, the owners having obtained clearance papers permitting them to leave. Thirty more rum craft which returned empty to the docks over the week-end were to be loaded with liquor yesterday, but will be unable to leave until this morning, due to the celebration yesterday of Canada's own holiday, Dominion Day.

No customs offices being open on the celebration holiday, rum craft that have not obtained clearance papers must wait for the reopening of the offices at 8 a. m. today.

Four boats attempted the dash through the coast guard cordon Saturday night, and either reached their destination or are in hiding in Canadian waters in fear of detection.

Ambridge Man Killed One Hurt in Plant

AMBRIDGE, Pa., July 2.—Joseph Drisko, 21, Duss avenue, was killed and his helper, Michael Pastick, 24, was severely injured, while at work in the Wyckoff Drawn Steel Company plant yesterday. Both men were crushed when a pile of steel rods on a train caught them between the train and a pile of steel.

"Healers" Collect $400; Now Sam Regrets It

ALLIANCE, O., July 2.—Police are searching for two women who exacted $400 from Sam Mariucci, Forest avenue, by promising to cure a son and daughter of fits. Last week they visited the Mariucci home and performed their mystic healing rites. Later they called to inquire how the lad was progressing and received the response "fine."

"Now we'll cure your girl, too, but it will take another $200," they said.

Mariucci paid the money and the women departed. Shortly afterward the son was in the paroxisms of another fit.

DRY RAID OVER BORDER DENIED

DETROIT, July 2.—(AP.)—A report made to Canadian authorities that United States customs border patrol officers had fired on a rum runner's scout boat on the Canadian side of the Detroit River Friday was denied by Walter S. Petty, acting collector of customs here.

Petty characterized the report as "more of a well-planned campaign of bootleggers' propaganda" and said no boat of the United States rum patrol had entered Canadian waters in the last week. He also denied a report that customs officers had raided export docks at Port Lambton, Ontario, and cut loose rum runners' boats.

Protest against the alleged shooting was made today to H. B. Jackson, assistant to the chief collector of customs of the Canadian government. Jackson said his informant, a Windsor, Ontario, exporter, whom he refused to name, told him that 13 bullets struck the fast rum boat, although its occupant was uninjured.

2 AGENTS HELD AS RUM GUARDS

NEW YORK, July 2.—(AP.)—Two federal prohibition agents were under arrest today accused of convoying a fleet of liquor trucks on Long Island.

The agents, John J. Kerrigan and John J. Calnan, were held in $3,000 bail each, after Deputy Sheriff William Lindsay, of Peconic, N. Y., told a United States commissioner he found them escorting a caravan of five trucks through Riverhead, N. Y., on the night of June 19.

Kerrigan's record in the Prohibition Department showed he had been previously arrested for threatening with a loaded revolver John Devlin, safety director of Bayonne, N. J., for assaulting a man in a raid on a night club, and for possessing burglar tools. All the charges were dismissed.

Both agents were suspended pending outcome of the charges.

KROGER STORES

Keep this in mind when you trade-in your car

THAT one dealer may offer you a larger allowance than another does not necessarily mean that he is giving you the best deal.

You will buy most advantageously to yourself if you remember these basic facts:

A trade-in transaction is a purchase, not a sale. You are simply applying your present car as a credit against the price of the new car.

Your present car has only one fundamental basis of value: what the dealer can get for it in the used car market. It seems to have different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.

An excessive allowance may mean that you will be paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value. In other words, the new car may be priced to permit the extra allowance.

Consider first the merits of each new car as compared with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then consider the various allowances offered on your present car.

Don't put the cart before the horse.

CLAIRTON MAN VICTIM OF GAS

Suffered From Stomach and Bowel Disorders; Ten Herbs Restored Health.

MR. E. G. KUHN

The great and ever-growing popularity of the new natural medicine, Ten Herbs, is evoking much comment from the people of this section, where this amazing preparation with the ten wonderful herbal ingredients has helped thousands of men and women back to normal health and strength. Ten Herbs is giving sufferers from stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders such remarkable relief that it is probably the most talked-of medical compound that has ever been sold in this city. Every day more and more health-seeking persons are calling at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, where this famous medicine is being introduced.

"Ten Herbs did wonders for me," said Mr. E. G. Kuhn, mill worker, 235 Penn Ave., Clairton, Pa. (near Pittsburgh). "My stomach became so badly disordered that food would not digest properly. Gas would form and almost suffocate me at times. I also had gas pains. I lost all desire for food; in fact, I was afraid to eat much because of the distress that indigestion would cause. At times my whole digestive system seemed to fail me. I was subject to severe dizzy spells, and constipation compelled me to resort to laxatives all the time. I was getting in a weak, rundown condition.

"I read about Ten Herbs in the papers, and finally decided to try this medicine. It made a great change for the better in me. I was completely relieved of stomach trouble—all gas pains disappeared. My appetite became very good. My bowels were regulated, and I gained freedom from dizzy spells. I give Ten Herbs credit for my improved health."

Ten Herbs helps Nature help you—makes you feel like your real self again, by cleansing and toning up your whole system. It also relieves rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Ten Herbs is being introduced at May's Main Store, Fifth and Liberty, Pittsburgh, and is sold at all May's Drug Stores.

Since its formation 20 years ago, the Penn State summer sessions have increased in enrollment from 147 in 1910 to 2,800 in 1923, the largest attendance for any session ever held in Pennsylvania. Unusual interest is being shown in the four separate institutes of French, English, progressive education and music, which are being conducted as a part of the session. The institute of French education has shown an increase in enrollment of more than 50 per cent, while that of the progressive education institute is over 100 per cent.

SUN HELD CURE FOR RICKETS

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(AP.)—Figures held to indicate that lack of sunshine is the direct cause of rickets in children and that undernourishment is not a contributing cause have been compiled by the U. S. Children's Bureau.

They will be displayed at the American Medical Association convention in Portland, Ore., July 8-13 as a substantiation of the theory that the sun bath alone will give immunity from the juvenile bone diseases.

The statistics are the result of a prolonged study of Porto Rican children which showed they had an abundance of sunshine, were badly undernourished but had no rickets.

Pittsburgh Pastor Lays Cornerstone

SHARPSVILLE, Pa., July 2.—Dr. George Shelton, of Pittsburgh, was the main speaker at the laying of the cornerstone of the new Presbyterian church here yesterday. The building, to cost $100,000, will be completed in the fall.

Roost Robber Picked Up on Main Street

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 2.—Police here arrested a middle-aged Negro in the small hours of the morning plodding along one of the streets with a sack full of chickens over his back.

When accosted by officers, he dropped the sack and ran, but was captured. The chickens found their way into the menu of inmates of the county jail, while the prowler is being held for a hearing.

Abandoned Car Clue To Missing Minister

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 2.—(INS.)—Police here are searching for a trace of the Rev. Dan Corey, 26-year-old Methodist minister of Williamsport, W. Va., who disappeared last April and whose abandoned car was found early in May on the bank of the White River here. The ownership of the car has just been traced to Corey as the motor numbers and serial numbers of the abandoned machine had been filed off, making the work of tracing the car most difficult.

SHIPS BAN RUM AT FAREWELLS

NE YORK, July 2.—(AP.)—The French Line has moved to discourage liquor drinking at bon voyage parties aboard its vessels.

Passengers and their friends who boarded the liner France before sailing time found that stewards had orders not to serve ginger ale, mineral water or glasses and ice.

"The prohibition law," said a notice posted on each stateroom door, "forbids furnishing accessories with knowledge that same are for use in the consumption of intoxicating liquor."

The notice asked the passengers to co-operate in observance of the law in order "to avoid embarrassing situations."

Bon voyage parties, at which liquor brought aboard by passengers and their friends was consumed, recently have caused several steamship lines anxiety. Some of the lines which have changed their sailing time from night to day were said to have been influenced in part by a desire to discourage drinking at the parties.

SHIP SEARCHED FOR LIQUOR

HOBOKEN, N. J., July 7.—Once more customs officials are conducting a stem-to-sterm search of the President Harding of the U. S. Lines for liquor law violations.

This time thieves, apparently in possession of the keys, broke into the ship's strong-room, smashing two customs seals, and stole 79 or the 142 bottles of brandy stored among the vessel's medicinal stores there.

Hardly more than a month ago the same ship was thoroughly searched and a large quantity of liquor found secreted in the air-compartment of her lifeboats.

Coal Yields More Gasoline Under New Formula

BUDAPEST, Hungary, July 2.—(AP.)—A new method of extracting gasoline from coal in greater quantities and at a lower cost than by any existing method has been discovered by Prof. Joseph Varga, of the Budapest Technical University.

Prof. Varga's method, which is said to differ entirely from American and German systems, makes it possible to extract from 60 to 70 per cent of gasoline directly from coal tar drawn from bituminous coal fields.

A corporation will be formed to exploit Hungary's extensive coal fields for gasoline on Varga's formula.

Youth Accused Of Robbing Mails

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 2.—Charged with having stolen $161 from the mails, Joseph Mohawk, 19, of Slickville, is under arrest. While employed as a driver at a store in Slickville, near here, it is alleged that he took receipts from an envelope which was shipped to Pittsburgh daily.

BOROUGH OFFICE RIPPER DENIED

HARRISBURG, July 2.—Attorney General Cyrus E. Woods today definitely set at rest reports that the passage of a bill by the last Legislature would rip out of office all borough councils in the state. The law was passed to abolish cumulative voting in the town of Bloomsburg. It also provides for the election there this fall of an entirely new council.

The act applies only to incorporated towns, the attorney general said. There is only one incorporated town in Pennsylvania and that is Bloomsburg.

Since the act was approved in April by Gov. Fisher, numerous borough solicitors have informed their councils that their membership would be removed this year by the new law. The Election Bureau has received frequent requests for copies of the act. Despite statements from other state officials, solicitors have continued to inform borough officeholders that the act applied to them.

JAPAN INSTALLS NEW MINISTRY

TOKIO, July 2.—(AP.)—Yuko Hamaguchi, the third untitled premier in Japan's history, and members of the new Minseito cabinet were installed today in the palace in the presence of the emperor.

The new ministry succeeds that of Baron Tanaka of the Seiyukai party, which resigned shortly before noon after a cabinet crisis precipitated by investigation of the assassination of Marshal Chang-Tso-Lin in Manchuria last year.

Riots Mark Strike Of Garment Makers

NEW YORK, July 2.—(INS.)—Disorder marked the strike of 28,000 cloak and suit makers, which began here today.

Battles between the strikers and non-union employes and between the strikers and the police occurred at intervals. In most instances, the clashes were over quickly and the crowds dispersed.

PLAN TO CHECK SPEAKEASIES

NEW YORK, July 2.—(AP.)—Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, who quit the Republican national committee to lead a campaign among women for modification of the national prohibition laws, announced that her organization's first job would be a check-up to see how the number of speakeasies today compares with the number of saloons in the old days.

"We're going to get at it just as soon as we complete our permanent organization this fall," she said. "We're going to form committees to make the investigation all over the country."

She said the organization also planned to send investigators into industrial towns to find out what the wives of workmen think about prohibition.

MILL WORK TRIES STRONGEST MEN

Intense Heat Likely to Slow Up Action of Kidneys,

Sweating alongside great masses of molten metal for hours at a time is a severe drain on the strength of anyone. Men in the big steel mills who are exposed to the intense heat of melting metals sweat until the pores of the skin are all open, and absorb the fumes from metal and the gases. Thus they make extra work for their kidneys to keep the blood clean. But because they sweat so much the kidneys are not likely to do much work, and sometimes the men suffer.

Then when they go out in the cold from these hot rooms the pores of the skin close up, and they usually sweat no more until they come back again. Thus neither the skin nor the kidneys are working as they should. The exposure to the cold often leaves them with colds to throw off, and some of the men suffer all the year through from inflammation of the nose and throat—catarrh.

The poisons absorbed by open pores, the poisons the kidneys fail to throw off and the poisons of the catarrhal condition sometimes affect the stomach as well, so that the digestion is not good. Then, unless something is done, it is only a question of time until there is a complete breakdown.

Workers who are compelled to endure intense heat should drink plenty of water outside the mill, as well as inside, and they should get the benefit of a good medicine that will keep the kidneys at work and keep up the tone of the stomach and bowels as well as check the tendency to catarrh. World's Tonic is intended for just these conditions. It is not only indicated where one has waited until he is really sick, but should be taken whenever one feels badly. World's Tonic is a foe to catarrh, a gentle stimulant to the kidneys, a fine help to bowel regulation, and an aid to digestion. Hundreds of workers have found it the one thing that restored their health and kept them well, according to their own testimony. Maybe it is the one thing you need to be in perfect health again. You can obtain World's Tonic at Dow's, formerly McCulloch's, also May's, or any other first class drug store. (A-19)

MYSTERY PAIR MURDER KEY

ATLANTA, July 2.—(AP.)—Detectives sweltered today over clues which cloaked rather than explained the brutal murder of Prof. A. H. Johnson, veteran educator, of Hartwell, Ga., who was clubbed to death while here for the National Education Association convention.

One man, O. C. Gossett, 40, was in custody, but witnesses at an inquest were unable to identify him as one of the two men who visited three garages with Johnson in quest of repairs for his car Saturday night. Johnson's body was found Sunday in his parked car, his head battered beyond recognition.

ANSWERS VAGUE

Gossett's hasty purchase of a straw hat Saturday night in the same section of the city in which the teacher's body was found, and his unsatisfactory answers to detectives' questions led to his continued detention today. Also the prisoner admitted that, while he was unacquainted with the teacher, he knew his brother.

The detective bureau was intrigued most, however, by the description of the two mysterious strangers. One was immaculately dressed and had a "black eye," while the other wore dirty overalls.

HAD BEEN DRINKING

Too, there was the writing on the rear glass of the death car, freshly done by a finger in the dust—"Driver unconscious." Also there was testimony that Johnson apparently had no money with him, as evidenced by his effort to cash a $100 personal check at a garage. The check was turned down because the teacher "had been drinking." Two empty bill folds were found in the automobile.

Johnson was principal of two schools at Hartwell and vocational training director for his district. He was acquitted in Atlanta in 1920 of a charge of receiving stolen automobiles a thief said he had turned over to Johnson.

Do People Laugh at YOUR "Skinny" Body?

"Used to be hard for me to get out of bed but IRONIZED YEAST increased my strength. Am now up before clock rings 5:30, 'peppy,' ready for another hard day's work. (Mechanic.) I gained 15 lbs."—Frank Grovne, Liverpool, N. Y.

Why IRONIZED YEAST Builds Weight So Fast

You can believe these real letters. Read how people like yourself gained 5 to 15 pounds often in few weeks. Skinny limbs change to graceful roundness. Blemished skin clears. Tired feeling vanishes.

IRONIZED YEAST is two tonics in one. Weight-building YEAST and 2 kinds of blood-enriching IRON. The Yeast is Violet Rayed to increase weight-building values. We concentrate it so that 12 SACKS of raw, live YEAST make only 1/2 SACK of the concentrate which goes into IRONIZED YEAST. You can easily see why each small tablet of this new IRONIZED YEAST gives you quick, EXTRA, weight-building results through this 24-to-1 concentration.

Only when Yeast is ironized is it most effective; for blood-enriching Iron is needed to bring out the weight-building, strengthening values of Yeast. Pleasant tablets. No "yeasty" taste.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Young Sewickley School Set to Dance Tonight At Country Club

THIS is the time of year—one of the times, rather—when we catch our news "on the wing." Most folks are either leaving town now or are going to leave within a short time, so their interests are largely elsewhere. There is a party tonight down in Sewickley—the dance which the George Hubbard Clapps are giving in the Allegheny Country Club for their granddaughter, Georgianna Collin—and that's about all. The dance is for members of the younger school set, you know.

AS for these travelers, did you know that the James Ingraham Marshes, of Wallingford street, have taken a cottage at Stone Harbor, N. J., and are there for the summer? Mrs. Marsh's mother, Mrs. Benjamin G. Wells, of Bryn Mawr, with another daughter, Elizabeth, and a son, Louis B. Wells, are also occupying a cottage at Stone Harbor.

THOSE of you who spend some time at White Sulphur Springs every year will be interested to know that the new Greenbrier Country Club will be formally opened on Thursday with a dinner dance. The clubhouse is situated not far from the Greenbrier Hotel, near the Covington road, and its board of governors has been chosen from visitors to White Sulphur who spend at least four months of the year there.

Speaking of the Greenbrier Hotel, I understand that the Walter G. Mortlands and the George W. Crawfords were among those who arrived there yesterday for an extended stay.

ALSO away from home is Mrs. Richard S. Suydam, of Darlington road. Mrs. Suydam has gone to Bay Head, N. J., where she will spend the summer. And Mrs. Charles P. Orr and Miss Alice Orr, of Howe street, left last week by motor for East Gloucester, Mass., where they will remain through the month at the Hawthorne Inn.

The William Larimer Mellons have been cruising on their yacht, the Vagabondia, you know, and I hear that last week they were guests of their daughter and her husband, the junior Thomas Hitchcocks, at their summer home on Sands Point.

I understand that Mrs. David McCormick and Miss Sophia G. McCormick, of Howe street, are planning to go to Eaglesmere for an indefinite stay, and that Miss Alice Gray and Henry Gray, of Colonial place, have left for Watch Hill. They will be at the Ocean House all summer.

TO get away from the travelers for a moment, I want to tell you about a marriage which took place almost a month ago in New York, but which will interest you, I'm sure. It was that of Laura McCord Butterfield, of Pinehurst, N. C., and Jesse Warden Page, Jr., of Eagle Springs, N. C., and took place June 6 in Old Trinity Church, New York. The bride is the second daughter of Walter Scott Butterfield, of Detroit and New York, and Mrs. Jack Vandervort Hurd, of New York, Pinehurst and Pittsburgh, who was Mrs. Caroline McCord Butterfield before her marriage not so long ago. No doubt you remember that the Butterfield-Hurd wedding took place down in Pinehurst.

Mr. Page is the third son of the Jesse Pages, of Eagle Springs, and he attended Oak Ridge Military Academy and the universities of Arizona and North Carolina. His bride is a graduate of the Hartridge School in Plainfield, N. J., and Vassar College. She returned from Europe last year to take up newspaper work, I understand.

The young Mr. and Mrs. Page will live at Caromac, Pine Bluff, N. C., this summer.

FACULTY members and students of the University of Pittsburgh summer session are guests at a reception this afternoon in the Heinz House. Next Sunday afternoon there will be a tea for faculty members at the club, the first of weekly events. The first dance of the summer session is set for Friday night in the Heinz House.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Chauncey Kirk McGeorge, of Steubenville, a former pastor of the Coraopolis church, and the Rev. W. Bruce Wilson, the present pastor. The brides, who were unattended, were given away by their father. Mrs. R. C. Hawthorne played the wedding march and Mrs. David Ensel sang, and immediately after the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at Elmhurst Inn, Sewickley. After July 15, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be at home in Chester, W. Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Greer in New Wilmington, Pa.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of shell-pink chiffon, and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Esther Black, sister of the bride and her only attendant, wore yellow chiffon, and her flowers were butterfly roses and blue delphinium. Beverly Stansbury, of Washington, was best man. The Rev. J. E. Wayne, of the Mt. Lebanon Methodist Church, officiated.

After an eastern trip, Mr. and Mrs. Robbins will be at home in Central Square, Mt. Lebanon.

The wedding will take place Saturday, July 13. Among the guests were Miss Mary Bolton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Bolton, of East McKeesport, whose marriage to Edward Rosensteele, of Reno, Nev., formerly of Dravosburg, will be solemnized Friday, and Miss Kathryn Stauffer, of East McKeesport, who is sailing shortly for Cairo, Egypt, where she will teach in the university.

She carried a shower of white roses, lillies of the valley and orchids. Mrs. C. D. Darragh, a sister of the bride, as matron of honor, wore peach chiffon with uneven hemline and horsehair braid hat to match. Miss Constance Rodgers, another sister, as bridesmaid, was in orchid color chiffon with hat to match. Lee Brennan, of Wheeling, W. Va., was Mr. Jennings' best man. Congress of Clubs Mails Questionnaire

THINGS at the Congress of Clubs move slowly during the summer, but, if one may paraphase the old quotation concerning the "mills of the gods," they "move exceeding small." In fact, what is done at the club house these days is little more than an oiling of the wheels that the machinery may move with celerity and smoothness when the season is in full swing. A questionnaire is being sent out to all Congress members asking in what department they wish to be enrolled or if they desire merely to be associated socially with the organization. The linen committee in whose hands lies so much of the tidy appearance of the clubhouse meets as usual during the summer, the first Monday of each month. The linen committee is one of the unsung departments of Congress work. Few people realize that the task of keeping the bedding and table linen and other furnishing in perfect repair is no small one. Mrs. James Sprague has been chairman of the committee ever since it was inaugurated and has Mrs. J. C. Wanner, Mrs. Samuel Morrow and Mrs. Thomas Sankey as her aides. Mrs. Ray S. Judd has accepted the appointment as chairman of the ways and means department, succeeding Mrs. S. J. Corbett. Mrs. Garnet C. Cooper is the new social chairman and Mrs. W. F. Cooley is to head the speakers' bureau next season.

NEXT year's committees in the Wednesday Afternoon Club, of Wilkinsburg, are as follows: American home, Mrs. Harriet Bambrick and Mrs. Emma K. Smith; blind, Mrs. John A. Rinehart, Mrs. J. M. Lyle, Mrs. F. H. Braddock and Mrs. S. L. Smith; flowers and calling, Miss Caroline Turner, Mrs. H. H. Jennewine and Mrs. Guy P. Scott; finance, Mrs. H. R. Edelman, Mrs. A. J. Puffinburg, Mrs. F. S. McBurney and Mrs. C. C. Yingling; music, Mrs. F. M. Storer, Mrs. H. G. Kiser and Mrs. H. M. Phifer; membership, Mrs. J. S. Hooper, Mrs. Katherine Flinn; program, Mrs. H. E. Phifer, Mrs. F. H. Braddock, Mrs. F. M. Storer, Mrs. H. G. Kiser and Mrs. F. H. Horner; publicity, Mrs. A. U. Downing, Miss Helen Pershing and Mrs. J. L. Klingensmith; social, Mrs. H. W. Sickler, Mrs. Lillian Cleveland, Mrs. J. M. Ralston, Mrs. W. B. Covil, Mrs. Wilbur Struble and Mrs. C. E. Frech.

OFFICERS will have charge of the family outing which the Wimodausis Club will hold next Tuesday in West View Park. Mrs. B. A. Dickson, the president; Mrs. Fred Diffenbach and Mrs. Harvey Case, vice presidents; Mrs. John Howick, secretary, and Mrs. Adam E. Daum, treasurer, form the committee. Friends as well as the families of members will be their guests.

STEEL PIPE IN GOOD DEMAND

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 2.—Interest in the steel industry in the Mahoning Valley centers on the outlook for third quarter and last half. Executives of leading independents see nothing ahead to disturb business conditions and believe steel requirements will continue in large volume. Recessions in one or two directions will probably be offset by gains in others.

The Mahoning Valley is particularly interested in steel pipe demands. At present the situation in large diameter tubing is better than heretofore and tube makers enter the third quarter with a fairly large volume of unfilled tonnage on their books.

With the single exception of steel sheets, prices are firm at current levels. On black and galvanized sheets concessions of $2 per ton are being made by some mills.

Full finished sheet producers are showing an exceptionally satisfactory year. Such makers as Newton Steel enjoyed in the first half best six months in their history. Indicating sustained demand for strip steel is action of Republic Steel in suspending its Warren mills only one shift of eight hours over Sunday.

ALIENISTS AGAIN QUIZ SNOOK

COLUMBUS, O., July 2.—(AP.)—In the same courtroom in which a jury probably will decide his fate when he is tried on a first degree murder charge for his confessed killing of Theora Hix, co-ed, Dr. James H. Snook, former Ohio State professor, underwent a third mental examination for almost two hours yesterday.

The examination was made by three alienists employed by County Prosecutor John J. Chester and was the second made by them. Another examination of Dr. Snook had been made previously by doctors employed by the ex-professor's attorneys.

Only Dr. Snook and the alienists, Drs. E. E. Gaver, Robert C. Larbell and William H. Pritchard, were present. It was a continuation of tests which alienists began June 22, at the request of the prosecutor, who indicated he was preparing to forestall an insanity plea by Dr. Snook. Snook's counsel has not announced definitely that an insanity defense would be made.

The state alienists did not make known their findings.

SUNDAY MOVIES WIN IN W. VA.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 2.—(AP.)—Huntington, through its citizens' board, last night placed the stamp of approval on Sunday motion picture performances.

The board, with all of its members present, voted 14 to 6 to veto an ordinance prohibiting Sunday shows which was passed by the City Commission on June 15, the eve of a Sunday performance advertised by the Keith-Albee Theater. As adopted by the Commission and referred to the board for approval, the ordinance provided a fine of from $5 to $50 for operation of a theater on Sunday.

Following announcement of the board's action, Sol J. Hyman, one of the owners of the Keith-Albee, who was arrested following a Sunday performance given by that theater, said regular Sunday shows would be inaugurated next Sunday.

Altitude Flier Plans New Record Effort

ALBANY, July 2.—(INS.)—Lieut. F. O. Dice, Army flier who failed in an attempt for a new altitude record at the airport here, announced he expects to try again later in the week.

Lieut. Dice climbed 12,000 feet Sunday but was forced down when frost formed on the wings and windshield. The altitude record for ships weighing less than 1,000 pounds is 19,500 feet.

Rhinelander Delays Filing Divorce Suit

LAS VEGAS, Nev., July 2.—(AP.)—Harley A. Harmon, counsel for Leonard Kip Rhinelander, stated that Rhinelander's suit for divorce, filing of which originally was planned for yesterday, would be filed some time between July 15 and August 1. In preparation for his second attempt to win freedom from Alice Jones, daughter of a New Rochelle, N. Y., Negro, Rhinelander established residence in Nevada last January.

The veterinary found the dog suffering from a decayed tooth.

Doctor Loses Life In Fever Research

NEW YORK, July 2.—(INS.)—Dr. Paul A. Lewis died of yellow fever in Bahia, Brazil, on Saturday, it was announced at the Rockefeller Foundation. He was a well-known bacteriologist who at the time of his death was connected with the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research at Princeton, and was one of a small group of Americans who have been studying yellow fever in the hope of finding a more efficient way of preventing the disease than is now known.

"KONJOLA MADE ME FEEL LIKE A NEW MAN!"

Prominent Grocer Relates His Happy Experience With Modern Medicine.

No small part of the wonderful fame and success of the new medicine, Konjola, is due to the fact that it almost invariably succeeds in cases of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel troubles, and in rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness, even though all the other medicines, treatments and prescriptions tried failed dismally. For Konjola is a different medicine from all the others, a modern medicine, a medicine in a class all of its own. Call on the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, this city, and find out all about it. Learn how each one of the 32 medicinal ingredients of which it is composed (22 of them the juices of roots and herbs) has a special duty to perform in attacking the very cause of the trouble, and in aiding Nature to remove that cause from the system. Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drug, no heart-depressing chemical. It has no use for ingredients of that kind. It is a powerful compound, yet so quietly and easily does its work that the sufferer is hardly aware that a medicine has been taken. Just a short time ago Mr. J. G. Grove, a prominent grocer of Glenfield, Pa., near Pittsburgh, called on the Konjola Man and made the following happy statement:

MR. J. G. GROVE

"Konjola made me feel like a new man, and I am truly grateful for all that this new medicine has done for me. I had been miserable for the last two years. My kidneys were all out of order. I had to get up as often as six times a night on account of bladder actions. My back was stiff and sore, and the terrible pains over my kidneys were hard to bear. My stomach, too, was in a poor condition. I dreaded meal time, for I knew that suffering was bound to follow. Food fermented, and gas and bloating followed. I was subject to dizzy spells and awful headaches, and frequently spots appeared before my eyes. I didn't rest well at night. I had been disappointed by different remedies so often that I became discouraged.

"Then a friend told me of Konjola, and though I was very skeptical, I decided to give it a trial. How glad I am that I did. The first bottle convinced me that I had at last found a medicine of merit, and I continued for a while longer. Well, I am at last free from all my suffering. My kidneys are in a fine, healthy condition. My sleep is never disturbed, the pains and stiffness have been driven from my back, and dizzy spells and headaches are things of the past. I rest well at night. I have an excellent appetite, and the food I eat agrees with me, and never causes the slightest distress. I have gained several pounds in weight. Konjola is a wonderful compound. I am glad to be able to recommend it to all who are bothered as I was!"

That is how Konjola almost invariably works. It welcomes the most severe tests, and it can be depended upon to give a good account of itself.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Store, (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, Pittsburgh, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this modern medicine.

"Crazed Wings."
The story concerns a group of war pilots quartered in France, Lieut. Harkness has lost his wings due to an injury in the air, and he is certain that it was caused by Larsen, another lieutenant in the company. These two, with McCabe, their captain, become involved in a game of red dog, and Harkness wins not only their own money but mess money that they have pledged. He then offers to play one more hand provided that he may regain permission to fly if he wins it. Again the cards come his way, and as a result, he takes up McCabe's plane. How he tries to revenge himself against Larsen and, by mistake, brings down an enemy plane, will be graphically depicted.

The Porter Girls Are Sad As Nancy Prepares for Trip With Roger

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Nancy Hollenbeck, young, vibrant and beautiful, reluctantly drops her latest beau, Mat Tully, when her mother warns her against marrying a poor man "as she did." At the rich Craigs' house party, Nancy receives the attentions of Jack Beamer, handsome sportsman unhappily married. Nancy and Louise, her sister, are called home. Their rich Aunt Ellie has arrived. She promises the girls a trip to Yosemite. Nancy hears from Jack Beamer. She pictures herself as the second Mrs. Beamer. Arriving at Yosemite, Nancy finds it dull until a handsome man enters the door. Next day Nancy "meets" him. He is Roger Decatur, a ranger. The Porters, rich but dull relatives, arrive. Nancy plans to use them as chaperones on a mountain trip to meet Roger.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER X.

NANCY HOLLENBECK actually went into the High Sierras with the Porters. Without knowing just how it happened, they had altered their plans and decided to motor over the Big Oak Flat Road, up into the mountain country above the valley, over the Tioga Pass to Blue Lake Tahoe beyond.

"You better all come," Mrs. Porter invited hospitably. "Plenty room for all, Mrs. Watson. When you come this far you might as well go the whole way and see it all. Mr. Porter is a wonderful driver; you don't have to be nervous with him!"

For a few terrible moments Aunt Ellie wavered. The big car, steady as a locomotive; the rich Porters, who spent money like water. It took all Nancy's ingenuity to dissuade her, but cunningly careless mention of the mosquitoes that followed the melting, and a few well-aimed allusions to camp beds and canned beans did the trick. Aunt Ellie decided to stay on at the Awahnee, with Louise for company, and Nancy—bless the child—could go pioneering if she wanted to.

"Don't forget to write to mamma!" Lou called when they were ready to start, stout mother and father Porter overflowing the front seats, the two stocky girls and slim Nancy in the back.

"I won't!" Nancy, brown-eyed and golden-haired in the sun, waved a small blue handkerchief, and was gone.

"At least she will be well taken care of. Mrs. Porter is a fine woman, and just like a sister to her girls," Aunt Ellie sighed comfortably, and settled down to rock.

The Porter girls, Gladys and Elsie, were terrifically disappointed. Nancy Hollenbeck was awfully sweet to them, as indeed she should be; wasn't she their guest? Wasn't papa paying? But she was always slipping off without saying where she was going, or wanting to do things they didn't want to do.

The first day she was wonderful. They just loved her on the ride up to the Meadows. She was like a little girl, exclaiming at the beauty all about them, loving the birds and the butterflies and the extravagant mountain flowers, wanting to wade in every rocky, glacial stream, patting first Essie's and then Gladys' hand, squealing excitedly, "Don't you love it? Isn't it heavenly? Oh, aren't you the darlings to bring me?"

When the Porters, senior, felt their hearts quail at sight of the canvas cabins and rustic austerity of the camp where for some not very good reason they had planned to stay a week, she brought them right back to enthusiasm, pointing out the comforts of the flat iron stoves in the cabins, sniffing the clean mountain air delightedly. "Isn't it pure and life-giving? Poor Aunt Ellie—I do wish she had come. It would add years to her life! They say that a couple of weeks of this keeps one healthy all year!"

"I shouldn't be surprised if we don't have colds at all this winter," Mrs. Porter predicted, and Mr. Porter, repaid for his long drive and the dust in his nice shiny car by the rosy and delighted Essie and Gladys, could only wipe his glasses and murmur, "So . . . so . . ."

It was Nancy, of course, who exclaimed at the beautiful speckled trout some proud fishermen were bringing into the cook house just before dinner, but the Porters got the benefit of the platter the fishermen sent to her table.

Perhaps it was Nancy again who attracted two good-looking young men in collegiate sweaters, but they scraped acquaintance with Mr. Porter, and happily, he introduced them to the girls.

"Mr. Keeler and Mr. Whipple, my daughters, Miss Essie and Miss Gladys, and Miss Hollenbeck.

Mrs. Porter, from her seat by the stove in the canvas lobby, watched anxiously . . . only two young men, and Gladys so retiring . . .

She relaxed, and read yesterday's papers contentedly when she saw that Nancy Hollenbeck wasn't making the least effort to monopolize the boys, and that she had actually reached out a firm hand and kept timid Gladys from retiring.

With Essie's evicted giggle ringing in her ears she turned at last to her frankly dozing spouse. "Wake up, papa. We'll go to bed; I know you must be tired. We'll just go quietly; the girls are having such a nice time. Nancy is a sweet girl, not boy-crazy like some. I could have enjoyed the Awahnee more, still if the girls like it . . ."

"Sure, if the girls like it . . ."

The girls, feeling popular and wanted, didn't even see them go.

Towards 10 o'clock, when the crowd was beginning to thin out and only a dozen or so were left, the door opened and a tall, sunburnt ranger entered.

Gladys saw him first. Her pale blue eyes widened, and she wondered if she ought to speak. It was the young man Nancy had introduced to them at the Awahnee—Mr. Decatur. She looked hastily away, and gulped, summoning all her courage.

"Nancy, here comes Mr. Decatur," she was going to say, but Nancy had seen him. She stood up, laughing, both hands outstretched:

"Roger! This is a surprise. what are you doing way up here?"

"You remember the Porter girls—Essie and Gladys? Mr. Decatur, you know. And Mr. Whipple."

The men shook hands, without enthusiasm. The ranger turned back to Nancy. They began to talk, laughingly, his fair head and her bright bronze one close together.

"Yes, we're traveling all over," Essie chattered on brightly to the young man nearest her, Mr. Whipple. "We love nature. Do you like nature, Mr. Whipple?"

Mr. Whipple nodded in the affirmative. "Very much."

Essie tried again. "This would be a beautiful place to dance, if we had some music. I was just thinking, we could put on the radio."

Mr. Keeler, hands deep in his pockets, sat slumped back in his chair. Gladys was staring fixedly, a weak smile on her large, pale face, at an old calendar on the wall.

"Might as well," Mr. Keeler returned.

When they had gone Essie consulted her little diamond-studded wrist watch. "Quarter of 11. Did you know it was that late?"

Gladys rose thankfully.

"Shall we wait for you?" Essie sang.

"No, don't you think of it! You girls go right along and get your rest, and I'll be along in two shakes. There are some things about the trails I want to ask Roger. Can't let an opportunity like this get by! Don't wait for me—I'll sneak in softly!" Nancy was sweetness itself.

But it was very late when she tiptoed into the canvas cabin she shared with the girls, and slipped, shivering, into bed.

In the morning when Essie and Gladys were pulling stout hiking shoes over wool stockings that made their knickerbockered legs look like fat, fuzzy caterpillars, Nancy yanked tan Russian riding boots out of her big traveling bag.

"But you can't walk in them!" Essie cried quickly.

"No, ride." Nancy's tousled curls stood on end as she looked over to put them on. "Didn't you plan to ride? Roger wanted us to see the Waterwheel Falls, and it's much too far to walk. I thought we could ride and—"

"We don't ride," Gladys said flatly.

RIECK'S ICE CREAM

A PRODUCT OF NATIONAL DAIRY

Moonmist — By N. FLORENCE LEECH — Daily Short Story

ANN BYRD sat up with a start, and then jumped noiselessly out of bed as a distant clock struck one. She quickly slid her bare feet into pumps, and slipped into a one-piece dress. Then she silently stole down the hall, past her mother's open door, and out through the back of the modest one story bungalow. She giggled softly as she fumbled under the edge of the porch for the watering can. "I'm the biggest simp ever, but a promise is a promise," she whispered.

While the unwieldly can slowly filled at the outdoor spigot, she sniffed pleasurably the spicy odor of the clove pinks which bordered the walk. A full moon shone bright as day. Flower scents and moonlight! How beautiful the world was.

Fearlessly 18-year-old Ann went out of her back gate and started down the long, moonlit alley, enclosed by long, neat rows of back fences. She presently sat down her heavy burden and paused to rest. How quiet it was, and how black were the shadows! She peered anxiously ahead, for the first time realizing that she was being indiscreet.

There was a row of garages opening on this alley, which belonged to the handsome homes around on Monument avenue. They seemed closed and dark, like cowled, sleeping monks.

Ann lived on the side street from Monument avenue, and by the very fact of being round the corner, was a thousand miles removed from the aristocrats whose garages fronted on this alley. But just now she was not thinking of the snobbishness of wealth. She was intent on getting across to the next street, where one of those strange contradictions, a city garden, flourished.

Picking up her burden, she started on. She was midway the alley, and passing the garages, when a shadow detached itself from the darkness of a wide-open doorway, and as she shrank back, the towering figure of a man stood before her. Ann dropped the can, and was about to run when his voice stopped her—a pleasant, amused, friendly voice. "Oh, I say, where are you going, my pretty maid?"

No night prowler had a voice like that! Her first panic abated, her curiosity came to life, and pride held her feet from running. Ann pushed her hair out of her eyes and looked at him—a tall, broad young man, in evening dress, and even in the tricky moonlight, he was strangely familiar.

"I—I—" she floundered, then deliberately challenged him. "What are you doing in the Montgomery garage?"

He threw back his head with a surprised laugh, and the moonlight twinkled on his big, white teeth. "Me? I'm the prodical son, home from Harvard. And just in time, I'd say!"

Ted Montgomery! The boy all the Monument avenue girls were crazy about, the boy whose pictures she had cut from the Sunday supplements and hidden away, but whom she had never expected to meet.

He stooped easily, picking up the heavy watering can. "Where did you say we are going?" he inquired, that wide smile flashing again.

"You go home; I'll continue—on my way!" she returned coolly, but her heart was pounding.

"Not on your life! You need protection, young lady. Suppose some marauder grabbed you?" He was striding before her, and perforce she followed. Suppose a policeman came along!

They came now to the opening of the alley. "Do we turn right or left?" he asked.

"We-we cross the street to that garden," she answered meekly.

"So you're Mistress Mary, quite contrary, and not a milkmaid, after all," he decided. "Do you do this every night?"

She scowled and turned half away from him, unfastened the catch of the improvised gate to the wire enclosed garden. Ted was frankly studying the smooth blond hair, coiled, not snippel off; the delicately curved cheek, the violet eyes. Deliberately he continued, "Because if you do—"

"Give me that watering pot, please. I'm in a hurry!"

"Morning's at seven," he quoted blithely, and with more energy than skill began sprinkling to right and left.

Ann's snippiness concealed an aching pain, and growing embarrassment. How awful that this young man, whom she had secretly adored for three years, should meet her in this fashion! He probably thought her a silly, reckless little fool; but, gentleman that he was, he was staying to protect a lone girl out after midnight who went through alleys.

"This is my brother's garden," she said huskily, and Ted's observant eyes saw the teardrop that sparkled on her cheek. "He is out of town for a few days. He—he made me promise to water it every evening, and I forgot." She smiled faintly. "So when I finally remembered, I came the nearest way."

"Bully for you!" Ted cried, setting down the now empty can.

"Bill has worked so hard over this garden. He sells the vegetables—we need every penny, you see, for we're poor as—church mice!" She looked up at him defiantly, and he saw that her lips quivered.

Moonlight—and summer! Ted breathed deeply, unconscious that the fragrance he inhaled was onions. "And you keep your promises, Moonmist," he said, softly.

"Yes—though sometimes tardily."

How lovely she was! He wondered what new charms the sunlight would reveal. "Say, you're different from other girls," he declared abruptly. "They mostly make me sick!" He picked up the can. "Come on, let's hurry. You ought to be home in bed. Heavens, how you need a protector!"

"I can take care of myself," Ann reported, but feeling somehow comforted. "And after September, when I begin teaching, I shall help take care of mother, too."

"That we will discuss another time," he replied. "Will you and your mother be home this morning at about 11 o'clock?"

"Yes, but why?"

"Because I want to call and meet her, and be formally introduced to you. I've a lot to suggest about your future plans."

Ann gasped. "This is my gate, I'm home now. Thank you—and goodnight."

"One second, Moonmist." He seized her hand. "What's your other name?"

"Ann Byrd. I'm an early bird." Her eyes met his, then her long lashes hid them.

"Truest thing you ever said," he laughed softly. "You got the early worm, Moonmist!"

But who ever heard of the early bird being kissed by the worm?

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Synthetic Love

NOT everything that passes for "platonic friendship" is the genuine article. Sometimes it is just denatured love.

* * *

When a man begins to talk glowingly of being "just good pals," somehow it always makes a woman suspicious. She knows that what he really wants is not a glorified attention, but a synthetic LOVE, A non-inflammable, non-intoxicating emotion, guaranteed to stimulate him and amuse him, but not to make him so dizzy that he will stumble into any serious situation.

* * *

HELEN ROWLAND

It is the plank over which he hopes to cross safely the dangerous quicksands of love without "falling in"—the beautiful camouflage behind which he fancies that he is concealing his emotions when he can no longer hide the love-light in his eyes.

* * *

It is the armor which a cautious, non-marrying man puts on when he feels that he is weakening toward a woman or succumbing to the marrying mood.

* * *

It is the drawbridge over which he fancies that he can always retreat when he suspects that he is about to surrender.

* * *

To a woman, on the other hand, platonic friendship is the little side-gate by which she hopes to slip into a man's affections when he isn't looking. It is the sedative by which she lulls his suspicions to sleep long enough to slip the bridle over his head.

A clever woman listens with a cryptic smile when a man begins babbling the "good pal" stuff.

She knows that when you put the LID on love you merely hasten the combustion. The longest way around romance is sometimes the shortest way to matrimony.

* * *

A man who has a genuine platonic affection for a girl never talks about it. He just takes it for granted.

* * *

It is not until he feels himself growing too weak to struggle against a woman's attractions, and fears that he is going down for the third time, that he grasps at the "good pal" stuff and tries to climb up on the raft.

* * *

As a child fights against the "Sandman," so a man fights against falling in love—and platonic friendship is the fairy tale which he hopes will keep his eyes open.

Love's Awakening

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Marion's Regard for Stepfather Makes Lillian Happy

LILLIAN was distinctly distrait during our drive back from the Whitney school at Sackettsville where we had left Marion. For a while I humored her evident desire for silence, then when I feared her depression was deepening, I told her something which I was sure would banish her dejection, but which I had had no opportunity to retail to her.

"Do you remember a prophecy I made some time ago concerning Marion and her mates at school?" I asked.

She turned her eyes away from the mountains—I guessed that it was little of their beauty she had seen in these first moments of separation from the young daughter she adored—and looked at me attentively.

"I don't believe I do," she said slowly—then she flushed. "Do you mean what you said about her telling them that Harry—"

Her voice trailed away confusedly into silence, and I answered the tense, startled inquiry in her eyes.

"I mean exactly that," I told her, smiling. "I heard some of the girls exclaiming over the car, and Marion explained in the most casual way: 'Yes, I'm crazy about it, ever since my stepfather taught me to drive it.' 'Your stepfather!' the girls squealed. 'I never knew you had one.' You should have heard Marion at that. 'I wasn't permitted to say anything about him,' she said loftily, 'because he was away on a very important mission for the government. But he is home now to stay, and he is perfectly marvelous to me. I'm wild about him.'"

"Did she say that, actually?" Lillian asked wonderingly, and I gave her an emphatic affirmative, refraining from voicing my own mental comment that the words were the usual schoolgirl appraisal set upon everything from a new boy acquaintance to a stick of chewing gum. It was well worth my repression to see Lillian's face and eyes luminous with happiness at my little tale.

"I wonder how she got hold of that government angle," she said after a moment. "I never told her anything like that."

"Nor I," was my quick comment. "But you must remember that she inherits your keenness, and that it wouldn't be extremely difficult for her to get a vague idea of Harry's work. I'm sure she knows nothing that it would be indiscreet for her to repeat, also sure that she would not utter it if she had found anything out. What she told the girls was innocuous enough."

"Though boastful," Lillian commented. But her smile was anything but critical, and her eyes were starry when she added tenderly:

"How glad Harry will be! I can hardly wait to tell him."

She made the opportunity within a few minutes after her husband met us at the little town from which he had started us on our journey to Sackettsville. He greeted the story with a huge laugh.

"Well! I'll be—gridironed!" he said. "The boastful little devil! I guess I'd better get busy and do a second-story job or two. She's given me a hard rep to live up to. I hope they don't censor the parcel post packages down there."

"But they do that very little thing," his wife told him. "So you'll have to lay off the candy." Her voice echoed the prideful pleasure which had been in his own, and I drew a long breath of thankfulness for the belated happiness which Marion's changing attitude toward her stepfather was bringing them.

DAISIES WON'T TELL!

Drawn by Dorothy Flack

"HE loves me; he loves me not!" Over and over they chant the lover's litany, and each time the fickle daisy gives a different answer. And they're torn between hope and doubt, for haven't they always heard that the daises will surely tell them their fate?

Perhaps; but, on the other hand, "daisies won't tell," you know, so they just keep you guessing and wondering until your heart is almost broken.

Why doubt? Why depend on someone or something else to tell you what you want most to hear? Isn't the Beloved's word sufficient proof of his love? Why put it to the test? Don't be so silly! True, it's lots of fun to ask the daisies, but it's a shame to destroy their white and gold loveliness.

Poor little daisies! They'd tell you if they could, but how do they know that their petals are to be torn so ruthlessly from their golden hearts just to answer a curious maid's question? True, if the daisies thought they could help they'd do everything in their power to further the interests of Love, but they're powerless. However, you may be sure that whatever secrets you confide to their gold and white loveliness are safe, for they CAN keep a secret.

When the Beloved tells you of his love, believe him! Don't go around trying to prove it in all the silly little ways that girls love. Love is founded on Faith, and without faith it isn't love.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, July 3

MANY adverse aspects of the planets dominate on the day, both by mutual and lunar aspect. There is forecast of a sudden change, radical and disruptive in nature, attended by inharmonious and turbulent conditions born of a wayward, tempestuous and reckless tendency. This clamor may be the means of bringing to the light some sinister situation or some particularly malevolent occurence. It is urged that these proclivities be firmly subdued lest there be disaster. It is probable that the intervention of staunch friends may save the day.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a hazardous year, with sudden change and peculiarly sinister situations, these contributed to by a tendency to intemperate actions, violence or ungoverned speech and conduct. Rigid self-control, calm demeanor and the assistance of friends may save the day.

A child born on this day may have some charming and gracious traits despite a strong predisposition to ungoverned speech and tumultuous actions. While it may be clever, only rigorous discipline in self-control will assist its career.

Your God Self dwells not alone in being; much in you is still man, and much in you is not yet man.—Kahlil Gibran.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

How to Treat Ivy and Oak Poisoning.

THERE are many diseases and affections which are seasonal. For instance, you suffer from ivy poisoning only during the warm season. This is true also, of oak poisoning. Of course, these two plants are very much alike. Oak grows in California and the Pacific states. Ivy is met in the Middle and Eastern states.

DR. COPELAND

The symptoms of ivy and oak poisoning are similar. They begin with an intense itching of the skin. This is followed by burning, a rash and very shortly the formation of small papules close together.

The second day these papules or pimple-like spots become swollen and inflamed. The skin is extremely sore to the touch. Later the blisters break of their own accord, or are rubbed by the scratching, permitting the fluid to escape. This appears to spread the poison, passing the infection to other parts of the body.

In severe cases the pus may take the place of the fluid.

I have told you the more serious side of poison ivy. There is little or no excuse for anyone to suffer all these symptoms. If proper care of the skin is taken after exposure to this plant, there need be no violent symptoms.

If you are warm and perspiring, you are more susceptible than otherwise. The pores of the skin are open and infection easily occurs.

The first thing to do if you have been exposed to poison ivy is to wash thoroughly the hands, face or other exposed parts. Use plenty of strong soap, such as ordinary laundry soap. Baking soda in strong solution is also beneficial.

Probably the most healing solution to use to reduce the itching and swelling is grindella robusta. To one part of the extract use four or five parts of water.

Applications of vaseline or boric acid salve form a covering protecting the affected parts. This guards against the irritation caused by exposure to the air.

Sometimes the itching yields to applications of hyposulphite of soda. A tablespoonful to a cup of water will make a mixture which may be mopped on the irritated places.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Mourning Veil

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
Is it proper for a widow to wear a mourning veil, or is it no longer considered good taste? Would you regard it as ostentatious? We will be greatly obliged if you will give us your opinion.
ELLA AND NED.

THIS is a matter of personal reaction—whether or not one believes in heavy-hearted mourning clothes, and whether or not such clothes make one feel better. It is not regarded as ostentatious; indeed, for anyone to criticise what one does under such sorrowful circumstances as losing a husband is poor taste. Now, however, all customs concerning mourning have, in general, changed, and most widows wear the mourning veil only to the funeral. Often not then. Perhaps the change to lighter weight fabrics has had much to do with this. Crepe is such a lugubrious and sorrowful-hearted material in itself that most people avoid it, as adding to their sorrow, rather than detracting from it. But it is really just as a person feels. If a widow feels that the wearing of crepe is a protection to her in her sorrow, if she feels that it makes her grief more personal, then there is no reason why she should not wear it.

I think, too, that the fact that all-white is as "heavy" mourning as all-black has had something to do with the fact that widows have discarded heavy mourning, in summer and in the house.

Engagement Etiquette

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
We are about to become engaged. The girl is going with me to buy the ring. Is it proper for her to put the ring on in the store and wear it home, or should I take the ring and put it on her finger when we are alone?
WILLIAM.

IT would be very much better taste for your fiancee not to wear the ring until you and she are alone together. There wouldn't be much sentiment in having her put the ring on her finger at the jeweler's, and I am sure that you would prefer what I suggest. Wouldn't you?

A Birthday Party

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:
My mother is giving me a birthday party soon, and at the table I should like to say a few words of appreciation to my friends. Would you please advise me what to say? I am only 11 years old, and I feel that I should be advised by an older person as to what to say. Thank you, if you will help me.
ELEVEN-YEAR-OLD READER.

FOR you to say a few words of appreciation to your friends would be a charming thing for you to do, and I am proud of you for thinking of making such a delightful gesture. Of course, the "speech" would be only a few words, perhaps something like (in whole or in part): "May I please tell you dear friends of mine how happy you have made my birthday? I appreciate more than I can tell you your coming to my party, and you have made of my birthday a glorious memory that I shall always hold precious in my heart. Thank you a million times for such deep and high friendship. I am so glad that I was born—and I am so glad that I have you all for friends!"

(And please, dear little lady, may I add my friendly birthday greetings, too, for your day?)

BROKEN PAROLE JAILS MANGAN

William Mangan, 29, of South Eleventh street, was sentenced to four months in the county jail by Federal Judge Nelson McVicar today for violation of parole. Mangan was paroled for two years after he pleaded guilty, April 4, to sale and possession of narcotics.

Mangan explained that he had been unable to report to the parole officer because his job in the county roads bureau took all his time. He was arrested by city detectives investigating the theft of a radio from a downtown store and turned over to federal authorities. On Saturday Mangan attempted to escape from deputy marshals in the Federal Building and was recaptured after a chase up several flights of stairs.

The collection includes two diaries taken from Spanish soldiers.

Director Frederic A. Godcharles hopes to use the pieces as a nucleus of a special Mexican War exhibit.

Wounds Brother, Then Boy, 14, Kills Self

MANCHESTER, N. H., July 2.—(AP.)—Roland Maloney, 14, fatally shot himself at his home here because he feared he would be punished for having accidentally wounded his brother, Lloyd, 13. The boy fired a bullet into his head when he heard his father enter his home after being summoned by the boy's mother.

The children were playing with the pistol in the yard of their home when it was discharged. The bullet pierced Lloyd's arm.

Both boys were taken to a hospital where Roland died several hours later.

Lloyd's wound was said to be slight.

LEGGE HEADS FARM BOARD

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(INS.)—Alexander Legge, wealthy president of the International Harvester Company of Chicago, has accepted President Hoover's invitation to become a member of the new Federal Farm Board, which is to administer the administration's $500,000,000 agricultural relief program, it was announced at the White House today.

Legge will be chairman, at least for the first year, and James C. Stone, of Kentucky, will be vice chairman.

C. C. Teague, who has long been identified with California co-operatives, also has accepted a place on the board, it was announced.

With these acceptances, five of the eight places on the farm board have now been filled, and W. S. Moscrip, of Minnesota, has been offered one of the remaining three. He has not yet replied.

In announcing Legge's acceptance, President Hoover said the Chicagoan was "making a great personal sacrifice" in leaving his business to come to Washington in the government's service. Legge's salary as president of the Harvester Company is $100,000 a year. As a member of the farm board he will draw only $12,000.

FUGAZY CALLED IN DEATH QUIZ

NEW YORK, July 2.—(INS.)—Broadway's latest murder mystery investigation—the baffling case of Frank Marlow, racketeer who was "taken for a ride"—assumed a new and unexpected aspect this afternoon when Police Commissioner Grover Whalen threatened to send detectives to bring in Humbert J. Fugazy, prominent fight promoter, for questioning in connection with the slaying.

Whalen said Fugazy has been told to come to police headquarters yesterday. He protested, asking if he could not be questioned elsewhere. The one-time rival of the late "Tex" Rickard was to be quizzed about a conversation he is alleged to have had with Marlow shortly before he was taken on his "death ride."

Son Rented Daily To Beggar, Man Gets 3 Years

NEW YORK, July 2.—(AP.)—David Bernstein, 45, was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary because he rented his seven-year-old son, Solomon, out as a beggar.

Bernstein would fasten the boy in a wheel chair in such a manner that his leg seemed rigid and with his head tilted back over his shouldher as if paralyzed. For $3 a day he would rent the boy and chair out to a Negro who would wheel them about the city collecting alms. The Negro, Harry Waters, who also received a three-year sentence, paid the boy 30 cents a day.

2 FLIERS LEAP TO SAFETY

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., July 2.—(AP.)—Taking to their parachutes after they were unable to find a landing place when their fuel became exhausted while passing over the Allegheny Mountains yesterday, two airmen dropped to safety near St. Michael, east of here. The occupants of the plane, Richard DePew, Jr., pilot, and Atwood Woodruff, passenger, suffered only minor cuts and bruises.

The men jumped at 6,000 feet after their plane had started to fall from an altitude of 11,000 feet.

The plane, a Fairchild six-passenger cabin craft, was being flown from the Fairchild factory at Farmingdale, Long Island, to St. Louis. It was badly wrecked. Woodruff is a son of the sales manager of the Fairchild company.

METROPOLITAN DISTRICT NEWS

AVALON TROLLEY FIRE PUTS SIX IN HOSPITAL

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

IN THE Allegheny Cemetery is a monument marked: Stephen C. Foster, 1926-1864. In Lawrenceville there is the Foster homestead as a memorial. At the present time women's clubs and school children are getting up a fund to construct a protentious memorial to the song-writer. Of the many Pittsburghers who have achieved fame in various lines Foster promises to outlive them all. His story might be taken by a moving picture company and made into a phenomenal success.

* * *

A nation sat tense while in one place a man named Thomas Jefferson lay dying while in another a man named John Quincy Adams was breathing his last. It happened to be, curiously enough, July 4, 1826, the fiftieth jubilee of the Declaration of Independence. Both famous presidents died that day and in a home in Lawrenceville, Col. William Foster announced to a crowd gathered at his home that "it was a boy." He was called Stephen Collins Foster and was one of a large family.

TO a colored church in Pittsburgh, where hymns came easily and emotions were free, young Collins was taken by a mulatto girl, Lieve Pise, a servant in the Foster household, and it might have been at such services that the boy first was inspired by the Negro melodies to write in later years songs of the Negro and the South that caused his fame to spread to all corners of the world.

His story is rich in tragedy, if not in romance. His story is of an early success, which never blossomed fully, and at last withered in his lifetime to produce an ending more touching than any of his songs of melancholy and nostalgia.

IN pre-Civil War days in Pittsburgh a piano was a rarity. There were only three or four in town when young Foster was showing a youthful talent for writing music. One family whose piano he used had the pleasure of seeing one of his songs dedicated to a daughter. As the town continued to grow every Tom, Dick and Harry was buying a piano and finally it got on the nerves of an editorial writer for the Pittsburgh Chronicle who inveighed against all the talk and fuss being made over the pianoforte. What the irate writer would do today with the saxophone rampant, staggers the imagination.

Foster was a peculiar genius. At 23 he was at the crest of his wave. His best songs, "The Old Folks at Home," "Old Black Joe" and "My Old Kentucky Home," were written in his early twenties and after that he accomplished nothing on a par with those songs.

HE WAS off to a great start, but he finished badly. He went to New York and from a figure that wrote music destined to be immortal and world-renowned he took to writing inconsequential things which he sold for what pocket money he could get. The secret of his decline was strong drink.

Some biographers claim to know he wrote some of his music on brown wrapping paper in the back of a grocery store where rum was sold—and drank. Mozart and Schubert starved; Beethoven was deaf; Handel was blind, and poor Foster, missing all this, came upon a sad end through a weakness for liquor.

ONE day he was dying with but one friend near him in the charity ward of a New York hospital, the last refuge for the city's derelicts, but a few days later—when he was dead—a railroad company transported the body back to Pittsburgh and refused to accept money for the privilege.

His songs were about the South and the Negro, observing an Uncle Tom flavor, yet his family was against the abolition movement.

PLANNERS URGE EXTENSION OF BOULEVARD

Oakland Property Owners Object to Ramp Proposal; Before Council Monday

Oakland residents and property owners were advised at a hearing today before the City Planning Commission that a recommendation would be submitted by that body to Council next Monday on alternate proposals for extending the Boulevard of the Allies eastwardly. Frederick Bigger presided.

A plan favored by the commission to assist in the control of traffic in connection with the proposed extension includes a traffic circle at the intersection of Coltart, Wilmot street and Zulema street.

PROVIDES RAMP

An alternate plan submitted recently by the Department of Public Works provides an overhead ramp from Halket street to Wilmot.

A feature of the proposed extension is the proposed widening of Wilmot street to 80 feet.

The circle was advocated by W. G. Negley, of the Oakland Board of Trade, and Harry J. Applestein, attorney for promoters of a proposed $750,000 apartment house. W. C. Rice, of the Better Traffic Committee, suggested a combination of the favorable features of both plans.

Ramps were sponsored by Burton W. Marsh, traffic engineer and member of the Better Traffic Committee, and Traffic Inspector Benjamin Marshall.

OBJECTIONS VOICED

Attorney Howard Neeley, representing another owner of large holdings, was neutral on the alternate plans, but strongly urged the widening of Wilmot street.

Objectors to the ramp proposal declared it would pass close to adjacent houses and would depreciate property. In view of that objection, Charles M. Reppert, chief engineer of the Department of Public Works, declared the department would accept the circle suggestion.

Burned

RUTH DINGER

Miss Dinger 18, 3434 Sipe street, North Side, was in the hospital today suffering burns received when flames shot through an outbound Avalon car last night.

REX FLINN BUYS BOOTH & FLINN

A. Rex Flinn has bought the Booth and Flinn Company from the estate of George H. Flinn. Beyond admitting the purchase today, Mr. Flinn refused to discuss the subject.

The late Senator William Flinn and James Booth were the founders of Booth & Flinn, Ltd., now the Booth and Flinn Company, organized nearly half a century ago. Later Booth retired. It has figured in some of the largest road, subway and tunnel projects in the United States.

FIRM NATIONALLY KNOWN

When Senator Flinn died, his oldest son, George H. Flinn, became president of the company. The latter died in March of the present year. George H. Flinn left an estate valued at between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000.

The Booth and Flinn Company is nationally known. One of the outstanding jobs completed by the concern was the Holland vehicular tunnel under the Hudson River. The firm also is engaged in the construction of tunnels under the Harlem River.

BUILT LIBERTY TUBES

It built the Liberty Tubes through the South Hills and also the tunnel under Mt. Washington, now being used by the Pittsburgh Railways Company. The company has built some of the largest railroad tunnels in this country, and has probably done more street and road work in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County than any other contracting concern.

15 BURNED AS 70 FLEE IN PANIC

Passengers Try to Escape Via Smashed Windows as Short Circuit Sets Blaze

Six of 15 persons, burned painfully last night when the main power cable of an outbound Avalon street car became grounded and burned off, shooting flames through the car, were reported recovering in St. John's Hospital today. Nine others were confined to their homes.

Seventy passengers on the car were thrown into a panic when a sheet of flame shot from beneath the seats of the car at California avenue, near Island avenue, North Side. Dense smoke filled the car as the panic-stricken passengers were making for the doors. The accident occurred shortly after 6 p. m.

RUSHED TO HOSPITAL

Police from the North Side and Woods Run stations, with the aid of motorists, took the most seriously injured to the hospital.

Those taken to the hospital, and whose condition was regarded as not serious, were Miss Florence Ragen, 25, of 930 McKinley terrace; Miss Blanche Wells, 27 of 210 McKinley avenue; Mrs. Edna Freiberger, 32, of 520 Marie avenue; Mrs. Genevieve Robbins, 36, of 310 South Birmingham avenue, and Alex Dunn, 44, of 1026 Hamilton avenue, all of Avalon, and Miss Ruth Dinger, 18, of 3434 Sipe street, North Side.

Others reported slightly injured were Elizabeth Klein, of 721 Means avenue, Bellevue; Helen Baker, of Richardson avenue; Jane Von Hoene, of 33 Roseridge street, Bellevue; Mrs. William Groom and her daughter, Mary, 7, of 7417 West Park avenue, Swissvale; Marian McIlvaine, of 6806 Prospect avenue, Ben Avon; Albert Schneider, 18, of 431 North School street, Avalon, and Mrs. John Colburry, 70, of 312 River road, Avalon.

PANIC ENSUED

Windows in the car were shattered by screaming women and struggling men, and many were trampled in the scramble for the doors. Several women collapsed on the street, but were quickly revived by nearby doctors.

It was believed that the cable, dampened by the rain, short-circuited.

Plane Passenger Films Movie as Ship Falls

STONEHAM, Mass., July 2.—(INS.)—A moving picture record of a thrilling 300-foot drop into Spot Pond, taken from the plane while it was traveling at a mile-a-minute clip, today was developed by Joseph H. Stearns, of Stoneham, who calmly clicked the movie camera while the airplane, piloted by Lieut. Frank Otis, Jr., of Moline, Ill., a senior at the Harvard medical school, nosedived.

The motor of the Traveliar biplane, in which Otis, amateur photographer and aviation enthusiast, was engaged in making pictures of the vicinity near Spot Pond, went dead. Lieut. Otis, son of Dr. Frank Otis, of Moline, Ill., chose the water for the forced landing rather than the surrounding trees. Neither was injured.

Will Rogers Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 2.

Well, let's see what happened over the week-end. About the worst thing happened over the week-end happened to Al Espinosa, the Golpher.

He was unfortunate enough to tie Bobby Jones, and then foolish enough to play the tie off with him, so he was listed among the automobile and airplane casualties.

The notice read: "Al Espinosa died a natural death—he met Jones when his putter was working."

The French had a calamity over the week-end almost comparable to the war. Their Chamber of Deputies considered paying us our debt.

Yours,

WILL.

CITY OFFICIALS OPPOSE SEIZURE OF GARBAGE PLANT

KLINE'S PLAN MEETS WITH DISFAVOR

Successful Operation Under Public Ownership Doubted By Evans and Councilmen

Mayor Charles H. Kline's plan for municipal ownership by confiscating the plant of the American Reduction Company, if imperative, to insure proper service to the people in removing garbage and rubbish from homes, has not been received with enthusiasm by other city officials.

The mayor discussed his plan in a letter outlined yesterday to City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt as a necessary contingency in case the company curtailed its activities as a result of the city's pending legal action to recover $1,000,000 in cost charges under a cost-plus contract.

The city also seeks to have $500,000 in dividends recently paid to stockholders returned to the company's treasury so as to be available, if necessary, in settling the city's claims.

TO ENTER SUIT SOON

Controller Henry O. Evans expects to enter suit in a few days to recover the disputed cost charges. He has said that the stockholders, who are heirs of the late George H. Flinn, have tentatively agreed to return the dividend payments.

Mayor Kline's letter followed a meeting of Council last Saturday when President James F. Malone advised Dr. C. B. Maits, health director, to take necessary steps to insure the fullest protection to public health by continuing the regular service in disposing of garbage and rubbish.

The mayor's letter pointed out that the $1,000,000 which Evans seeks to have returned to the city would be a "big set-off for the city to apply against the amount fixed by condemnation as the purchase price" of the company's plant.

The plant is worth not more than $500,000, according to the last appraisal.

DOUBTFUL OF SUCCESS

Mayor Kline referred to Evans' admission that the present condition of the company's accounts was the result of the failure of an employe of the controller's office, over a period of eight years, to make a proper audit.

The employe said to be H. S. Breitenstein, former chief accountant, whose resignation has been accepted by Evans.

Breitenstein had been employed in the controller's office for more than 20 years before Evans became controller early this year.

Members of Council were doubtful of the success of a municipally owned garbage disposal plant.

AGAINST CONFISCATION

When his attention was called to the mayor's letter, Controller Evans said:

"As city controller, my chief concern is to obtain a return of the money due to the city. The physical property of the American Reduction Company was appraised in 1924 as part of the estate of the late Senator William Flinn at approximately $400,000. Additions made since that time less depreciations might bring the present appraisal to $500,000.

"Speaking as a private citizen I am not in favor of municipal ownership except as a last resort.

"Government does not function efficiently in a complicated business. Furnishing water, however, is comparatively simple and is therefore a common activity and is generally well performed.

"Until we have demonstrated a considerable improvement in efficiency and economy I would doubt the advisability of the city taking over the garbage and rubbish disposal, except, as I said, as a last resort."

BIDS RECEIVED FOR TOWN HALL

Bids for the construction of the new $175,000 municipal building for Mt. Lebanon were opened at the regular semi-monthly meeting of the township commissioners, held in the Washington School auditorium last night. The awarding was postponed till next Monday, when a special meeting will be held. There were 12 bids submitted.

From January 1 to June 29, 296 building permits were issued at an estimated cost of $3,608,104, according to the report submitted by George J. Irwin, township building inspector. The amount exceeds 1928, for the same period, by $707,762, and by five permits, the commissioners were informed.

A delegation of citizens appeared in a body objecting to the construction of a large apartment house on Beverly road. The commissioners revoked the building permit for the present, until an investigation is made. At present that particular section is not a restricted building zone. B. Herskovits is planning to construct a six-story apartment building which will house 60 families.

A petition was presented and passed on the first and second readings for the grading, paving and curbing of Virginia and Mayfair avenues, in a new development called Washington Park Plan No. 2.

Attorney A. G. Smith, spokesman for a group of residents present, addressed the board of commissioners, urging the purchase of an additional strip of property adjoining the township's municipal park, and to be used for the enlarging of that park. He also requested that work should be started immediately for the improving of the park.

President G. W. Scheck presided. All commissioners were present.

THE MODERN WAY TO COOK VEGETABLES

Save the Vital Elements and Improve the Flavor

Every woman who knows the importance of vegetable foods and wishes to make these healthful dishes tasteful, will welcome the work of two groups of nationally known cooking experts. These women experimented at length with vegetables cooked in the various ways. Their conclusions are of value to everyone interested in diet and health. Use little water in cooking vegetables. Do not overcook. Add a dash of sugar while the foods are cooking.

What does the dash of sugar do? It does not make the vegetables taste sweet as might be expected, but it intensifies the piquant flavors. It restores the freshness of flavor. It helps to heighten the color of the vegetables.

Try this Carrot Loaf recommended by one of the experts. Scrape enough carrots to make a pint of pulp. Boil in slightly sweetened water until tender. Then mash. To the pint of pulp, add 2 well-beaten eggs, ½ teaspoon of salt, ¼ teaspoon of pepper, 2 teaspoons of sugar and ¼ cup of cream. Pour into a well-buttered mold. Stand this in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven until firm. Turn out on hot platter and surround with peas and serve with white sauce.

Use a dash of sugar to make the healthful foods so appetizing that people will eat them. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

GEORGE SHARP PLAYERS GIVE EXCELLENT PERFORMANCE OF OLD COMEDY IN PITT

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

SOMETHING to cheer you up? Prescription—one dose of the undiluted and all-conquering optimism of Mrs. Wiggs, title character of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," dramatized version of the popular Alice Hegan Rice book, the week's attraction in the Pitt, admirably presented by the George Sharp Players.

Mrs. Wiggs, of course, has her troubles, the only one of which she seems to remember is the desertion of herself and numerous children by a husband affected by wavering affections, but she is able to banish even that, with the others, from her mind in the course of smoothing the pathway of life for others.

OLD-FASHIONED WORTH

"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," is old-fashioned in theme, old-fashioned in the crude technique of its construction, old-fashioned in its sermonizing on the homely but useful virtues, old-fashioned in its honesty and cleanliness and old-fashioned, perhaps, in the opinion of the blase, in its triteness, but it will ever be new-fashioned in one respect—life is largely what one makes it.

And because that is so, there can be happiness in the midst of cramping poverty and beauty amidst humble surroundings, among the little shanties and huts down by the railroad track.

In portraying the characters of the little tale of a recreant husband, and the wedding of a Civil War "hero" to the community spinster, and the struggle of a deserted woman to keep her family together, but still willing to take in a girl who had run away from an orphanage, taking a smaller child with her, the Sharp Players do their work with commendable merit.

ROLE CAPABLY PLAYED

The role of Mrs. Wiggs is tuned to the proper key by Frances Neilson. Sentiments that might sound mawkish less artistically presented, seem to be natural outpouring of a generous heart, as Mrs. Wiggs is played by Miss Neilson. Mabel Kroman shocks her friends by her uncomely appearance as Miss Hazy, but that tearful lady's tribulations on the eve of her wedding to Mr. Stubbins, the war "hero," and thereafter, could scarcely be limned with greater degree of perfection than Miss Kroman imparts to the role. Mr. Stubbins, as recreated by Gus Forbes, is another triumph in character delineation and comedy acting by that veteran artist.

Lovey Mary is played with appropriate charm of lovable character by Pauline MacLean, while Kenneth Daigneau and Brown Mehard give satisfying performances in romantic parts. Billy Wiggs is the well-done work of Robert Lowes, Chris Hazy and Mr. Wiggs being played by Arthur Sprenkle and Robert Fiske, respectively.

Subordinate parts, including those of numerous children, are in adequate hands. For the week, Mr. Sharp's company is about the largest he has had in the Pitt and all give good account of themselves, down to the tiniest tot, Gloria De Luca, in the part of the little fugitive from the orphanage, who finds his true home at last.

"Cuby," the horse, is untrue to character, being only a Shetland pony, but we'll excuse that because such a decrepit horse as "Cuby" was, probably is not to be found today.

"THE DUMMY" TALKS IN ALDINE

The dummy in "The Dummy," current Aldine film, is not so dumb. Rather, he's quite a talkative dummy. He is very heroic and very juvenile also. In fact, so much so, that there is a Horatio Alger or a Harry Castleman flavor about him. But, just the same, he's an interesting character, and he is portrayed interestingly also by Mickey Bennett.

Mickey wants to be a detective. He outwits a crowd of other boys, getting a job with a detective agency, and finds himself involved with a gang of kidnapers. He plays deaf and dumb in an effort to fool them. And he does for awhile. He succeeds in informing his employer the whereabouts of a small girl who has been taken by the gang. But then he goes and spoils it by talking in his sleep. And dumb persons don't talk in their sleep. Even Zasu Pitts knows that.

And Zasu certainly shines brightly in the film. She has a voice that fits her personality. A voice that she inflects with a dull-like tone, that rises to strange pitches. It fits, like a glove, the part she has—that of a dumb-sort of gangster's "moll."

It is a good cast all the way. Among the other players are Ruth Chatterton, Frederic March, John Cromwell, Richard Tucker and Jack Oakie.

The picture, an all-talkie and based on the stage play, manages to hold interest. And you are glad when, at the end, Mickey gets his badge and the little girl is back in the arms of a reunited mother and father. You see, before the kidnaping, her parents were separated.

Short screen acts on the bill include a Movietone Revue, with Jack Pepper as master of ceremonies.

Kiddies From Home Will See 'Mrs. Wiggs'

Between 30 and 40 children from the Detention Home will be guests of George Sharpe tonight in the Pitt, where they will view the second performance of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." A. L. Wills, superintendent of the home, requested that the children be given an opportunity to see the play.

POPULAR

Boyd Is Star In Sheridan

In the Sheridan Square the feature presentation, "High Voltage," presents William Boyd in a dramatic story of the conflict of two strong men for a girl and against the elements. Characters are a girl who is being returned to the penitentiary, a detective, a banker, a girl who is about to be a bride and a bus driver, all snowbound. In the cast are Owen Moore, Carol Lombard and Diane Ellis. Shorts include Bernie Cummings, and a comedy skit "Oft in the Silly Night."

LEAD

MONEY, LOVE IN STANLEY TALKIE

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Wall street—with a graveyard at one end and a river at the other—again has been imprisoned by the movie cameras, this time in "The Gamblers," all-talkie in the Stanley. It is a picture of flighty love and flighty finance.

The film opens with the sound of a stock ticker. It ends with a woman being reunited with her husband. In between the Emerson Trust Building looms big upon the screen. We didn't count the stories, but it reaches ever so far upwards in the New York dusk—a monument to the gambling Emersons, father and son.

They give a birthday party to the senior Emerson, veteran man of finance. Also veteran of the screen, for he is no other than George Fawcett. And in evening clothes he is quite a picturesque gentleman. A big cake, candle-lighted and capped with a model of his towering building, is on display. When the cake is cut, the toy-like building totters—symbol of what threatens the Emerson bank itself.

A JEALOUS HUSBAND

It is here that the flighty finance comes in. Emerson, the son, and some of the directors, unknown to the old gentleman, had "borrowed" bank moneys for their stock gambling. And the United States attorney general's office, in the person of H. B. Warner, as a seemingly ruthless attorney, starts investigating the Emerson affairs. What is more, Attorney Warner is a jealous husband. What is worse, his wife happens to be the woman that Emerson, Jr., wants. And that's where the flighty love comes in.

In true movie fashion all of these factors develop into quite a complicated state. There are no end of dramatics and that sort of thing. Eventually, Emerson, Jr., is dragged off to jail and is indicted. At the close, however, he wins his freedom. But he does not get the girl.

The cast does quite well. Lois Wilson, as the wife, is tearful, gay and romantic in turn. And Jason Robards and some others also give good support to Mr. Fawcett and Mr. Warner.

THE BATHTUB AGAIN

On the stage Charlie Melson is presenting "Vanities." It proved a lively enough show after it got started yesterday afternoon. But there was a delay in getting the curtain up. Something, perhaps, happened to the lid of the giant vanity box from which Melson's band pops.

The show offers some singing and dancing talent that was with one of the big Earl Carroll "Vanities." And, of course, Charlie has to make a quip about the bathtub. Melson is clever and likeable fellow and we want to broadcast that the Stanley stage shows are amounting to something since he stepped into the M. C. shoes.

In conclusion we mustn't forget to mention the dancing girls in this week's show. We like their green wigs and their steps. Nor must we omit a word about the David Broudy orchestra and the Bernie Armstrong organlogue combination. It is titled "The Spirit of the Fourth" and boasts a fire-cracker flavor.

Walter Winchell On Broadway

NEW YORK, July 2.

There's a Broken Promise for Every Light on Broadway

THIS corner never dreamed that some day it would befriend a song-plugger. The song-plugger, you might have read or heard, is considered as unimprtant as, let's say, a bureau like this. Nevertheless, the dean of all the song-popularizers, Sammy Levy, has been neglected by the crew of prosperous tune-builders, whom he helped make rich and Something Ought to Be Done About It.

Something ought to be done about it, because Sammy Levy served Broadway and environs for 22 years and recently Broadway, in typical fashion, cast him aside. Not considering for a moment, either, that he was one of its better citizens, and what is mort important, one of the few local Levys who never changed his name to Lee.

He is a chubby little man, the sole support of his mother and sister throughout his career, and today he is a paralytic and in want. The "mob" agreed many months ago that a benefit should be hurled for him, but it proved to be so much talk. Yesterday we discovered that they were going to "pass the hat around" and send Sammy to the country for the season, but there are numerous skeptics, including the pride of the Winchell tribe, who shudder at the reports that Sammy is being "staked" to a buck, or what have you?

IT ISN'T KOSHER

It doesn't seem kisher, at all, this state of things. Not when you pause to recall that Levy perspired and struggled all those years to "sell" ditties prepared by such songsmiths as Irving Berlin, Lewis and Young, George Meyer, Ted Snyder, Maurice Abrahams, E. Ray Goetz, Benny Davis, Con Conrad and Kalmar and Ruby and others. It was Sammy Levy who hustled 18 hours every day and night to put over such numbers as "Alexander's Ragtime Band," "Margie," "For Me and My Gal," "My Mother's Rosary," "In the Land of Harmony" and "When I Lost You," etcetera, all written by the above mentioned. It was Sammy Levy who braved the officious stage doormen and other theater attaches to interview an actor, and invariably Sammy "landed" them. This served to make a song popular, here and there, and when you get several entertainers to "plug" your firm's tunes, you sometimes receive a kind word. The heavy royalties, of course, go to the alleged writers.

Levy is better described as the dean of all song-pluggers. He was, for instance, the first to crash Madison Square Garden at all important athletic events and without a megaphone, he leather-lunged the newest songs to the toughest audience in the world. He reached 40,000 people, at times, many of whom bought sheet-music over the counter, not the type who used their influence to get professional copies, which are free.

He could be kidded and never complain. He checked it all up to "good will" and Waterson, Berlin & Snyder, the music publishers, appreciated his faithful and arduous work. But Waterson, Berlin & Snyder have not prospered in recent years and were forced to dispense with his services, after supporting the ailing fellow for a long spell.

"NO" HARDEST WORD

LEVY, it is also known, has appeared at more benefits than the so-called champions, Eddie Cantor and Will Rogers. Levy was listed as a "yes-man" by the kidders, but they will tell you today, that if it were not for Sammy Levy, an army of sister-acts and unemployed players would have gone hungry. He couldn't say "No," which is another reason why he is poor.

He made as many as a dozen theaters in a night when he had the necessary zip and pep, and when all other competitors snubbed the "dumb act" (the arcobats and other sight turns) Levy concentrated on these members, who discovered that the popular tunes made good "incidental music." This is recorded, to reveal Levy's foresight and ability. Today all music publishers instruct their song pluggers to "land" the "dumb acts."

One of the favorite Broadway adages is: "I'll listen to your troubles if you promise that when you've finished, you will listen to mine!" But it doesn't go this time. Levy's plight is unnecessary and a blot on the Tin-Pan Alley tag, and this is dedicated to the lads Levy served for 22 years, who now are the men of the hour in Hollywood. It is this corner's hope that their attention will be summoned to this report and that they forward their drafts or checks. They certainly can afford it, if the reports in the theatrical journals are accurate, and which show their weekly wage in the four figure division. It is a good time, too, we think, to prove to the song purchasers that the writers of such lyrics: "Dear old pal, I'd break an arm for you, you're the one and only, etc.," really mean it.

In fewer words, the world would be a sweeter place to dwell in for Sammy Levy, if half the mammy-writers sent him (or their mothers) a five spot now and then.

BY WAY OF REPORT

"ARE Newspapers Becoming Nuisances?" is the approximate title of a series of three articles on modern newspaper making which shortly will appear in one of the million circulation national weeklies. Written by a nationally-known editor of unimpeachable reputation, who will receive $3,500 per article, the theme will be the tendency of modern rags to invade the privacy of the individual under the guise of constitutional right of freedom of the press.

The articles will take the stand that the original constitutional guarantees were intended to insure freedom of opinion, particularly in political and religious matters, newspapers then being largely mediums of opinion rather than of news. Contending that the modern newspaper is essentially a commercial proposition dealing in news as the A. & P. deals in groceries or Hammacher & Schlemmer in bolts and nuts the editor will ask what constitutional right, if any, the newspapers has to invade individual privacy in order to sell papers, at the same time defending the right of newspapers to any news which may affect the public interest. At least three constitutional lawyers, all of whom have been members of the Cabinet will give their views of the legal aspects and the editor himself will suggest that the best cure will be "a great body of public opinion addressing itself not to the news rooms, but to the advertising department."

The articles were inspired by three recent happenings. One was the nuisance created by the newspaper photographers near the Morrow home at Englewood, New Jersey. Another was the arrest for contempt of court of the two photographers who pulled flashlights in a New York court in defiance of a request from the bench, and the third was the jam in which two New York tabloid reporters found themselves in Connecticut as a result of their ransacking of a house for private papers to be used in a sensational case.

Enright Gets Talk and Film

"The Madonna of Avenue A," current in the Enright, is a collection of movie melodramatics that lead nowhere—except to the usual happy clinch at the final fadeout. There are rum-runners, a gun battle, night club adventure, a suicide and numerous trials and tribulations.

The story chiefly concerns a pretty girl who discovers her mother isn't what she thought she was. And the girl ends up by marrying a handsome young fellow, who engages in the rum-running racket under eyes of the aforesaid mamma.

On the the stage Dick Powell and his gang make boom boom in a production titled "Bang Bang." It is a quite Fourth-of-Julyish. Mr. Powell vocalizes and leads his band in a military specialty. The Enright Rockets are featured in a dance number. Headlined entertainers include the Collett Sisters, who sing and dance; Martin and Mayo, in a comedy adagio act, and Milo, billed as "the mysterious."

RACKET

Dolores Costello becomes the wife of a racketeer in "The Madonna of Avenue A," Enright feature film.

MYSTERY

Ruth Chatterton is featured in "The Dummy," film with mystery and kidnaping showing in Aldine.

ACADIAN

Dolores Del Rio has the title roll in "Evangeline," being presented on the screen of the Penn, also appearing in person.

STAR IN. PENN ON SCREEN, STAGE

By GEORGE SHRADLE

Dolores Del Rio was the attraction on the screen in "Evangeline," but it was Dolores Del Rio on the stage in person that was the magnet to put standing room at a premium in Loew's Penn for her first appearance yesterday.

In fact, the audience didn't even care to hear an announcement prior to the charming star's introduction. The speaker could utter only a few words when insistent applause would drown his efforts. And it was a resounding outburst of applause that greeted the vivacious actress who rose to stardom in four years.

DELAYED BY WRECK

Dressed in her street costume, due to her late arrival caused by a train mishap, Miss Del Rio thanked Pittsburgehrs for their support and invited them to shower her with letters that will guide her in her picture work. Her appearance was only for a few brief minutes, but the audience was satisfied. The star of this week's feature screen attraction will appear until Friday night in a different costume for each performance.

"Evangeline," a synchronized picturization of Longfellow's immortal poem, brought the star to new heights in dramatic effort. While the production is heavy in its action, the program found balance through its peppy stage attractions, led by Wesley Eddy, as master of ceremonies. Beautiful natural settings are the feature of the production which unfolds the story of happy Acadians driven from their homes to fight hardships in the new country of the United States. It is in touching sequences that Miss Del Rio journeys throughout the country in search of her sweetheart. Then, as old age reaches them both and he is on his sick bed, the delirious murmurs of her name brings Evangeline to him while on one of her errands of mercy.

DIVERSITY ON STAGE

On the stage, Walzer and Dyer, of musical comedy; Fink and Ayers, on skates, and Vera Vap, in song, found instant favor. There is sufficient diversity in the offerings to hold continued interest. A dance ensemble of "prancing horses" proved a feature of the stage offering. "A Circus Cabaret," the girls' excellent stepping being of the unusual variety.

A novelty feature is offered in a news reel attraction showing Dick Leibert enjoying the picnics of Tarentum churches and Sunday schools and McKees Rocks public schools.

MARX BOYS, LAUGHTER IN GRAND

The Marx Brothers are appearing in the Grand in a sound screen version of their stage laugh hit, "The Cocoanuts." The picture is practically a duplication of the stage production. Of course, like all these musical comedies that go the way of the movies, it has lost something in the transmission. It isn't as impressive as the original version with its players in the flesh. But then, neither is the admission, $4.40—and that's something.

However, the sound machine and the camera have done right by the Marx boys. They succeed in being funny on the screen just as they did on the stage. The dumb, harp-playing Harpo, with his tall hat, tousled hair and comical stare, is much in the foreground. And so is the bespectacled and moustached Groucho. He runs a hotel, auctions lots and makes love. "Can't you climb down a little," he says to a long blonde in a romantic moment. And then he tells her: "When the moon comes sneaking around the clouds, I'll come sneaking around you."

The little story, around which the musical numbers and the Marx brand of comedy revolves, concerns a Florida land boom and a romance that threatens to go on the rocks when the boy friend is accused of stealing a necklace. And that necklace! "It is worth $100,000," says the hysterical owner. "Is it valuable?" asks Groucho Marx.

The cast naturally includes the two other Marx fellows, Zeppo and Chico. Also Mary Eaton and Oscar Shaw, who assist in the romance and the vocalizing. There is a chorus, too, that dances well.

In a word, "The Cocoanuts" is a very amusing picture.

"High Voltage" Harris Picture

Snow, talk and William Boyd comprise the combination that features "High Voltage," current screen feature in the Harris. Its story concerns six persons marooned by snow in a deserted church. It is an all-talkie.

For miles around the church there is an endless stretch of snow. And while the winds howl without, the characters bicker and "bark" at each other within. A mixed assemblage it is, too. There is a sheriff with a feminine prisoner he is taking back to the Big House. There are a banker and a bus driver. Also a young girl on her way to Chicago and marriage, and a stranger, an outlawed sort of a fellow, portrayed by the strong and big Mr. Boyd.

And lots happens in that church before the final fade-out—lots of things, some highly dramatic, some rather comic.

Owen Moore, Carol Lombard, Diane Ellis, Billy Bevan and Phillips Smalley are in the cast.

Short sound screen acts include one of those all-Negro novelties, "Oft in the Silly Night," which is amusing.

RIPLEY GOT FAME START BY ACCIDENT

Art Director Gave Him Hunch That Resulted In Landing Ten Million Fans.

You, too, will quickly succumb to this insidious fascination, so watch for the first appearance of "Believe It or Not!" in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph on July 8th.

Believe it or not—but "Believe It or Not!" happened by an accident—a lucky accident for Robert L. Ripley.

Ripley was doing sport cartoons for the now defunct New York Evening Globe and doing them very well, let it be said, as he had established a new black and white style never before approximated for striking effect. Ripley had happened to come across a few sporting oddities, had drawn illustrations for them at various times, and now on one rainy afternoon was looking them over at his desk.

The art director of the Globe happened to pass by and saw them and was at once impressed by the fact that here was something quite off the beaten track. He suggested to Ripley that he assemble them for use in place of the regular sport cartoon the next day. Ripley did so—and the idea proved a tremendous hit immediately. In fact, it was so great a hit that Ripley was ordered to continue "Believe It or Not!" as a weekly feature. In a short time the demand grew even larger and he had to publish it twice a week. Since then it has kept on growing till today more than 10,000,000 readers follow it with the most avid interest.

Watch for the first appearance of "Believe It or Not!" in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Ripley's amazing feature makes its debut in these columns on July 8th.

Brown Again Acts In Picture He Is Directing

Clarence Brown, the director, again has become Clarence Brown the actor.

He plays a role in his latest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "Wonder of Women," and for the first time an audible part. He appears as one of a group of enthusiastic admirers of the celebrated opera singer, played by Leila Hyams, when she is making a phonograph record in a Berlin recording studio, which is an important sequence in the picture.

Brown has made it a custom to appear in a bit in all of his pictures. He commenced the practice in his first production a number of years ago and has played in at least one sequence in his many subsequent pictures, such as a reporter in "The Acquittal," the murderer in "The Goose Woman," a Cossack officer in "The Eagle," a switchman in "The Signal Tower," the bugler who opened the picture in "Flesh and the Devil," a prospector in "The Trail of '98," and a taxi driver in "A Woman of Affairs."

Hard-Working Hurlers. | Cards May Press Bucs.

Gray Tops Both Loops. | Duffy's Son Sprinter.

BROWN OWNERS HARASSING HOWLEY

NOT only is Burleigh Grimes the leading pitcher of both major leagues in percentage of victories, but he has also been the hardest worker in the National up to date. That is, he has pitched a greater number of innings than any other hurler in the Heydler circuit. In that respect, the spitball star is only running true to his old form. Last year he pitched more innings than any other moundsman in either loop, working a total of 331 rounds. Larry Benton, of the Giants, with 310, was the only other flinger in the National to hurl more than 300, and the only chucker in the American to reach the triple-century mark was George Pipgras, of the Yankees, who worked in 301.

Burleigh Grimes

This season Grimes has pitched 138 1-3 innings, his nearest rivals in the National being Claude Willoughby, of the Phils, with 127, Carl Hubbell, of the Giants, with 125, Fred Lucas, of the Reds, with 124, and Perce Malone, of the Cubs, with 123.

THERE are two slabmen in the American who have pitched more innings than Grimes. The leader of both leagues is Sammy Gray, of the Browns, with 142⅓ innings to his credit up to today, and he is followed by George Uhle, of the Tigers, who has worked in 139. Waite Hoyt, of the Yanks, has worked in 137, and Bob Grove, of the Athletics, in 124.

Fred Marberry, of the Senators, has pitched in a greater number of games than any other pitcher in either league, his total being 22. Willoughby, Lloyd Brown, of the Senators, and Carl Mays, of the Giants, have figured in 21 each, though Mays has hurled only 61 innings against 127 for Willoughby, and 91 for Brown. Guy Bush, of the Cubs, Ray Benge, of the Phils, and Lil Stoner, of the Tigers, have taken part in 20 contests each.

ASIDE from the evidence of returning form that Pitcher Herb Pennock has given in his last two games, there is another development that brightens the outlook for a strong finish by the Yankees in the American League pennant race.

That is the fact that Catcher Benny Bengough is again on duty. Bengough did not appear in a game this season until last Thursday, when he caught part of a contest in Philadelphia. On Saturday he again worked part of a tilt with the A's, and yesterday against the Red Sox he caught his first full game of the year.

Benny Bengough

IT WILL mean a lot to the Hugmen to have Benny back in harness for the remainder of the route. With all due respect to the others on the New York catching corps, Bengough is the class of the lot. He had much to do with their third straight pennant success last year, and in the world series his brilliant work behind the bat was one of the big factors that enabled the Yanks to win the October classic in four straight games for the second time in succession. With Pennock and Bengough back the New Yorkers are strengthened not a little. Don't count them out of the race yet.

IN SPITE of their poor success against the Cubs, by whom they were beaten in seven of their last eight meetings, not counting yesterday's abbreviated tie, the Cardinals are apt to make plenty of trouble for the Pirates in the four-game series here today, tomorrow and Thursday.

For one thing, the Redbirds are hitting, whereas the Bucs have been below par in that department. Even though they were defeated Sunday and held to a tie yesterday, the Redbirds made 19 runs in the two games, indicating that their offensive, at least, is rounding into good working order again.

TO MAKE matters worse, the majority of the Pittsburgh pitchers have not been going any too well, and on top of that the Rovers are not hitting up to their standard.

The batters may improve in view of the wobbly state of the St. Louis hurling staff, but the Pittsburgh pitchers will have to improve on their recent performances and stop the Cardinal hitting if the Bucs are to gain any ground in the series.

IN ONE of a series of syndicated articles dealing with the National League pennant situation, we are told that one of the reasons why the Cubs' pennant chances are considered good is that Joe McCarthy's club has made the best record against the Western teams of the League, and that they will be hard to beat for the pennant "If they can win over the Reds in the same ratio as they have won over the Pirates and Cardinals." Well! That surely is news. The "ration at which the Cubs have won over the Pirates" is exactly an even break, or eight victories in 16 games. It requires some new way of figuring to find any advantage there.

AND AS for having made the best record against the other Western clubs, the Cubs' edge over the Pirates amounts to only half a game, and that is due to the fact that the Bucs played one more contest than the Bruins with the West.

Against the Pirates, Cardinals and Reds, Chicago has won 23 games and lost 15, and against the Cubs, Cards and Reds, Pittsburgh has won 23 games and lost 16. Where is there any advantage great enough to warrant the boasing on behalf of the Wrigley troupe?

THOUGH the man's name was not mentioned in the letter which Ray Barbuti, suspended athlete, sent to President Avery Brundage, of the A. A. U., a few days ago, Barbuti in another way has disclosed to Brundage the identity of the "high A. A. U. official" whom Ray accused some time ago of paying "amateurs" to compete in certain meets.

Ray Barbuti

Barbuti says he would have been reinstated long ago but for his refusal to state publicly that the official referred to was a "low" one and not a "high" one.

LIKE Bernie Wefers, another sprinting star of international fame in the old days is trying to groom his son to follow in his footsteps as a star of the cinderpath. Arthur Duffy is the latest to get the notion that a father's fleetness of foot may be developed in a son. He thinks that the boy inherits the speed and that the remainder can be accomplished by coaching and practice. The senior Duffy, by the way, was the first man ever to run 100 yards in 9 3/5 seconds. He did it at Berkeley Oval in New York, on May 31, 1902, long before starting blocks or other helpful contraptions had been dreamed of, but because of a squabble between Arthur and James E. Sullivan, then head of the A. A. U., over an expense account, Duffy's amateur standing was brought into question and the record was not accepted. Dan Kelly did not make the first accepted mark of 9 3/5 until four years later.

BUT to get back to Duffy's son. Arthur thinks he will be greater than he was, which is not an uncommon thought among athletic

YANKEE MEN'S NET TEAMS VICTORS

By F. A. WRAY,
International News Service.

WIMBLEDON, Eng., July 2.—Helen Wills and Edith Cross, of California, tasted defeat in the third round of the women's doubles of the Wimbledon championships today at the hands of Mrs. C. G. McIlquham and Miss E. H. Harvey, of England, in a startling reversal of form. The score was 6-4, 8-10, 6-2.

America's fondest hopes in the women's doubles went aglimmering with the defeat of the Californians. While the English women's team work was machine-like in precision, the American stars seem to have difficulty in co-operating.

Meanwhile Bill Tilden and Francis T. Hunter advanced in the men's doubles by eliminating the Austrian pair, Kleinschroth and Baron von Kehrling, 6-4, 8-6, 6-1.

LOTT-HENNESSEY WIN

George M. Lott, of Chicago, and Johnny Hennessy, of Indianapolis, also advanced in the men's doubles by eliminating the Englishmen, R. Lycett and J. O. P. Wheatley, in a third-round match. The score was 6-2, 6-3, 6-1.

The young Americans played a dashing game. Their team work was faultless and their strokes superb. The Englishmen at no time threatened them.

In the first set of the women's match, the English combination concentrated a rapid fire of drives on Miss Cross. The latter, however, met the situation gallantly and turned back the onslaught quite consistently. Strangely enough, it was "Queen Helen" who proved the weakest of the four in the volleying, although her ground shots were beautiful and she won many service aces.

CALIFORNIANS RALLY

The English women amassed a lead of 5 to 2 in the second set, but here the Californians staged a determined rally, winning eight of the next 11 games and taking the set at 10 to 8.

The final set appeared to be a driving contest between Miss Cross and Mrs. McIlquham. They were constantly engaged in long volleys in which their respective partners took little part. In the end, however, the superior team work of the English pair told, and they won the set, 6 to 3.

In the third-round match of the mixed doubles, N. G. Farquharson and Miss Bobbie Heine, of South Africa, defeated Bunny Austin and Betty Nuthall, the youthful English stars, 6-3, 6-1. Austin was obviously not exerting himself. He plays Jean Borotra, the "Bounding Basque," in the semi-finals of the men's singles tomorrow and will need all his energy for that ordeal.

In a third-round match which brought Mrs. Watson and Mrs. L. R. C. Michell against Miss E. R. Rose and Miss S. K. Johnson, the former team won, 9-7, 6-1, and advanced to the next round.

YOUNGSTERS BEAT FRENCH

Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, American youngsters, sprang a surprise by defeating the strong French combination of Henri Cochet and Jacques Brugnon in the quarter-finals of the men's doubles by scores of 7-5, 8-6, 3-6, 8-6.

Mis Wills and Hunter entered the quarter-finals of the mixed doubles by winning from Gordon Crole-Rees and Mrs. Phoebe Watson, an English team, 6-1, 6-4.

In a quarter-finals match of the women's doubles, Elizabeth Ryan and Betty Nuthall defeated Joan Rry and Gwen Sterry, 6-2, 6-1. The experience of Mrs. Ryan and the youthful dash of Miss Nuthall made an unbeatable combination.

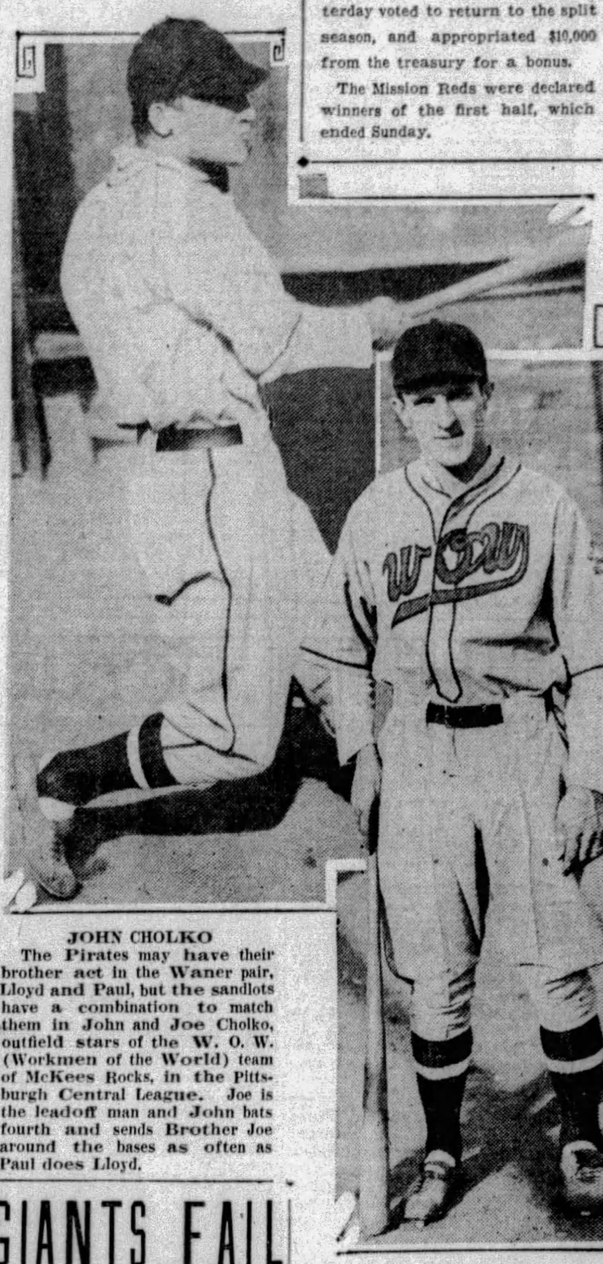
WANER ACT OF LOCAL SANDLOTS



JOHN CHOLKO

The Pirates may have their brother act in the Waner pair, Lloyd and Paul, but the sandlots have a combination to match them in John and Joe Cholko, outfield stars of the W. O. W. (Workmen of the World) team of McKees Rocks, in the Pittsburgh Central League. Joe is the leadoff man and John bats fourth and sends Brother Joe around the bases as often as Paul does Lloyd.

GIANTS FAIL TO GAIN ON HOME LOT

The ambitious Giants are not making as much hay as they expected to after their return to the East on top of a triumphant invasion of the well-trapped West. Soon the Men of McGraw will have to take on the three western flag contenders and it is altogether likely that they will not have as much success against the Pirates, Cubs and Cardinals on the Polo Grounds as they did while fighting on this side of the mountains.

At the present writing, the Cubs are riding high, wide and handsome. Eight consecutive victories over the Redbirds represents a big feat and the Bruins are likely to be chuckfull of confidence as they invade the East for the second time. Meantime, they must play a series with the Reds, who appear to be moving toward a more favorable port than the cellar.

The Redbirds are a fine ball club, aside from the pitching division, and few teams are any better than their pitchers. There was a Giant club of six or seven years ago that battered its way to a flag without having a single sharpshooter who could win 20 games, but this was an exceptional case.

Among those present at Canton Sunday when the Ohio club defeated Fort Wayne, of the Central League, was Police Lieut. Peter J. Lehney, of the Oakland station. Pete had a seat directly behind the

ZIVIC-BAKER GO REBOOKED FOR TONIGHT

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

Wonder what the three Meyers brothers of North Braddock—count 'em—ever did to the weather man that he should do them like he does, does, does?

Two weeks ago, threatening rain put a big crimp in the crowd for the Joe Dundee-Billy Alger battle in the Meyers Brothers Bowl, and, Monday night of last week, rain messed up the show headed by Buck McTiernan and Andy DiVodi, causing a late start and furnishing a wet ring for the event.

Yesterday rain fell intermittently until late in the afternoon and then it came down steadily, forcing the promoters to call off the show until this evening. Any further delay in getting this show off their chests will be vigorously protested by the Meyers brothers, who are gluttons for punishment, but know when they're whipped. They have a special July Fourth show billed for Thursday night and another card all lined up for next Monday night, so that, as matters stand now, they are booked for three shows in seven nights, something of a record around here.

BOTH UNDER WEIGHT

Jack Zivic, of Dormont, and Sergt. Sammy Baker, of New York, are the principals in the main bout of tonight's show. When they scaled in at 3 o'clock yesterday both were under the welterweight limit of 147 pounds, Zivic weighing 146¾ pounds and Baker 145½. Johnny Haggerty, of Lawrenceville, tipped the beam at 122 pounds, and Young Nanci, of Swissvale, at 122¾, for the eight-round semi-final. Mickey Solmen, of New Castle, and Chuck Zelnack, of Glassport, weighed 155 pounds each for the second bout, and Howard Williams, of Swissvale, 144½ pounds, and Sammy Chiodo, of the West End, subbing for Joey Feldman, of Cleveland, 146, for the opening bout.

Philadelphia also has a postponed show on its hands for tonight, an all-star heavyweight card featuring Jimmy Byrne and George Cook. Ted Sandwina meets Harry Dillon in the semi-final, and Marty Gallagher and Phil Mercurio are in another feature number.

Here Is Once The Middies Can't Protest

WEST POINT, N. Y., July 2.—(AP.)—When Military Academy authorities checked over the list of some 400 newcomers to West Point yesterday they found no trace of Chuck Bennett, University of Indiana halfback and all-Western Conference star, whose candidacy for entry here attracted widespread attention last fall.

Not only was Bennett's name missing when the roll was called but a check revealed no evidence that he had taken the required examinations for admission to the academy. In fact, officers said they could find no one in the new plebe class conspicuous for any previous football or other athletic achievements.

VETERAN ALEX MAY OPPOSE BUCCOS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

With the Fourth of July doubleheader in the offing and the Cardinals in town for four battles, the baseball lover seems to have a pretty fair treat in store. The Pirates and Redbirds open their series at the Oakland Orchard this afternoon.

The management of the skidding Redbirds seem to have slipped a fast one over on the St. Louis fans yesterday when it called the last game with the Cubs at the end of six innings with the score tied, so that the Cards could board an early train for Pittsburgh.

More than one magnate's chief interest seems to be getting in the legal number of innings necessary to keep the coin regardless of the sour reaction such injustices have on the customers' feeling, but the boys who pay the fiddler have taken so many on the chin recently that they are getting tired of the procedure.

BRAME TO HURL

Be that as it may, the stay of the Redbirds in Pittsburgh should be interesting for both the St. Louis boys and the Bushwhackers, who would like nothing better than to resume just where the Cubs left off in the matter of pounding Bill Southworth's pitchers.

Manager Bush will send Ervin Brame to the mound against the Redbirds this afternoon, and that decision offers no balm to the slipping champions of the league. Brame has been one tough guy to the Cardinal swatters in two appearances in their own back yard.

Pilot Southworth is in a quandary regarding his sharpshooters, but if Alexander is ready to go to the mound today he probably will get the assignment, although there is a chance that Clarence Mitchell will oppose Brame.

The Pirate regulars are back in pretty fair shape again, even if Pie Traynor is still on the disabled list. A broken nose appears to be only a minor ailment to the gritty captain of the Buccos who has played throughout the season to date under physical handicaps. Lloyd Waner's hand is on the mend and the star centerfielder will be at his post this afternoon.

MAY GAIN LEAD

It is possible for the Pirates to be in first place before nightfall, but they would have to throw back the Redbirds while the Reds were trimming the Cubs to reach the crest. In any event, the Buccos are less than a game away from the

ROYAL WELCOME GIVEN JONES

ATLANTA, July 2.—(AP.)—The greatest welcome he has ever received when returning victorious from fields of conquest greeted Bobby Jones, for the third time national open golf champion, as he reached home last night.

Extending the royal welcome to Jones has been rather regular in recent years, but his friends and admirers by the score saw to it that previous greetings were pale beside the one they presented this time.

There was no formal ceremony, but rather a spontaneous greeting from the crowd that gathered at the station. Scott Hudson, president of the Atlanta Athletic Club, said, "there was to be no handshaking and no speech making."

At the station however, were Mayor I. N. Ragsdale and members of the city Council and a committee from the Chamber of Commerce, but they, like the others, confined their welcoming to cheers.

The House of Rrepresentatives in biennial session halted in its lawmaking yesterday to adopt a resolution extending its official congratulations to the golfing Georgian.

CARDINALS ARE 'EASY MARK' FOR CUBS

BRUINS 'OWE' LEAGUE LEAD TO REDBIRDS

By HENRY M'LEMORE.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 2.—(INS.)—Those skeptical souls who want to know why, aside from their "murderers' row," Joe McCarthy's Chicago outfit is purchased atop the National League ladder would do well to take a peek at the figures showing just what the Cubs have done to the St. Louis Cardinals since the season opened.

In brief, 11 of their 39 wins have been scored over last year's National League champions while the Cards have been able to gain but four victories and one draw over the Windy City crew.

The tie came yesterday when both clubs scored 11 runs before the sixth inning when the game was called to allow the Redbirds to catch a train.

YANKS BEAT RED SOX

Paschal's pinch-hit home run with Koenig on base in the eighth inning enabled the Yankees to nose out the Red Sox, 3 to 2, in the only American League game played yesterday. The timely blow gave Herb Pennock the decision in a great mound duel with Binger Bayne.

The Giants, seeking a higher level, have an opportunity to do just that this week, for today they open a five-game series with the none too strong Braves, while the Cards and Pirates begin a throat-cutting contest in Pittsburgh. Chicago has moved over to Cincinnati and may find trouble with Luque and company.

GIANTS AMBITIOUS

Nothing would suit the Giants better than to sweep the Boston series and thus be tuned to concert pitch for the invasion of the western clubs that begins next week. McGraw has had his hopes raised by the improvement of late in Hurler Larry Benton.

Uncle Robbie and his Brooklyn Robins are taking a rest.

Andy Stahura, of Braddock, meets Johnny Murphy, of Cleveland, in the semi-final to the Jimmy Slattery-Len Darcy bout at Steubenville, O., tonight. Andy Martin, of Boston, boxes Jake Zeramby, also of Boston, at Boston.

U. S. CARPENTIER BUSY

U. S. Carpentier, New Kensington featherweight, is one of the busiest boxers in the Pittsburgh district these days. On Thursday afternoon he meets Frankie Rio, of Cleveland, in a 10-round main bout at Coshocton, O.; next Tuesday night he battles Lou Sanders, of Beaver Falls, at Butler, and on July 22 he will be one of the principals in the main bout at Charleston, W. Va.

Joe Colombo, of Charlerbi, and K. O. Yutzy, of Cumberland, will box one of the bouts on the card at Weston, W. Va., Thursday.

Jackie Rodgers and Dan Billick have been signed for a 10-round companion piece to the Phil Goldstein-Tony Herrera return bout at the North Braddock bowl next Monday night, to take the place of the canceled Buck McTiernan-Andy DiVodi return battle. Rodgers and Billick fought a sensational bout at Motor Square Garden last season and should have been rematched a long time ago.

MAX MAY SPAR HERE

If arrangements can be made to have Max Schmeling appear in ring togs and go through a three-round exhibition bout, the German heavyweight will appear as an added attraction at the Meyers Bowl soon. However, the first proposition tendered the club by Max's board of managers was to have him appear in street clothes and probably referee one of the bouts or act as master of ceremonies for a stiff guarantee. Either he boxes or he doesn't show. This would be one of his stops on his six weeks' tour of the country.

fathers who have athletically inclined sons. "My boy is 17, weighs 146, and is growing stronger and huskier every day," says the former star.

"He can now do around 10 2/5 seconds. They have caught him in 10 1/5, but I don't believe it. He thinks he can do it, but I have told him I am not convinced. In my opinion he is a 10 2/5 runner, but even at that he is fast as I was at his age, if not faster. I won my novice race in 10 3/5 in 1896.

"SIX YEARS later I made 9 3/5, which I believe still is the legitimate record, despite George Simpson's 9 2/5 with the starting blocks. If I was able to knock a whole second off my time in six years, I think the kid can do likewise. He is running in 10 2/5 now, so it is reasonable to presume that six years from now he can do it in 9 2/5

"I say this because he is taller, heavier and stronger than I was at his age and built like a greyhound. He is not yet as good a starter as I was, but he is a better finisher. In time he ought to get the start down to science. He is headed now for Exeter and after that he will enter either Harvard or Yale."

Dan Howley

THE woes of a winning manager in St. Louis are not confined to the National League club of that city. Following the dropping of Rogers Hornsby and Bill McKechnie after they won pennants for the Cardinals, Manager Dan Howley, of the Browns, is now said to be facing a possible dismissal at the end of the season. Last year Howley made the Browns the most improved club in the American League and they finished third. Right now they are in second place, ahead of the Yankees, needing only a couple of hitters besides Manush and Blue to be real pennant contenders. But in spite of this, it is reported that Owner Phil Ball is permitting one of his business lieutenants to find fault with the handling of the team and to send telegrams to Howley on the road suggesting changes in his system. It's a great town in which to be a manager.

MAX'S PILOTS TO CONVENE TODAY

By SID MERCER.
International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 2.—If all of the parties directly or indirectly interested in the artistic and financial past, present and future of Max Schmeling, the well known German cut-up, attend today's mass meeting at the offices of the boxing commission, Secretary Bertie Stand may be compelled to arrange for an overflow meeting in City Hall Park, just around the corner.

If the meeting develops according to expectations, there will be fireworks, oratory and general fencagling. It would be most fitting if the delegates would march in a body to the City Hall steps to be given the keys of the city treasury by Mayor Walker.

JOE LIGHT IN VEST

This will be the first general mop-up of the percentage brigade since the milk fund truce was declared several weeks ago.

Joe Jacobs weighs in a complaint that Herr Authur Bulow violated the terms of the truce by various annoyances, including the impounding of his share of Schmeling's last two fights.

It seems that Joseph has never been able to collect his percentage of the Risko spoils last January and now finds himself managing a large deficit.

Since it was Jacobs who dispatched Prof. Billy McCarney to Europe to exercise his blandishments on Schmeling and put himself in the bag for heavy trans-Atlantic telephone tolls and operated the Deutschland Dempsey's training camp in Lakewood, on the theory that he was to be paid something some time, he is now suffering from lightness in the vest and wants to know when his overdue percentage will be released from escrow.

FUGAZY WANTS ACTION

Humbert J. Fugazy will enter appearance to request action on a contract signed by Herr Bulow obligating Schmeling to mingle with Phil Scott at Ebbets Field some time this summer. Schmeling vows he will not fulfil any contract except those he signs himself.

Tom McArdle, William F. Carey and Frank Bruen will comprise the Madison Square Garden committee on foreign relations. Carey hopes to be enlightened on his prospect of hooking up Schmeling and Jack Sharkey in a near-championship elimination next fall.

A. A. U. STARS ON EDGE

DENVER, July 2.—(AP.)—More than 200 of the nation's finest amateur athletes went through their paces in the University of Denver's stadium yesterday, making ready for combined and individual Fourth of July assaults on A. A. U. track and field records.

A good sized athletic army that has been here for some time getting accustomed to Colorado's rarified atmosphere, was augmented by two Pacific Coast delegations, both of whom desire the honor of adding undisputed track and field honors of western territory.

Squads representing the Olympic Club at San Francisco and the Los Angeles Athletic Club, keen rivals for the A. A. U. team championship now held by the Los Angeles Club, held their first workouts and were well pleased with climatic conditions.

Hornsby Gains Second Place In Big Six

Associated Press.

Rain and the schedule kept half of the Big Six idle yesterday, but the other three members provided plenty of action and one change in the standing. Rogers Hornsby got two hits in four times at bat during the weird six-inning game at St. Louis and lifted his mark to .364, displacing Frank O'Doul from second place by a one-point margin. Babe Ruth had a perfect day in the averages, getting one hit in one official trip to the plate. A sacrifice and walk took up the rest of the Babe's time. His average went up to .343, while his running mate, Lou Gehring, gains one point by hitting once in three attempts.

(This instructive course in correct baseball scoring will carry the fans through a series of plays such as may come up any day at the baseball park. If you are interested in our national pastime, this daily feature should not be overlooked.)

PLAY.

Two men are out. Combs is on third, Robertson on second and Gehrig on first. Ruth draws a base on balls. Durst is hit by a pitched ball and Lazzeri fouls out to the catcher.

What goes in the box score and summary?

ANSWER.

Credit Combs and Robertson with runs. Credit Ruth and Durst with runs batted in, but do not charge them with a time at bat. Charge Lazzeri with a time at bat and credit the catcher with a putout. In the summary, charge the pitcher with a base on balls and with hitting a batsman, giving the name of batter hit. Left on base (3).

Chief error in scoring: Failure to credit Ruth and Durst with runs batted in, which is the same as runs responsible for.

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 2.—Members of the Izaak Walton League of America from all sections of the tristate region will be in attendance at the annual Pennsylvania state convention of the league, which will be held here September 9 and 10.

In addition to the field trials, trap shoots, rifle and pistol shoots will also be arranged, and several other entertainment features are planned by the Greene County sportsmen for their Waltonite hosts.

The committee representing the Greene County Chapter of the league, which is now the second largest chapter in the state, consists of Byron Dally, president; C. W. Parkinson, C. W. Mong, Charles F. Adams, F. L. Hoover, J. M. Bell, Glen Brewer, J. L. Fulton, Layfayette Goodwin, W. W. Ankrom, H. J. Carroll, W. R. Tague, William Taylor, C. H. Bowlby, Dr. R. W. Norris, A. L. YANKEE GOLFER WINS FRENCH AMATEUR CHANTILLY, France, July 2.—(AP.)—Jack Westland, an American, won the French amateur golf championship today by defeating Richard Fletcher, an Englishman, in the final by a margin of 6 up and 5 to play.

The Britisher's game went to pieces during the afternoon's 18 holes when rain began falling and the American simply walked away with the match.

The new champion has resided and played in Seattle and Chicago, but was entered here as a member of the Winged Foot Golf Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y.

PENNSY OPEN PLAY STARTS

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—(INS.)—Play began today in the Pennsylvania state open golf championship over the tricky, difficult Whitemarsh Valley course here with many wagers that despite the brilliancy of the 100 entrants no one would be able to score a 70, and high odds that the par of 72 for the course would not be broken in the 72 holes of play. Thirty-six holes will be played today and 36 tomorrow, with the lowest score-holder winning the cup.

An injury to Harry Cooper, Buffalo pro, prevented his entry today after he rushed here especially for the event. While motoring to the club he was shaken up and received cuts and bruises that caused his physician to forbid him to play. Tommy Armour, who won the title at Pittsburgh last year, is slated to defend his title today. He is to be paired with Joe Turnesa, another one of the nation's pro stars.

The first pair got away shortly after 8 o'clock, but a number of the nation's stars, including Young Horton Smith, of Joplin, Mo., are due to make post entries during the day. There was also a report around the clubhouse that Johnny Farrell, the titleholder of two years ago, would make a post entry.

Leiperville Returns To Fistic Map

CHESTER, Pa., July 2.—(INS.)—Boxing exhibitions will be held in Leiperville again tonight for the first time in 25 years. The bouts will mark the first time any have been held in the section long famed as the home of Jimmy Dougherty, the so-called Baron of Leiperville, and his big black protege, Gawge Godfrey, perennial claimant of the heavyweight title, since Sam Langford and Jack Blackburn, two great Negro stars of yester year, staged their memorial battle.

Tonight's battles, featuring Billy Angelo, of Leiperville, and Gene Lester, of Wilmington, Del., in the 10-round windup, also will mark the bow as a fistic promoter of Howard Dougherty, son of the Baron. The bouts will take place in a new outdoor arena seating 5,000 persons with the elite of the fistic profession from Philadelphia, New York and nearby cities in attendance.

Grey Coat to Start In Chicago Classic

CHICAGO, July 2.—(AP.)—Grey Coat, son of Gnome-Lady Grey whose stock among the season's three-year-olds received a big boost when he conquered Blue Larkspur in the Dwyer Stakes at Aqueduct Saturday, will start in the American Classic, Arlington Park's $60,000 feature, July 13.

Samuel Ross, Washington sportsman and owner of Grey Coat, has made reservations at the track for the horse and will ship him here next Saturday. Steve O'Donnell will ride Grey Coat in the Classic.

catcher, and for a very good reason. On the mound was Regis Lehney, son of the Oakland resident, who blanked the enemy team and scored a pleasing victory for Canton. Regis was farmed out to Canton by Toronto under a three-day option. He has won three games in a row.

West Chester Club Sold to Members

NEW YORK, July 2.—(AP.)—Sale of the West Chester-Biltmore Country Club at Rye, N. Y., to its members by John McEntee Bowman, hotel operator, was announced yesterday.

Approximately $6,000,000 was paid by the club, which is one of the largest and most valuable properties of the kind in the country.

BRIDGEVILLE, WASHINGTON PILOTS SET

Val Harcnape, secretary of the contest board of the A. A. A., will be the starter for the 100-mile all-champion drivers' race at the Pittsburgh-Bridgeville board speedway Thursday afternoon — Independence Day.

Other officials announced last night by the governing body follow: H. F. Gleason, referee; W. M. Tears, A. A. A. zone supervisor; W. N. Owings, chief of timing and scoring, and O. O. Schucher, chairman of the technical committee.

WASHINGTON READY

Promoters of the Washington, Pa., dirt track race, feature sport event of the Fourth in Washington County, have not as yet named the officials for the white and Negro grind. A number of cars have already put in appearance at the track, including a number of Ohio machines.

C. J. Wall, Tut Jackson, Don Davidson, Jack (Hot Track) Johnson and George Kratt and Ray Fouts are among the drivers favored to fight it out for the first place prize money Thursday. Fifteen cars are expected to start in the race.

Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion of the world, will be the honorary referee. He is due in from Chicago today and will pace the cars around the track for the first lap of the race Thursday.

Twenty-five experienced dirt track drivers are entered in the 100-mile race at Clarion, Pa., on Thursday. The size and class of the field indicates that the Clarion track record probably will be broken in the Independence Day event.

Paul Bost, of Detroit, and Sam Greco, of Scranton, were the last to send in their entry blanks for the pretentious Bridgeville card. The addition of this pair gives Director B. Ward Beam a total of 17 of the country's outstanding pilots to battle it out for the 12 places in the championship grind that gets under way at 3 o'clock.

MOORE DUE TODAY

Most of the drivers will be at the track today for tuning up their mounts. Lou Moore, the California youth, who has shared profitably in Indianapolis classics, and who set a new world record at Woodbridge, N. J., Sunday by copping a 100-mile A. A. A. race, will arrive here late today, as will Jimmy Gleason, of Philadelphia, who finished third at Indianapolis this year and second at Woodbridge Sunday.

Director Beam has arranged to stage the qualifying trials at 10 o'clock Thursday morning. The gates will be thrown open at 9, and since the drivers will be tuning up their cars throughout the day, there will be plenty of action for those who care to go to the track early.

honor position and their situation may at least be said to be advantageous.

The Cardinals, meantime, have skidded ungracefully into fourth place as they face a hard tour. The St. Louis boys are on their way to their second invasion of the seaboard, an excursion that will be started by the Pirates Saturday night.

The Buccos and Cards will play a single game tomorrow, this to be followed by the holiday twin bill. Morning and afternoon games will carry out the baseball program at Forbes Field. Friday is open on the Pittsburgh schedule; they will say farewell for two weeks Saturday as they battle the Cincinnati boys.

LOSE TO GOVS

The Pirates spent most of yesterday in Charleroi, where they were trimmed, 6 to 5, by the Charleroi club of the Middle Atlantic League, A crowd of 4,500 witnessed the big spectacle in the Monongahela River town.

Casey Douglas' two-base hit against the left field fence scored Gallupe, who had singled, and it proved to be the winning tally. Carl Greisser, Cincinnati College boy, started in the box for Charleroi and after pitching six innings of good ball, gave way in the sixth inning to a pinch-hitter. John McIlvaine, local baseball veteran, and former pilot of the Governors, took the hill in the seventh, held the Pirates scoreless, and took credit for the victory.

WOMEN PLAY LEAGUE GOLF TODAY

The Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania is holding a one-day tournament at the Stanton Heights Golf Club today—it is one of the largest affairs of the season, and one of the largest fields ever to compete in a women's one-day event is participating in the competition.

Miss Anjeanette Hunter, of the home club, Western Pennsylvania women's champion, is the favorite to cop the honors. Despite the fact Miss Hunter will be playing over her home playing grounds, some of the finest golfers in the district will be vieing for the honor that appears to be definitely hers. The play got under way shortly after 9 o'clock, and will continue until late this afternoon.

The Hotel, Club and Restuarant Men's Golf Association held a one-day tournament at the Shannopin Country Club yesterday and Billy Tavano scored the best golf he has ever played when he grossed an 82 to win the honors for the day. Willian Bailey was second with an 86, Al Avetta was third with an 87. Frank (Sunny) Brockett, as usual, was at the post of score keeper.

The Pittsburgh City Post American Legion held a very successful tournament at the Wildwood Country Club despite the fact inclement weather interrupted matters from the outset.

GRAYS TO PLAY HOMEWOOD

By TOM BIRKS.

The Homestead Grays are back in town today after a far from successful invasion of the east. This evening, they will resume their series with Homewood of the Inter-County League, meeting the circuit leader at Homewood.

Yesterday, the Grays dropped a double header, their second in as many days, to the Baltimore Black Sox, the dual victory enabling the Baltimore team to sew up, the first half championship of the American Negro League. The locals lost the first game, 7 to 1, and were outslugged in the second, 11 to 4.

In the Inter-County League last evening, Beltzhoover invaded Butler and took a 10-to-3 victory away. The locals tallied five runs in the first inning and had the game well in hand thereafter.

St. Phillips defeated Hawthorne, 5 to 2, in a well played Crafton Church League contest and in an independent feature, the Reineckers defeated the snappy J. J. Boyles, 14 to 13, the game going 10 innings.

LOCAL OFFICIALS TO 'WHISTLE' FOR DUKES

By JESS CARVER.

John D. Holohan, who, as graduate manager of athletics at Duquesne University, has discovered that it doesn't help your schedule any to go out and win a football game from a major opponent the first crack out of the box, has announced his official list for the 1929 gridiron schedule.

John D. Holohan

The genial Holly, in booking almost without exception referees from the tri-state district and members of the Western Pennsylvania Officials' Association, has taken a step which other graduate managers of the locale might well follow. There is about as much necessity for going out of the section for gridiron arbiters as there is for you or I to try to beat the income tax. Football men in this district are as good as they come. Gents like Al Slack, Heinie Blum, Cal Bolster, Red Friesell, John Egan, Dex Very, Carl Rebele, S. A. McFarland, Cavanaugh, Razz Quailey, Lambie, Ward Lanham and Bill Evans can handle anyone's football game.

With the exception of the game with Catholic University, which is to be played at Washington, D. C., Holly has stuck entirely to the local boys. Bolster, McFarland and Rebele will handle his big home game, that with Haskell Indians. Russ Goodwin, Al Slack, High Lambie and Ward Lanham will officiate in the West Virginia-Duquesne contest.

CALLS FOR BREAK

After the above boost for the local whistle tooters, this department should rate a seat between John Egan and Red Friesell at the next banquet of the association, and not between Max Hannum and the piano as was the case last year.

Speaking of Heinie Blum, the portly one says his idea of the height of the ridiculous would be to see John McGraw umpiring an exhibition game between the Phillies and Spearfish College.

The perfect hostess has finally been discovered. Agnes, Herbie Williams' checkmate, after inviting the civil war and self over for the evening, phoned to find out what I liked best to eat. That is perfection.

NIZE BEBBY

This column would be longer today, only the very small daughter used part of it to make a what-you-may-call-it for her doll.

With two auto races, Bridgeville and Washington, two big-top ball games, a flock of track meets and more than enough sandlot encounters to go to Thursday, there will be no excuse for anyone blowing their mitts off shootin' firecrackers.

Up until time for going to press, none of the local boys had received any announcement of assessment to help pay the $6,000,000 ante for purchasing the West Chester-Biltmore. Herman Schmidt, however, expects to be called up for a slight donation.

And the same Herman suggests a way to keep pitchers from blowing up. He would have the showers shut off until after the game, thereby making it useless for the twirlers to blow up just to get a bath before the infielders use up all the hot water.

That horse that paid 20 to 1 at Ebensburg yesterday must not have read the form sheet. Imagine its embarrassment upon discovering that it was not supposed to win.

Hill Top Y Team In Highland Meet

The entry list for the track and field meet and aquatic gala to be held Thursday afternoon at Highland Park, as part of the City of Pittsburgh's Independence Day celebration, closed last night, with a small army of clever performers in line for both events.

The Hilltop Y. M. C. A. has entered a number of men in the swimming events. It will have a canoe-tilting team composed of Jacob Harvey and Alexander Baum.

Dan Carpellucci will represent it in the 50-yard novice swim, John Schmeller in the 100-yard breast-stroke, Fred Thumpston in the breast-stroke, Joe Schmieler in the 50-yard novice and the 100-yard breast-stroke, and Marshall Smith in the 50-yard handicap.

GOLF
AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

Answered By

ABE G. ESPINOSA

Some players use the left hand more than the right, with the natural result that that hand sometimes becomes tender. In a case such as this, the use of a glove is helpful.

Players sometimes think that the glove gives a better grip. If the use of the hands is equalized, friction does not come at any particular place and a glove is not needed.

I play bare handed, and recommend my pupils to do the same, as it is much easier to get the touch or feel of the club that way.

Swim for Novices Carded at Schenley

One of the interesting features of the aquatic program to be run off Thursday afternoon at the Schenley Park pool, as part of the City of Pittsburgh's Independence Day celebration, will be the 60-yard men's novice swim.

It has attracted a large entry of well-known natators, and the going is certain to be close. There will be several out-of-town swimmers among the starters, including Ernest Kohlmeyer and Ralph Stephenson, of Lorain, O., and Robert MacDowell, of Uniontown. Other starters include:

Wayne Larimer, McKeesport Y.; Al McQuinn, Willows Pool; Russell Vogel, Mike Lobas, Pete Hytowitz, Andy Kuhar, H. W. Oliver Club; Oscar A. Felker, P. A. Five Points Links To Open Thursday

SHARON, Pa., July 2.—The Five Points public links will be opened for play July 4, it has been announced. The links are located on the Hartford road just a short distance from the Five Points baseball field.

M. M. and Ralph Miller, of Youngstown, owners of the links state that only seven holes will be placed in operation for the present as work has been delayed by recent bad weather. Next spring, or even late this summer, the additional two holes will be ready.

Dick Jones, pro at Belmont Manor, will arrange to be on hand at the links in case there is a demand for lessons. At other times an assistant will take care of the work.

Smith to Coach At Redstone High

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 2.—Clyde Smith, of New Eagle, this county, Monongahela High graduate and more recently end on the Geneva College football team, has been elected football and basketball coach at Redstone Township High School in Fayette County, according to announcement by Principal D. B. Kraybill.

Smith succeeds Thomas Ellwood, who declined a re-election to accept a similar post at Trinity High School, of Washington. During his first two years at Geneva, Smith was under the tutelege of Bo McMillan and he will supplant the State College system taught by Ellwood with the Centre College tactics of McMillan.

Injured Umpires To Return Saturday

CHICAGO, July 2.—(AP.)—The American League will have a full quota of umpires on the job by Saturday, unless new injuries or other causes prevent.

Roy Vangraflan, who suffered a fractured arm when Lew Fonseca, Cleveland first baseman, ran into him several weeks ago, was to return to duty today at St. Louis, while Emmett (Red) Ormsby, who was another Cleveland accident victim, will go back to work Saturday. Ormsby was struck on the head by a pop bottle and seriously injured, during a disturbance in the Cleveland Park more than a month ago.

Boyle Re-Matched With Spanish Boxer

ALLENTOWN, Pa., July 2.—(AP.)—Bucky Boyle, Allentown lightweight, and Gaston Lacadre, of Spain, were matched yesterday to meet in a 10-round bout here July 16.

SPRINT FEATURE AT EBENSBURG TODAY

EBENSBURG, July 2.—Just why they call horse racing the sport of kings is best answered by a visit here. The Cambria County Fair, six-day meeting is the best ever offered in this state and Gov. Fisher, who was guest of honor yesterday, stated at that time he would very likely return before the week expires, so keen was the sport furnished. Today's program, the second of the meeting, is headed by the Bethlehem purse, a six furlong sprint. The one that whips Dr. Hickman will carry off the lion's share of the $500 purse. However, it won't be a walkaway for Dr. Hickman, as Appellate is tuned to concert pitch. Other probable winners today are Reform and Who Knows Me; the day's best bet, Gold Dust Saucy and Two Feathers.

That the men behind this meeting intend to have clean racing was shown yesterday when Jockey P. Sanford was suspended for the remainder of meeting for rough riding. Sanford, who was astride The Lure, cut across his field at the first turn and almost caused several of those in close pursuit to fall.

Charles M. Scwab, who is backing this meeting, was here, there and everywhere and like Gov. Fisher, thinks the present meeting not only the best ever offered in this state, but that it compares favorably with any other of its size in America.

Straight-Heat Wins Feature Circuit Race

CLEVELAND, July 2.—(AP.)—Opening day events of Grand Circuit racing at the North Randall track, near here, yesterday, were curtailed to three races, held on a wet track, before a small crowd, and in a drizzling rain. The two biggest races on the schedule, the $3,000 Edwards stake for 2:12 pacers and the Fasig $2,000 trot for 3-year-olds, were postponed until today.

Straight-heat victories characterized the opening program. Prince Don, the Ashland (O.) owned pacer, driven by Harry Stokes, of Urbana, scored easily in the 2:14 pace which opened the program, ruling favorite. The second event, a 2:10 trot, was a straight-heat victory for Clara Bascom.

Al Gordon Stops Newton in Eighth

EBENSBURG, Pa., July 2.—(AP).—Al Gordon, Philadelphia, knocked out Ray Newton, Mansfield, O., in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-round feature go here last night. They are welterweights.

Waynesburg Loop Drops Two Clubs

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 2.—In order to stimulate interest in the Waynesburg City League, the circuit will be reduced from an eight to a six-club circuit during the second half of the season, which starts July 9. The East End and South Penn clubs will unite, as will the Company K and Waynesburg College teams.

At present the Equitable and Carnegie Gas Company nines are fighting it out with the Butch Biery Club for the league leadership and first-half pennant.

Hugo Bezdek Lauds Donora High Field

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 2.—As a guest of the Building Committee of the Donora Board of Education, Hugo Bezdek, athletic director at Penn State, made an inspection of the proposed Donora High athletic field, now in course of construction, with a view to making suggestions regarding the arrangement of the plot.

Bezdek asserted that with proper arrangements and utilization of natural topography, the field should be made the finest athletic plant in the Monongahela Valley.

TRAM STRIKE IN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, July 2.—(AP.)—All possible motor buses and taxicabs were pressed into service today to furnish transportation in a general strike of street car employes here.

Approximately 1,800 men were affected by the surprise suspension of work order issuedi last night by Edwin Peyroux, president, and other officials of the local carmen's union, ordering activities ceased on the claim that recent arbitration with New Orleans Public Service, Inc., over dismissals and suspensions of employes had proved unsatisfactory.

The street car men, present in mass meeting, unanimously voted down, clause by clause, a three-year new contract proposed by public service and accepted the order to walk out on completion of their runs. The order became finally effective at 5.20 o'clock, this morning, the time for the last night cars to enter the barns.

Predict Higher Net For Kinney Company

NEW YORK, July 2.—The first half of current year has been a satisfactory one, both in sales and in profits, according to an official of the G. R. Kinney Company. It is estimated net profit in the first six months this year should run over $300,000, which would compare with $293,169, or $1.35 a share on average common shares outstanding in the first six months of 1928. In the first quarter this year net was $120,184.

According to official estimate, sales for first six months of 1929 will be about $1,000,000 ahead of the same period last year, or a gain of more than 11 per cent. It was said June sales, due to seasonable weather, were unusually good.

Department Store Chain Extended

CHICAGO, July 2.—(AP.)—Sears, Roebuck & Co. announced the extension of its chain of large department stores into a number of cities including Springfield, O. The stores in each case replaced smaller retail units. Property has been leased and construction plans started.

The company also announced small retail stores will be established in Columbus, Ind.; Gastonia, N. C., and Macon, Ga.

Shell Union Gets "Wildcat" in Kansas

TULSA, July 2.—Shell Petroleum Company, subsidiary of Shell Union Oil, has a rank wildcat well in its Ritz No. 1 in Section 1-20-2, West McPherson County, Kansas. It found the top of 957 feet. Drilled nine feet in the sand it made 318 barrels in one and one-half hours, and has been pinched down to estimated 60 barrels an hour, flowing on the ground until storage is erected. The oil is 34 gravity.

New York Banks Supply Funds as Money Rates Threaten to Halt Rally

NEW YORK, July 2.—(AP.)—Fifteen per cent call money, which sent a speculative chill through the stock market yesterday and brought about a reaction in prices, made its appearance again today, but the market moved steadily upward, with U. S. Steel common and at least a dozen of the leading railroad shares touching new high records for the year.

There were several soft spots scattered throughout the list, particularly in the public utility group, but they had little influence on the general market.

BANKS SUPPLY MONEY

Call money was scare at 15 per cent for a time, and the rate threatened to go higher, but New York banks freely supplied funds when the stringency became apparent, and the rate was held at that level. Out of town banks began calling loans from the outset but these funds were replaced. There was no change in time money, commercial paper or bankers' acceptances. With the July Fourth holiday invariably creating heavy currency demands and more stock purchase "rights" expiring this week, there appears to be little hope of any marked easing of call money rates before next week.

U. S. Steel common, the forthcoming dividend action of which is arousing widespread interest and curiosity, returned to its role as the market leader by climbing more than 3 points to 195¾, which exceeds the highest price reached before the issuance of additional stock for the retirement of funded debt.

RAILS IN DEMAND

Railroad shares were heavily bought as a result of the excellent May earnings reports now being published, and also in the belief that the filing of the Wabash merger plan would hasten action on the general railroad consolidation program. The rise in a few issues, such as New York Central, also was accompanied by unconfirmed rumors of higher dividends.

Atchison, Union Pacific, New York Central, Chesapeake and Ohio, Pere Marquette, Missouri Pacific common, Kansas City Southern, Delaware and Hudson, Frisco common, Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred and Bangor and Aroostook all reached new high ground for the year, some of them touching the highest price ever recorded. The gains ranged from 1 to 8 points.

General Electric continued its spectacular climb by advancing 11½ points to a new peak at 342½. Otis Elevator, Westinghouse Electric, Columbian Carbon, Timken Roller Bearing, Pacific Lighting, Crucible Steel, Fleischmann and Union Carbide also reached new high ground. Oils became active in the early afternoon under the leadership of Atlantic Refining, which crossed 74 to a new top.

Adams Express broke 18 points and rallied 11. Abraham & Straus dropped 16½ points. At least a score others, including International Business Machines, Greene Cananea Copper, Public Service of New Jersey, American Telephone and International Telephone yielded 1 to 2½ points.

NEW YORK, July 2.—McCall Corporation has acquired the Consolidated Magazines Company, publisher of the Red Book and the Blue Book, it was announced today, paying 25,000 shares of McCall Corporation stock, which has a market value of approximately $2,500,000.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, July 2.—(AP.)—The raw sugar market was firm today, with operators bidding 3.71, duty paid, for Cubas. Offerings, however, were firmly held at 3.77. Refiners showed no interest in the early market.

Raw futures opened 3 points higher to 1 point lower, with the support attributed to covering in the near months and the selling to producing interests in the more distant deliveries. Prices were firm early in the day, reflecting strength of the London market and the firmness of raw sugar. Reports that Cuba intended selling an additional 500,000 tons of the 1929 crop to countries other than the United States, as well as continued rumors that the single selling agency would be formed by Cuba in the near future, attracted some of the early support. A moderate amount of profit-taking developed on the advance, but the market was generally steady.

Refined was unchanged at 5.00 for fine granulated. A fair withdrawal demand continued, but no new business was reported.

Money Market.

LONDON, July 2.—(AP.)—Bar silver 24d per ounce. Money, 4½ per cent. Discount rates, short bills, 4¾@5⅛ per cent; three months, 5⅛ per cent.

Mr. Guggenheim said in his opinion the price of copper would be maintained at current levels and that the demand would continue satisfactory.

WEST. PUBLIC CONTINUES STRONG

Lone Star Reaches New High Ground; Foundry Up On Dividend Declaration

Approximately 5,000 shares of the issue changed hands in the first hour of trading. The movement today carried through the strong advance recorded by the stock during the past several sessions. Demand for the issue has been stimulated recently by reports that the property may find its way into a huge utility merger which may also involve Columbia Gas and Electric and possibly Lone Star Gas. All three companies are dominated by the Crawford interests who formed the Western Public Service Corporation last year. Columbia Gas has been one of the oustanding features of the utility trading in the New York market for several weeks while Lone Star Gas has been advancing slowly but steadily in the local market and also on the New York Curb. Lone Star reached new high ground here yesterday at 87 and bettered that figure today.

Declaration of a dividend of $1 a share on the common stock of the Pittsburgh Steel Foundry Corporation confirmed predictions heard in local trading circles last week when the stock displayed noticeable strength. On the opening this morning it was unchanged at 43½, but buying orders came into the market quickly when the dividend was announced and the stock moved into new high ground at 45. A comparatively small amount of the issue changed hands. A dividend of $1 a share was also declared on the stock last January. Union Steel Casting, another member of the local heavy industrial group, scored a run-up of 1½ points on a sale of an odd lot at 26½, comparing with its last previous price last week of 25.

In other sections the market was quiet, but prices held firm. There was no disposition to dump stocks on the money flurry in New York as the general assumption was that the high rate would prove of short duration.

Record-Breaking Number Of Better Dividends Paid.

By B. C. FORBES

THE record-breaking total of 233 improved dividend payments was announced last month. The previous peak was reached in December, 1927. A year ago the month's total was 163, and in 1927 only 137.

The records exclusively compiled for this column show that during June no fewer than 77 extra dividends were declared by industrial, public utility and railway companies. Initial payments also totaled 77. Stock dividends numbered 43, increased disbursements 23, back payments 7, while 6 companies resumed dividends.

THE six month's total of cheerful dividend declarations has far eclipsed those for the first half of last year. The total is exactly 1,900, compared with 916 a year ago.

How stockholders have fared in the way of treatment is brought out in the following table classifying the better dividends paid by each of the three main groups of dividend paying companies, industrials, public utility, railway:

	Ind.	P.U.	R.R.
Initial	311	26	2
Extra	298	9	2
Stock	143	14	2
Increased	110	16	4
Resumed	24	0	1
Back	30	1	0
Totals	916	64	20

SATISFACTORY comparison with last year is also made by the record of unfavorable dividend announcements. The total for the six months just ended was 64, against 83 a year ago, and 90 in the first half of 1927.

THE dividend facts here presented throw pleasant light on the course of industry and business and transportation during 1929. Not only has each month shown a gain over the corresponding month of last year, but the increase has become more notable month after month. This table gives comparative records since 1924:

	1929	1928	1927	1926	1925
February	126	98	81	72	64
March	196	99	93	102	81
April	159	70	60	60	34
May	166	78	68	54	42
June	233	163	137	98	67
Total, 6 mo.	1,000	619	528	473	357
July	93	60	54	36
August	108	63	57	39
September	135	104	85	82
October	133	83	69	54
November	153	136	103	96
December	227	205	184	147
Totals	1,468	1,179	1,025	811

IN ANALYZING the meaning of these figures, consideration must be given to the economic evolution now in rapid progress. Although the deluge of consolidations has meant the elimination of a number of dividend-paying companies from the list, this has been more than offset by two other developments, namely, the creation of many investment trusts, and the public flotation of concerns formerly privately owned. Investment trust didivends represent mainly dividends received from other companies included in the dividend statistics. Therefore, they are to be regarded largely as duplications. Closed corporations that become open corporations, swell the published dividend ranks, although the actual disbursements may not be any larger than were formerly paid to the few individuals in control.

Even after making all these allowances, however, the record cannot be interpreted as other than extremely encouraging.

WHAT are the dividend prospects for the second half of the year?

It is a foregone conclusion that the half-yearly reports which shortly will begin to appear, will reveal a great many very substantial increases in net profits. This is certain to be true alike of industrial, utility, railway and mining companies. Dividend announcements during the current quarter of the year are, consequently, bound to include many of a cheering nature.

Incidentally, the most interesting June announcement was Erie's declaration of resumed payments on both classes of preferred stock.

ONE result of the innumerable utility consolidations is likely to be the payment of many dividends in stock rather than in cash. The majority of America's strongest utility leaders believe in conserving cash to meet constantly increasing capital expenditures. Stock dividends have this other advantage: Income tax does not have to be paid on them.

Chrysler Increases Six Months Output

DETROIT, July 2.—Shipments of the Chrysler Corporation during the first six months of the year totaled 279,635 cars and trucks, an increase of 53,354, or 23.5 per cent, over the combined Chrysler and Dodge shipments during the same period last year.

Flintkote Co. Buys Logan-Long Plants

BOSTON, July 2.—C. E. Rahr, president of Flintkote Company states negotiations have been concluded for the purchase of the Atlanta, Ga., plant of Logan-Long Company of Chicago, effective today. Flintkote will operate the plant, producing asphalt shingles and roofings.

Consolidated Air Gets Navy Order

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Orders from the United States Navy for 61 standard navy training planes and for spare parts, equivalent to 13 additional planes, have been received by the Consolidated Aircraft Corporation.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, July 2. — (AP.) — Trading on the Curb market quieted down considerably today after a busy opening, as 15 per cent call money prompted traders to curtail operations until the mid-year credit storm blows over. The market generally, however, held fairly steady, save for some of the utilities.

Profit taking was particularly heavy in the initial transactions, Electric Bond and Share opening with a block of 16,000 shares, off nearly 7 points, and selling still a little lower by early afternoon. In view of the stock's recent rapid rise of about 40 points, the reaction, precipitated by profit taking on last night's announcement of the issue of rights, was not regarded as surprising.

Electric Investors was carried off a few points in sympathy, but soon more than regained its loss. American Gas and Electric made up about 3 points of yesterday's 10-point drop and a few other utilities managed to move forward, including American and Foreign Power warrants, Buffalo Niagara and United Gas Improvement.

Consolidated Gas of Baltimore and Long Island Lighting each jumped forward about 5 points. American Light and Traction, however, fell 11 points, and several of the Morgan-Bonbright shares were again under pressure, Commonwealth and Southern, American Superpower and Niagara Hudson losing around a point each.

The industrial issues were quiet. Hazeltine was again buoyant on its favorable patent suit decision, jumping about 5 points to a new peak at the opening, but losing much of its gain later. Checker Cab, Bristol Myers, Pitney Bowes, Hormel, U. S. Finishing and U. S. Gypsum were firm, and A. O. Smith moved up several more points in a small turnover. Fleischmann Royal was heavily bought, opening with a block of 25,000 shares, and moving into new high ground. Aviation stocks were dull, Keystone sagging a little. In the oils, Humble, Cosden and Gulf made some headway. Mines were practically neglected.

Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

LAST week's calm in money disappeared with a combination of circumstances forcing the call rate up from the renewal figure of 10 per cent, first to 12 per cent and later to 15 per cent, the latter rate duplicating the high of the mid-May settlement period reached on May 14. Heavy volume of funds estimated at $75,000,000 was wanted on the floor at the beginning of the final hour, with 17 per cent reported bid for money in the outside market. The pinch was ascribed as partly due to member bank adjustments at the reserve made necessary by last week's heavy borrowings, and partly to demand for funds arising from the expiration of several large issues of corporation "subscription rights." Payment for about $245,000,000 American Telephone & Telegraph bonds due with the expiration of "rights" accruing to shareholders of that company, also a substantial amount for Chesapeake & Ohio stock on "rights" expiring put a heavy burden on the market.

Advancing some 30 points on a nominal turnover with the rise carrying it to 400 for the first time on the present basis of capitalization, Otis Elevator was regarded as discounting an early split-up. Directors met two weeks ago for dividend action but nothing developed at that time. The report is that the stock will be split on a four-for-one basis. It was recalled that the common stock was given as a bonus at the time of organization with the sale of preferred stock. Split-ups and stock dividends which have come in the meantime have resulted in the present stock selling at levels equivalent to around $3,500 a share on the original issue. The last stock dividend was ordered in November, 1928, amounting to 15 per cent, with a cash extra of $1 a share being declared simultaneously. In 1927 a 25 per cent stock dividend was declared.

MOTOR stocks perked up with the publication by a number of the leading companies of their production figures for June. In most instances the total production for the month showed measurable increase over the same months, with output for the first half year almost 100,000 units ahead of 1928 period. Oldsmobile and Hudson made exceptionally good relative showings, output of these companies respectively running 34.6 per cent and 24.2 per cent ahead of the first half of last year.

Action of Continental Can recently has encouraged operators who have held a long position for some time. There has also been a good demand from outsiders, especially since the issue was able to get to a new high record during the past week. Continental is expanding so steadily that there should be progressive increases in earnings for some time. Of course, much depends upon the pace during the remainder of this year, but officials are credited with being optimistic on the outlook.

SINCE attention was first called to Remington Rand by some market observers, the stock has been showing a slow upward trend. A substantial improvement in business has occurred and profits of the company are said to be running about 100 per cent ahead of the same period of last year. It is expected in some quarters that before the close of the current year, Remington will be in position to develop an earning power at the annual rate of around $4 a share on common stock.

In public utility circles reports are to the effect that during 1929 American and Foreign Power will earn approximately double what was shown in 1928 and almost five times the results obtained in 1927. Company enjoys the best sort of sponsorship and expansion program has been vigorously carried on in the past few years.

MAY RAIL NET INCREASES

NEW YORK, July 2.—May railroad earnings were about in line with forecasts, with aggregate net railway operating income of 50 carriers showing a 16.9 per cent increase over same month of 1928. This increase was attained on only a 5 per cent gain gross, demonstrating the carriers' efficient control of operating expenses. While gains were well distributed geographically, the big trunk line and transcontinental systems made the outstanding reports. Car loadings for second week of June ran 6.6 per cent above same week of 1928, and set eleventh week of record loadings over a comparative period in any previous year. Another favorable development was resumption of preferred dividends by Erie after a 22-year interval. This action gave further evidence of Erie's complete rehabilitation under Van Sweringen management. Announcement of sale of Ford's railroad to a banking firm, believed to be acting for Pennsylvania Railroad, also was of interest.

Current prosperity of the carriers is finding constant reflection in railroad equipment business, several large contracts having been placed recently. June 1 unfilled orders for freight cars totaled 40,484 about double those a year ago. While orders for 324 locomotives compared with 111 on June 1, 1928. Indications point to a 1929 volume of freight car and locomotive business at least double 1928, orders to date in both instances having far exceeded entire 1928 totals.

Rail Merger Situation Clarified by Lines

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

THE filing of definite plans by three of the leading systems has done much to clarify the railroad consolidation situation and may eventually make it possible for the Interstate Commerce Commission to take action. Thus far the commission has claimed that it is unable to carry out the provisions of the Transportation Act requiring it to work out a railroad unification scheme.

After years of plotting behind the scenes, the carriers are now coming out into the open. They are laying their cards on the table and are asking the commission to pass upon the reasonableness of their proposals.

In 1925 the leading Eastern carriers drew up a four system plan which was never submitted to the commission. This plan received the approval of the Van Sweringens, the Baltimore and Ohio and the New York Central. The Pennsylvania, however, never agreed to the proposal.

Alliance Formed.

OF THE plans submitted recently, two filed by the Baltimore and Ohio and the Chesapeake and Ohio, a Van Sweringen road, show only minor variations from the original four-system plan.

The one filed on Monday by the Wabash is in direct opposition to this and advocates six principal systems. It is generally expected that the Pennsylvania will eventually file a plan conforming to the Wabash recommendations.

The New York Central has not made its position known recently, but it is generally believed that it will stand with the Van Sweringens in a demand for a four-system plan.

Disputed Lines.

THE Wabash plan comes into sharp conflict with the other two proposed systems in many respects. In the first place the Baltimore and Ohio wants the Wabash to be a part of its own system. In addition the B. and O. wants the Western Maryland and the Lehigh and New England.

The Van Sweringens want the Wheeling and Lake Erie for their own road, the Chespeake and Ohio.

Both the plans which the Wabash is opposing want control of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia to be divided between the four Eastern systems so that this local road would be merely a connecting link and not a nucleus for a new trunk line.

The Sixth System.

THE Wabash wants the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western to be made into a sixth trunk line system while the Van Sweringens contemplated making this a part of the Chesapeake and Ohio.

Further disparities will be brought to light when and if the Pennsylvaania files a petition. The grouping proposed by the Van Sweringens conflicts with the Pennsylvania's plans as expressed at the time of the four system discussions several years ago.

At that time the Pennsylvania wanted the Detroit and Toledo Short Line which recent proposals give to the Van Sweringens and the Baltimore and Ohio. Conflict also occurs as to the Virginian, the Pennsylvania claiming it should go to the Norfolk and Western, a line which it controls.

Montour Not for Sale.

ALL OF the plans have included the joint ownership of the Montour. The Wabash would have it owned by six systems and the other plans by four. The prinicpal trouble with both of these recommendations is that the Pittsburgh Coal Company, owner of the Montour, has not the slightest intention of selling.

This little railroad fits in perfectly with the coal company's operations by linking up a large number of its mines and coal cleaning plants. Under the present state of the coal market it is one of the few properties of the Pittsburgh Coal Company that is making any money. "I don't think we'll be weak-minded enough to sell it," said one official of the company.

In such a case as this the Interstate Commerce Commission could not force the Montour into any one of the railroad groups. It could force a railroad to dispose of stock in another road, but it could not force an individual or an industrial corporation to sell.

SAFE-T-STAT BOOKINGS

NEW YORK, July 2.—The Safe-T-Stat Company, a subsidiary of the Moto Meter Gauge and Equipment Corporation, is now operating at 35 per cent greater capacity with the Toledo plants running 24 hours a day, Roy G. Martin, president of the company, announced.

"During the first four months of the current year," Mr. Martin said, "the Toledo division of our company showed an increase of 60 per cent over the corresponding period a year ago. We are working there 24 hours a day. Orders now on the books of the company are more than sufficient to maintain this high rate of production for the remainder of the year."

Hupp Motor June Shipments Lower

DETROIT, July 2.—Hupp Motor shipped 25,641 cars in the six months to June 30, against 38,424 in the 1928 period.

Silk Sock Thrill Recognizes No Boundaries

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Silk stockings for women, by the records of American exports, are much more desired in Australia, South Africa, and the Argentine than in any other quarters of the world. In the latest monthly customs figures, these three zones imported about 9,000 dozen pairs each, while Great Britain got along with half as many, and other great countries like France and Germany needed practically none.

When it comes to silk socks for men, Cubans are by far the best world customers of the United States. They take more than 2,000 dozen pairs of silk socks a month, while Argentina males, who come next, get along with 1,300 dozen and the rest of the world is almost nowhere. In the matter of cotton socks for men, Cuba too, is nearly high, with a monthly consumption of 29,037 dozen pairs, only exceeded by the Canadian total of 31,000 dozen per month.

Leading metal scientists from other countries have sent word that they will attend to hear the important papers on the newest developments in the production, treating and use of metals as well as to see the demonstrations of new processes which will form an important part of the exposition.

Among those from foreign countries who are coming are such famous scientists as Kotara Honda and M. Suzuki, of Japan; F. C. A. H. Lantsberry, of England, and A. C. Aubert, of Paris. Leaders in the metal field in Germany, South America and other parts of the world also are contemplating a Cleveland visit.

Already more than 85 per cent of the space available for exhibits has been subscribed for by more than 200 exhibitors.

W. H. Eisenman, secretary of the Amerian Society for Steel Treating, who is in charge of preparations for the congress and exposition estimates that more than 75,000 people will see the products and machinery which will be displayed at the exposition.

Steel Stockholders Increase to 105,612

NEW YORK, July 2.—There were 105,612 holders of United States Steel Corporation common stock on the date of closing of books for the June dividend, an increase of 2,041 over the March figure and comparing with 98,236 a year ago.

124 BILLION CIGARETS

NEW YORK, July 2.—Cigaret production this year will reach the record total of approximately 124,000,000,000, if the production for the first five months is continued. Since January, 47,690,446,587 cigarets have been produced, as compared with 40,776,379,226, for the corresponding period last year, an increase of 16.95 per cent.

Record May production of over 11,000,000,000 brings the average monthly production for the first five months of 1929, up to 9,500,000,000 as against slightly over 8,000,000,000 for the same five months of 1928.

This indicated increase in production of approximately 17 per cent over the preceding year compares with an increase of 9 per cent in 1928, 8.56 per cent in 1927, 11.9 per cent in 1926, and 12.6 per cent in 1925 and is attributed by those in close touch with the industry to the process of purifying mild blends of tobacco by toasting and to the increase in smoking by women as a dietary aid to slenderness.

The return to the government in taxes on this estimated cigaret production for 1929 will come to approximately $371,800,000 as compared with $317,800,000, for 1928, if the present rate is maintained throughout the year.

SEES GAIN FOR WOOLWORTH

NEW YORK, July 2. — "The outlook for substantial gains in Woolworth's business for the current year is satisfactorily indicated at this time," Hubert T. Parson, president of F. W. Woolworth, stated before sailing on his annual two months' business trip abroad. "For the first six months ended June 30," he said, "sales are running at a sizeable increase over the same period a year ago, and at the current rate would indicate a volume of better than $310,000,000 for the full year."

In 1928, Woolworth reported a total sales volume of $287,313,687.

Mr. Parsons said that although the first six months' business was affected by various disturbances, such as excessive rains and the Mississippi flood, these factors were now behind, and that the company looked to the remaining six months to show a substantial gain in sales and earnings over the earlier part of the year. "Our expansion program for this year," he said, "calls for the opening of 90 additional stores in this country, 42 in England and 20 in Germany. We are opening stores in America today in locations that were considered impracticable a few years ago, and so far as I can see, the future limitation of Woolworth expansion can only be measured by the ever-increasing expansion of the country itself. Of course, it must be remembered that Woolworth has never borrowed to finance its expansion, and it will continue this policy, preferring to expand its resources cautiously and slowly. In England and Germany, he said, our stores are doing a highly gratifying business, and the pressing need for new stores was more in evidence each month."

F. W. Woolworth Company for the year ended December 31, 1928, showed net income of $35,385,606 after depreciation, federal taxes, etc., equivalent to $9.07 a share earned on 3,900,000 shares of stock then outstanding.

LEGGE'S NOVEL CAREER

WASHINGTON, July 2.—If A. H. Legge, president of the International Harvester Company, accepts President Hoover's invitation to head the new farm board and administer the government's $500,000,000 for farm relief, Washington officialdom will add a somewhat novel figure to its caste. A big man physically, he came up through the Harvester Company's service in proximate contact with the farm country all his life, and, though head of a notably successful industrial operation, holds the outlook of the countryman marvellously well.

One incident of his extraordinary individuality has long been recounted among his friends. Seven or eight years ago, after his promotion to the Harvester presidency, the board of directors decided to double his salary, knowing that Legge, by modern standards, was not a wealthy man. They were somewhat surprised to have him, after consideration, refuse the increase, the principal reason appearing to be that he didn't want it and didn't need it.

Faced with this refusal, the Harvester Company heads set the money they had intended to award him aside, and let it pile up, until the total had reached about $200,000. Then their president's wife died, and it was discovered that she had a small and semi-charitable relief enterprise which she had been long conducting out of her own funds, assisting girl clerks and stenographers of the Harvester Company in life's emergencies. It was suggested that this work might be perpetuated in her memory, by use of the untaken Legge salary increase, and the accumulated $200,000 went there.

Available history doesn't state whether the Harvester chief ever did take a salary increase after that, but it is considered certain that if President Hoover is successful in drawing him into government service now, his acceptance will involve further sacrifice of monetary reward.

June Transfer Taxes Exceed Last Year

ALBANY, July 2.—June stock transfer taxes totaled $2,679,735 against $3,145,967 in May and 1,967,048 in June, 1928.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, July 2.—(AP.)—The cotton market opened barely steady today at a decline of 2 to 7 points in response to relatively easy cables and favorable weather reports. October sold off to 18.14, but there was a fair scattering demand, which was supposed to include some trade buying at the decline and fluctuations during the early trading were rather irregular. October rallied about 7 points from the lowest, or 4 points above yesterday's closing quotations, but the advance was not fully maintained and July was relatively easy under some further liquidation, which was supposed to reflect the circulation of a few additional notices.

At the end of the first half hour the market was net 7 points lower to 2 points higher. Buying was promoted by continued reports of heavy boll weevil infestation.

Private cables said Liverpool had been influenced by general liquidation and short selling on the favorable view of weather conditions in the South and reports of a poor demand for cotton cloths.

The market was quiet later in the morning. July was relatively easy under further liquidation, but after selling off to 17.70, or about 15 points below yesterday's closing quotation, held fairly steady with the later months. The latter seemed to attract some covering and commission house buying, which was probably prompted by reports of very heavy weevil infestation and prospects for corresponding damage to the crop.

At midday October was ruling around 18.22, with new crop months generally showing net advances of about 5 to 7 points.

SURPLUS STIRS UP TALK OF TAX CUT

Mellon's Report on U. S. Financial Status Brings Mention of Reduction

WASHINGTON, July 2.—(AP.)—Tax reduction talk sounded forth today as a surprising $185,000,000 surplus was announced by the Treasury at the close of the government's business year, but it was only a murmur so far as administration tongues were concerned.

Asked whether there was any prospect of the Treasury recommending lowering of taxes in view of the good showing on the federal balance sheet, Secretary Mellon said that question had not been considered. He declined to amplify.

OFFICIAL SILENCE

The White House was silent on the subject, but varying views were expressed on Capitol Hill. The prevalent impression there was that the administration would sanction no cut before the regular congressional sessio.. in December, if then.

Chairman Hawley, of the House Ways and Mean. Committee, which must originate all tax legislation, withheld an opinion as to any tax slash pending a determination of how Federal receipts keep up and expenditures can be kept down for the year's remainder. If the situation is favorable in December, he thinks one will be "possible."

Chairman Smoot of the Senate finance committe, generally an administration spokesman on fiancial affairs, hastened to declare "nothing doing" as the cry for reduction was revived by Democrats on the committee.

Senators Simmons, of North Carolina, and Harrison, of Mississippi, ranking minority members of the finance committee, declared the tremendous surplus sustained their contentions for greater tax relief in the last revenue measure two years ago. Both intepd to press for tax reduction, but said they wanted to study the source of this year's surplus before outlining a program.

They described the surplus announcement, following predictions of a deficit, as "the same old story." The Democrats have contended recent administrations have been too conservative in the fiscal estimates, thereby forestalling more complete tax reduction.

TALK CONTINUES

The tax cut discussion is expected to continue more or less steadily until December, and to hinge largely on the $185,000,000 surplus, with a resulting crystallization of the divergent views as to how a tax cut should be applied. Secretary Mellon has taken a stand for a slash next in the earned income tax, and his views are weighty with the administration.

Hawley believes the corporation levy should receive attention whenever another paring down is undertaken. A reduction in or repeal of the inheritance tax is favored by many of the legislators, but widespread opposition to such a move is certain.

Senat.r Smoot pointed out that the Treasury believes most of the surplus is attributable to increased personal incomes during the last year resulting from stock market profits. He asserted that those who showed profits in stock market transactions last year are apt to show losses this year, and warned that these losses are deductible for income tax purposes.

Representative Hawley warned that increased expenditures are in sight for farm relief, construction of Boulder Canyon Dam in the Colorado River, and for Mississippi flood control work. If these costs are met without too much strain, he believes a reduction is possible.

Remington Rand Outlook Is Favorable

NEW YORK, July 2.—Remington Rand should show for the quarter ended June 30, between $1,400,000 and $1,500,000 after bond interest. Depreciation and Federal taxes, or between 75 and 85 cents a share on the estimated 1,334,000 common shares outstanding, or almost as much as in the quarter ended March 31.

Earnings for the year ended March 31, 1930, should be $6,100,000 or over $3.50 a common share against $2,937,760 or $1.15 a share in the year ended March 31, 1929.

The company is in good financial position with money loaned on call and two years sinking fund requirements on the bonds bought up and in the company's treasury.

CHEMICAL DROP SLIGHT

NEW YORK, July 2.—The volume of business in industrial chemicals has fallen off somewhat in the last month and while this is a normal seasonal development, which may be expected to continue during at least the next two months, the Standard Statistics Company, of New York, holds in its current survey of the industry that the decline will be smaller than usual this year. Most of the important users of heavy chemicals, steel and iron, petroleum refining, rayon, tires and rubber goods, paper and pulp, will probably consume somewhat more than their average requirements, more than compensating for the lessened demand expected from the fertilizer and textile industries. The survey continues:

"Those branches of the trade which are engaged in the production of industrial alcohol and of sulphur are currently benefiting from prices higher than a year ago, and a normal volume of demand. During the near term changes of importance in either respect are not expected.

"Obviously, then, profits will be maintained at a high level. For the first half of the year, we estimate that the average gain, as compared with the same period of 1928, has amounted to around 25 per cent. Moreover, it is our opinion that earnings for the third quarter of 1929 will show a substantial increase over the corresponding three months of last year, although the percentage of expansion is likely to be somewhat less than in the earlier months of the year.

"Research programs carried on by most of the leading firms in this industry tend toward the same end of promoting stability. For as soon as there are signs of disappearance of the public acceptance or use of any chemical, whether through the development of a superior substitute, or through the disappearance of the market, other markets and uses are sought for it. Moreover, new products are constantly being developed, effectively blocking any substantial decline in demand for chemicals, generally considered."

WHEAT PRICE OUTLOOK BETTER

Although Crops Have Been Curbed by Heavy Rains, Fair Yield Expected

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Possibility that the general wheat price situation this year may turn out somewhat better than was anticipated earlier in the season, due to the effect of bad weather on the size of the crop, is indicated by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, in its July 1 report on the farm situation.

"This month," says the bureau, "will largely tell the story as to wheat, but reports thus far have indicated a somewhat disappointing yield. There are certain dry areas in Kansas and up in the spring wheat territory where the crop has heade. rather short, while heavy rains have done considerable damage in the Southwest. Threshing returns from the southwest generally have not been up to expectations."

CROPS LOOK SPOTTED

All crops, declares the bureau, have arrived at mid-season looking rather spotted, the result of the late spring with too much rain, and followed by erratic streaks of drought and flood conditions. The northern half of the country has been in need of more rain for a month, although many local areas have been unable to tend their crops because of excessive rainfall.

Corn is reported late but doing very well in much of the western corn belt, whereas there are areas in Missouri, Illinois, Southern Iowa and elsewhere which show corn in all sorts of stages, with many fields recently replanted and many others choked with weeds, due to wet weather. Cotton on the other hand has made fairly good rogress. There is much improvement in the eastern clover and alfalfa crops over last year, but dry weather has hurt meadows in the Far West, where hay will be a short crop over some extensive areas.

A stronger market position for hog producers is reflected, says the bureau, in the June pig survey which indicates that the pig crop this spring was about 8 per cent smaller than last spring. The decrease in the 11 corn belt states was about 6 per cent. Breeding reports indicate that there will be about the same number of sows to farrow next fall as farrowed last fall.

It is expected that supplies of tree fruits probably will not be much in excess of the market demand this year, as conditions in the fruit belts are rather spotted and production generally will fall below last season's record. California grapes also will be in lighter supply as a result of the severe spring freeze. A well-sustained price level for potatoes is expected, although any trend toward especially high prices, the bureau believes, would be limited by a tendency to dig early in the main crop region.

NAVIGATION WARNING.
Navigation warning. River stages above Louisville indicate that it will be necessary to lower dams between Louisville and Evansville on the morning of June 29. Advantage will be taken of the lowering of the dams to remove the old wickets in the weir of Dam No. 43, all of which are in bad condition, and replace them with new wickets. It is anticipated that the work may require 10 days, according to river stages, and as a consequence there will be a few days delay in raising Dam 43 after the usual stage for raising the dam is reached. BUGS BAER Says

IN BEAUTIFUL FENDER PARK

"Bugs" Baer

RIGHT outside of every well manipulated town is a national reservation known as Fender Park.

In no spot on this green earth does junk grow more luxuriantly or busted springs sprout more profusely.

All of the mechanical vegetation of bountiful garages flourish there. But fenders abound. They are an eternal tribute to man's effort to do the traffic tango on a one-way street and a testimonial to lady drivers' efforts to make left turns during the rush hour.

Nobody knows the name of the philanthropist who donated the ground for Fender Park. The first thing you spot at the entrance is a wheelless limousine squatting on its axles like a benevolent joss.

Its headlights have winked at flirtatious traffic gendarmes for the last time. Its radiator looks like the remains of a platform on which an elephant did its setting-up exercises.

This relic is a monument to the right-of-way.

In a secluded nook is a flivver that stopped to graze on a grade-crossing. It still has its fenders but they are cauliflowered and blistered. The bees are using its tank for a hive in a futile endeavor to get 20 miles to a gallon of honey.

Over there is an orchard of broken gears which have ground their teeth in hopeless rage as a Sunday driver broke out of his cage on a Tuesday.

But prettiest of all, are the flowering fenders which dot their last lawn. They rise in rusty terraces, twine in beautiful fractured arcs around broken lamp-posts and shod their insured fragrance on prehistoric bills of sale.

Over there a bum is pawing over exploded seat cushions in an effort to find a piece of junk large enough to salvage. He is the curator of a museum of skids.

In the center of a lily pond of cylinders are two cars which kissed at the rate of 60 miles per sideswipe. They finished their tour of the end of a derrick.

Fender Park is magnificent in the summer time. But its crop will never be interested. Some day when you are in a philosophical mood take a stroll out to Fender Park. Ponder on man's inhumanity to pedestrian and then go out and steal yourself a bicycle.

Band Leader Albert Hayes announces that the fifteen-piece band will play tomorrow evening. We've had such tough luck, he said, that I'm almost afraid to say we'll play. But we'll do our best. George Schreiner has a big tarpaulin that can be stretched over the bandstand in case of a shower.

Mayor Suggests City Operate Garbage Plant

Mayor Kline has made a most sensible suggestion to the effect that the city should be prepared to take over the operation of garbage and rubbish collection as a municipal activity. In a letter to City Solicitor Waldschmidt, he directs that official, without further notice, to be in readiness to take over the plant and facilities of the American Reduction Company, one of the garbage contractors, in case the service of that company becomes impaired as a result of action by the city to force reimbursement of $1,000,000, alleged by City Controller Evans to have been overcharged.

The Mayor also looks to the future in his views on the garbage problem, which he thinks should go under municipal ownership and operation at the conclusion of the present contract, for one year, no matter what the outcome of the court ection to recover from the company may be. That is a step that appears to be advisable. It is not one to be taken too hastily, or without due survey, but the matter is one that should be looked into thoroughly.

Certainly, under present conditions, it appears that the city could not be a loser. The garbage problem here frequently has been a matter of complaint, both as to service and cost to the city, the public being satisfied with neither. It hardly seems that it could be worse off under municipal operation and the likelihood is that the change would be profitable, compared to the present method.

Air-Rail Coast-to-Coast Service Opens Next Week

Announcement by the Pennsylvania Railroad of the schedule of its rail-aerial service from coast to coast, preparations for which have been in the making for months, is interesting to Pittsburgh, stronghold of the Pennsylvania and an important point in the direct line of the new service, effective July 7, from New York.

That will be an important date in transportation history in the United States, the beginning of first transcontinental travel service in which train and airplane are combined. The time from Atlantic to Pacific will be 48 hours, involving two night train rides and three daylight airplane hops. The carriers are the Pennsylvania and Santa Fe railroads and the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc. Transfer points are Columbus, O., Portair, N. M., and Los Angeles, connecting with San Francisco by airplane.

July 8 Col. Lindbergh will pilot the first airplane in this epoch-making innovation, which requires but little imagination to vision as the forerunner of a network of similar lines. In doing so "Lindy" will be giving personal attention to patrons of a commercial business in which he is directly interested, as consulting aeronautical engineer of the Pennsylvania and chairman of the technical committee of Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc.

They Do Their Best.

Conan Doyle thinks the police should stop bothering spiritualistic mediums and any law that interferes with their "seances" should be abolished. There are 500 "Spiritist" churches in England, with an attendance of 100,000. Their growth is due to deaths in war time, and the desire of fathers and mothers for news of their sons.

Just why mediums should be made criminals and Spiritualists selected as the one religious sect excluded from the constitutional guarantees of religious liberty is a puzzle.

In every other religion the clergy are allowed to tell you what is going on in the other world, what happens when you get there. And they are allowed to take up collections, which is right.

Clergymen, often contradicting each other, cannot all be right. If some of them are allowed to be wrong, why not Spiritualists? In their way they give their followers what the followers want. And that is the blessing of all religion—it answers, satisfactorily, questions that really cannot be answered.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

A WOMAN in Camden, N. J., sued for $25,000 alienation of affections, and the jury gave her $40,000.

Things are looking up for our side.

American women buy $310,000,000 worth of ready-made cakes every year.

Which necessitates their being home very little. Only long enough to unwrap them and invite what is jokingly called "the head of the house" to cut himself a piece.

The women who attended the big benefit prize fight that provided about $150,000 worth of milk for poor children, watched the first rounds attentively. Then when the fighters began to get messed up, just before being sent to the cleaners, they watched their male escorts devotedly. The looks didn't mean a thing. They merely knew what they DID NOT want to see.

The women who attended the fight with the idea of becoming faint and commanding considerable attention, quickly abandoned the ideal. The men who took frails didn't know they were accompanied till the fight was over. And the women knew it. They're smart that way.

One woman devised a scheme of looking at the fight through partially closed eyelids after the battle got bluggy so that she could see the figures moving and know about what was going on, without seeing the gore.

You know, the way women look at a man when they are contemplating marrying him for his money, and only part of the picture is pleasant.

A lad of 17, on his way to work, dinner pail in hand, took the trouble to say good morning and smile pleasantly at a widow lady in New Haven whose home he passed each morning. He even offered to cut her lawn. She died and willed him $10,000,000.

A good household hint would be to teach your boys to say good morning.

(You can do it and still be a snob. Just look them up in Dunn and Bradstreet first.)

Bible Passages

David's Supplication

(Psalm 69; 1-13.)

SAVE me, O God; for the waters are come in unto my soul.

I sink in deep mire, where there is no standing. I am come unto deep waters, where the floods overflow me.

I am weary of my crying: my throat is dried: mine eyes fail while I wait for my God.

They that hate me without cause are more than the hairs of mine head; they that would destroy me, being mine enemies wrongfully, are mighty; then I restored that which I took not away.

O God, thou knowest my foolishness; and my sins are not hid from thee.

Let not them that wait on thee, O Lord God of hosts, be ashamed for my sake: let not those that seek thee be confounded for my sake, O Lord God of Israel.

I am become a stranger unto my brethern, and an alien unto my mother's children.

For the zeal of thine house hath eaten me up; and the reproaches of them that reproached thee are fallen upon me.

When I wept and chastened my soul with fasting, that was to my reproach.

I made sackcloth also my garment; and I became a proverb to them.

They that sit in the gate speak against me; and I was the song of the drunkards.

But as for me, my prayer is unto thee, O Lord, in an acceptable time: O God, in the multitude of thy mercy hear me, in the truth of thy salvation.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS.

"YES," says Jones at the club, "poor old Downs had an awful battle with his wife. They had it hot and heavy for four weeks anyhow, fighting every day and every night."

"What was it all about?" says young Bob Ask.

"Why, Downs had an idea he wanted the vacation this summer to be around the lakes in Minnesota, where he knows the fish. She wanted to go to the world's fair in Spain, where she could show off her clothes to the kings. So they had a long battle."

"How did it come out.?"

"Huh? What you say?"

"I say, how did they settle it? Did they go to Minnesota or to Spain?"

"Oh! Why, Bob, I thought you was married!"

GOING—GOING—GONE!

By Herbert Kaufman

THE ornately carved, golden oak sideboard near the stairs couldn't be manufactured today for a thousand dollars. It won't bring fifty under the hammer.

Recent modes in home decoration resent its flamboyant spirit, so somebody, who can't afford to be pernickety in such matters, will obtain a piece of furniture designed for a nabob, at less than the cost of the unworked wood.

That onyx pedestal, with its chiseled ormolu capital and basebands, was the pride of a Fifth avenue household before good taste banished over-emphasized elegance, and condemned it to wander from sale to sale, until today it reaches the final degradation of an auction basement.

What-nots and gew-gaws: Victorian horrors in gilded wood and strident plushes; a hand-tufted Austrian carpet woven to special order, but whose cacophonous patterns, mustard yellows, livid reds and browns, defy even the re-dyer's strongest pigments; a marble-topped wash stand, panelled with burled walnut, sound and sturdy as the day it left Trumbull's workshop, but jobless in any home with modern plumbing.

OBSOLETE wardrobes and a panoply of papier-mache armor, relic of the cozy corner era—all out of step with the times, therefore EN ROUTE to the hall room, tenement and the junker's bench.

No one debates their quality or doubts the sincerity of the craftsmanship lavished upon them—they don't just conform to present ideas.

And a busy, pre-occupied world hasn't the patience to readapt them—any more than it bothers to find holes for the odd-sized human pegs who cling to old-fashioned habits of thought and action, and still wear leg-o'-mutton sleeves and padded shoulders on their brains.

ECCENTRIC merchandise and folk, alike, soon clutter the bargain counter. Progress and vogues are pitiless forces.

Men and women behind the procession have the SAME market value as a bangle bracelet or a stranger's crayon portrait.

The perfect penman, who didn't learn to run a typewriter and adding machine, is sitting on a park bench instead of a bookkeeper's stool.

And the coachman, who wouldn't drop reins and whip to seize the steering wheel, like Othello, belatedly discovers that his occupation's gone.

The price of survival is utility. If your mind and methods belong to another generation, overhead won't waste standing room on you.

EXPERIENCE becomes useless when it ceases to serve contemporary tasks.

Drop in at the next storage warehouse sale and watch what happens to misfits. That's where you'll land if you don't bring your stock of notions to date.

Hand-painted sofa cushions, CHENILLE lambrequins, gilded spinning wheels, pyrograph picture frames—hatracks, brass beds and gas chandeliers—shaving mugs, hassocks and tassel portieres—poor and trashy ephemera; violators of line and classic traditions; cheap, tawdry products of fleeting crazes—fundamentally wrong by every canon that rules the arts; tried, found wanting, and ejected.

Stick to basic principles, study current trends, revise, review and conform—or vanish with them.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

YOUNG MRS. WILSON is mad at the whole human race. She says we're a bunch of evil-thinking, cold-hearted selfish cowards, incapable of appreciating noble acts.

Mrs. Wilson did a noble act, and she certainly was NOT appreciated. She took in that Allen girl—the one who got herself so talked about last winter. Her husband told her it wouldn't work.

"The neighbors will say you're no better than she is," he warned.

But Dorothy Wilson wouldn't believe it. "Folks aren't uncharitable like that any more," she cried. And sent for the Allen girl.

Now she knows that Jim was right. For within a week the other ladies were giving her the dog eye over the bridge tables and knocking her over the phone.

Poor little Dorothy is terribly hurt. She vows she'll never do a fine thing again—says it doesn't pay. She's wrong. Noble acts may not be popular, BUT THEY ARE ALWAYS PROFITABLE.

Crusaders always have a tough time of it. There's a reason for that. The conventional human program is based on the amount of courage, intelligence and brotherly love possessed by the average citizen. Which isn't much. He's a good guy, but he can't attend to much more than his regular chores. If he's kind to his family and loyal to his community that's about his limit. He doesn't understand unusual people or acts. He's afraid of them. He thinks they are a menace to his world. And naturally he's going to criticize anyone who violates his little safe n' sane code.

That's all right. People who take on themselves the responsibility of doing more dangerous and difficult feats than other folks should expect criticism. YOU CAN'T BLAZE TRAILS AND AT THE SAME TIME SIT SNUG AND WARM IN THE FAMILY CIRCLE.

People like Mrs. Wilson who do unusually brave and generous acts, beyond the comprehension of smaller natures, are trail blazers. They are doing more than good deeds for distressed individuals. They are clearing a way into a finer civilization for all humanity. But while they're doing it they must pay the price. And sometimes the price is heavy.

Joan of Arc paid the price—so did Socrates and Lincoln. They gave greatly to humanity, but no one handed them much applause while they were doing it.

IF YOU HAVE THE COURAGE AND INTELLIGENCE TO BE A CRUSADER, BE ONE!

BUT MAKE UP YOUR MIND BEFOREHAND THAT IT WILL COST YOU PLENTY—AND DON'T WHINE WHEN THE ACCOUNT COMES DUE.

IF THE THING YOU HAVE DONE IS REALLY NOBLE—THEN IT'S WORTH ANY PRICE MEN MAY MAKE YOU PAY.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Sonnet

I AM in love with Summer and the sun
And all this shining round of golden days
And sapphire nights of which the weeks are spun,
With all this witchery of wistful ways.
Now I can gaze through beauty's rainbow glass,
With avid eyes can seek each item there,
The arabesques of shadow on the grass,
The lacy robes the waving willows wear,
And memory will gather all this gold
Of pleasant fields, this green of singing leaves
To con again when Winter nights are cold
And sullen rain is dripping from the eaves.
So when life's Winter comes with chill and gloom,

Isn't It So?

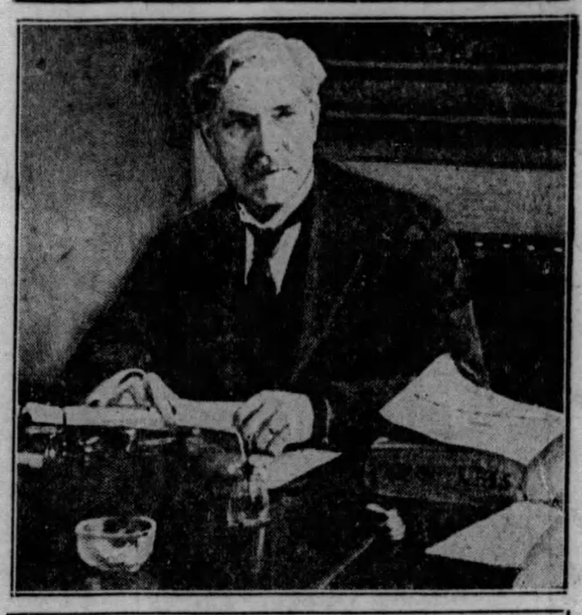
Mr. Ramsey MacDonald, A Worker

A Really Fine Man.



RAMSAY MACDONALD, GREAT BRITAIN'S LABOR AND SOCIALISTIC PRIME MINISTER.

HOW those words "labor and socialism" would sound in the ears of American high finance!

HOW this country would tremble, shiver and take to the tall woods if there were even the FAINTEST POSSIBILITY of a Socialistic labor man being put at the head of our government!

The thing was recently done again in Great Britain, and the British Empire does not worry.

Above is the man that labor produced and that the British made Prime Minister.

This is the man to whom the British King and Emperor of India handed the seals of office, making him, Ramsay MacDonald, Labor man and Socialist, the most powerful individual in all the British Empire, 10,000 times as powerful as the King himself.

Ramsay MacDonald's business is to run the Empire, subject to the "Commons." The business of the king is to act in accordance with Ramsay MacDonald's decisions.

MacDonald has a fine face, that of a man who worked hard in his youth as a laborer, EDUCATING HIMSELF WHILE HE WORKED.

He is a man to be honored, not to be feared, by wealth or poverty.

Fortunate the nation that, like Great Britain, can trust control of government to one born in a palace, or to one born in the humble cottage of a simple workman, and be sure of good service from both.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, July 2.—The yokelism streaking Broadway is wider than the south side of the old barn and as pronounced as the new little pill ad on the roof. Scratch the city slicker and there's the yap! Rackets that expire over night at the Weeping Willow street carnival run on for years here.

All New York is familiar with the fake auctions. They sell jewelry along "the street that whips the universe" that turns green before you get it home. Two museums stressing social ills flourish and the flea circus is in its fifth year on a sophisticated strip of West Forty-second street.

A half dozen spielers in shiny serge make from $10 to $15 a day hawking patent collar buttons and such by the library wall. The cellar cabaret take-joints in the Forties are often five to a block. The cane-you-ring is the-cane-you-get pitch operates on Sixth avenue near the Hippodrome.

This spring a sex lecturer played several weeks engagement at one prominent theater and then moved to another with more capacious seating. He gave dollar matinees for "men only" and there were other sessions attended solely by breathless ladies.

He had a sleek professional manner and offered along with his lecture his live models—labeled Miss Sub Thyroid, Miss Pituitary and a Miss Adrenal. At the auspicious moment he unfurled the curtain that revealed the coy ladies in bathing suits in their cabinets.

It was interesting to watch the men's matinee arrivals. They would walk briskly up to the theater, glance about furtively and scurry in with the haste of frightened rabbits. The professor explained how to select a mate and backed it up with his book for another dollar.

There was nothing in his flowery lecture, despite his "twenty years' consummate research in the laboratory of life" that has not been featured in patent medicine pamphlets aimed to reach puny gentlemen with endoctrine perplexities. But New York ate it up.

The prankish in the skyscraper area are whiling away hot summer days with nice clean fun. They have office boys learn the names of men and women they can see across the way from their windows. Then, gazing at them, they phone they are trying out a new television advice. "You are red headed, bobbed, you are chewing gum, sitting at a glass topped desk, etc.," or "You are wearing a gray suit, red four-in-hand tie, there is a calendar on your desk, etc.". The victims push back their eyes and wander around in a daze the rest of the day.

No one seems to have stressed that Lindbergh presaged the new type of heart crusher. Rudy Vallee bears a strinking resemblance to the Colonel. Vallee is tall, blonde, tousle headed, blue eyed, shy and a trifle loose jointed. After all, most of us were fed up with the sleek-haired, swarthy, side-burned Valentino types which became so standardized. It was getting so every fellow with black hair larded it up and passed for a shiek. Ladies, it appears, also prefer blondes.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

"I WAS in the same room in school with Mr. So-and-So, when we were boys, but he has advanced so far ahead of me that I don't believe he would care to meet me now," said a man in the early fifties, the other day.

No man should have such a feeling about an old classmate.

The really big man never loses interest in those he knew when he was a boy.

Because a former school mate has not progressed as far as he, is not a reason for not feeling friendly to a less fortunate boyhood friend.

A large calibered man never ceases to have an interest in his associates of youthful days.

The person in the most humble position should not feel that way about a real fellow because he has made good and better.

Go and call on your former school mates whenever you have an opportunity; successful or otherwise it will do you both good to shake hands.

A visit with a man who is as big as his job, would help a lot in getting away from the inferiority complex that some men have and from which they must free themselves before they too can succeed.
